RESOLUTION.

APPOINTMENT.

Dated Darjeeling, the 24th June, 1907.

THE seat in the Bengal Legislative Council of the Hon'ble Babu Jogendra Nath Mukharji, who was nominated as the representative of the District Boards of the Bhagalpur Division on the 11th September, 1905, will be vacated on the 10th September, 1907.

In the same paragraph, a sketch was given of the form which the rotation would probably assume, but it was mentioned that the Lieutenant-Governor could not bind himself or his successors as to the exact order in which the privilege would in future be exercised.

3. As there would otherwise be no member representing Bihar on the Council, when the Hon'ble Babu Jogendra Nath Mukharji vacates his seat, the Lieutenant-Governor has decided that the District Boards of the Patna Division should be allowed the privilege of recommending a person for nomination to the Council in order to fill the vacancy. A notification will, therefore, be published in the Calcutta Gazette specifying the District Boards of the Patna Division as the group of Boards on whose recommendation the Lieutenant Governor will make a nomination to the seat.

4. The following statement shows the District Boards which will send delegates to vote for a person to be recommended for the vacant seat and the number of votes assigned to them according to the scale shown in paragraph 5 of the Resolution of this Government, No. 2307A., dated the 31st March, 1897:—

Division.	District Boards.	Ordinary income (1905-1906).	Number of votes to be recorded by the representatives.

5. Under Rule IV of the Regulations framed by the Governor-General in Council with the approval of the Secretary of State under section 1 (4) of the Indian Councils Act, 1892, for Bengal, the Lieutenant-Governor desires that the Commissioner of the Patna Division will at once address the Chairmen of the District Boards enumerated in the above list, requesting them (i) to convene a special meeting of their Boards on some date between the 9th and 17th August at which one member of the Board should be selected to represent them for the purpose of making the recommendation for the seat in Council and (ii) to submit the names of any candidates for the Council who may offer themselves for recommendation.

6. The period of three months laid down in Rule VII of the Regulations as that within which a recommendation shall be made to the Lieutenant-Governor will run from the date on which the Commissioner of the Division issues his request to the Chairmen of the District Boards.

7. All candidates for the Council should be proposed and seconded by two members of one of the District Boards included in the group; and their names, addresses and qualifications, with those of their proposers and seconders, should be reported to the Commissioner by the Chairman of the Board to which the proposer and seconder in each case belong, so as to reach him not later than the 15th July. It will be the business of each Chairman to see that this is done.

8. The Commissioner should enter the names of candidates who have been duly proposed and seconded, with those of their proposers and seconders, and the other particulars above noted as they reach him, in a list to be kept for the purpose; and he should circulate this list to all District Boards included in the group, so as to reach them before the 9th August. On the date on which the meeting for the purpose of appointing a representative is held, the list of candidates mentioned above should be circulated to each member present at the meeting. It will rest with the District Boards, if they see fit, to give clear and definite instructions to their representatives as to the way in which they should vote, that is, as to the candidate for whom they should vote, declaring the name of the candidate to whom all their votes should be given or, if to be given to more than one candidate, the order and manner in which such votes should be given.

9. As soon as the representatives have been selected, they will be called upon by the Commissioner of the Division to meet together on a date not later than the 15th September if possible, and at such convenient place as he may specify, for the purpose of electing, by a majority of votes, a person whom they will recommend to the Lieutenant-Governor to be nominated as a member of the Council.

10. The electoral representatives present at this meeting shall elect one of themselves to be Chairman, and he shall preside and be responsible for the fair and proper conduct of the voting.

11. The names of all candidates entered on the list mentioned above together with those of their proposers and seconders, shall be read out by the Chairman, and the representatives shall then proceed to vote. The person elected must obtain a majority of the votes of the representatives present. If on the occasion of the first vote an absolute majority is not obtained, the name of the candidate who obtains the least number of votes shall be withdrawn from the election, and another vote shall then be held for the remaining candidates, and so on until an absolute majority is obtained.

12. The Chairman of the meeting shall without delay report to the Commissioner of the Division the name of the person elected, with the number of votes obtained, and any other information which it may appear desirable to communicate, and he shall, on behalf of the meeting, recommend to the Lieutenant-Governor the nomination to the Council of the person so elected. The Commissioner shall submit the report from the Chairman of the meeting, with any observations he may wish to add, to the Chief Secretary to the Government, by whom the recommendation will be submitted to the Lieutenant-Governor.

13. Attention is drawn to Rule VI of the Regulations which have been framed by the Governor-General in Council with the approval of the Secretary of State, which runs as follows:—

VI.—It shall be a condition in the case of any person to be recommended by a Municipal Corporation or group of Municipal Corporations that he shall be a person resident within the Municipality or the district in which it is situated, or in some one of the Municipalities constituting the group or of the districts in which they are situated.

A similar condition shall also apply to persons to be recommended by District Boards.

Explanation.—A person is not "resident" within the meaning of this rule unless he has a place of residence in the locality concerned, and such practical connection with that locality as qualifies him to represent the inhabitants thereof.

If at any time the question is raised whether a person proposed for election is "resident" within the meaning of this rule, the question shall be referred to, and decided by, the Local Government whose decision shall be final.

Under this rule it is not necessary that the person recommended should be a member of any District Board concerned, but he must be resident within the Division from which the recommendation is made. Subject to this condition, the rules declare no limit of qualification.

14. It is desirable that the subsidiary arrangements now sanctioned shall, as far as possible, be given effect to by the District Boards concerned with the minimum amount of official interference. The Divisional Commissioner and the District Magistrates will, of course, afford any assistance which may be required, and will do their utmost to facilitate the smooth working of the elections; but Government officers are forbidden to take part, directly or indirectly, in the election by canvassing, influencing votes, or otherwise interfering with the free choice of the District Boards. No indication should be given by any official member of any of the District Boards concerned as to the manner in which he himself intends to vote.

ORDERED that a copy of this resolution be furnished to the Commissioner of the Patna Division for information and guidance, and for communication to the District Boards in his Division.

ORDERED also that a copy be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

E. A. GAIT,

Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Kundsen's Barograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. The rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

o, overcast; g, dark gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers; ●, continued rain; q, squally; ●, strong wind.

(6) Should the Commissioner of Police, at any time after a car or cycle has been registered, have reason to believe that it has become defective in any such respect, or that it has not been maintained in such a condition as to prevent danger to the public, he may, after notice to the owner, direct that the registration be cancelled until such time as the defects are rectified to his satisfaction.

5. (1) No motor-car or motor-cycle shall be used, unless the number referred to in the preceding rule is attached to it in a conspicuous place, and to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Police, in large white figures on a black ground, legible at a reasonable distance, on the front and back of the car or cycle, and on the back of any vehicle drawn by the car or cycle.

Except as provided in Part III, rule 21 (4) of these rules, each figure and letter on a motor-car must be at least 3½ inches high, with a margin of half-an-inch both above and below it, and a margin of an inch on either side thereof. (2) During the time when lamps are required by Rule 6 to be kept lit, the number at the back of the car, or of any vehicle drawn behind it or behind a motor-cycle, or the number in front of a motor cycle, shall be illuminated in a manner to be approved by the Commissioner of Police, so as to be legible at a reasonable distance; but it is not necessary that the number-plates for day and for night use should be the same.

(3) The said numbers shall not be in any way obscured, or rendered or allowed to become not easily distinguishable.

6. (1) To every motor-car or vehicle drawn behind a motor-cycle, when in use at night, shall be attached two lamps, one on either side, exhibiting a white light forward, visible within a reasonable distance. A red light similarly visible shall also be exhibited in the reverse direction either by the said lamps or by a separate lamp attached to the back of the car or vehicle drawn behind a car or cycle.

(2) Every motor-cycle, when in use at night, shall carry a lamp in front, exhibiting a white light forward, visible within a reasonable distance.

(3) The said lamps shall be kept lit and free from all obstructions so long as the car or cycle is in use during the period between half-an-hour after sunset and half-an-hour before sunrise.

9. A motor-car or motor-cycle shall not be driven in a street or public place recklessly or negligently, or at a speed or in a manner which is likely to endanger human life or to cause hurt or injury to any person or animal or damage to any goods carried in any vehicle or by any person, or which would be otherwise than reasonable and proper having regard to all the circumstances of the case, including the nature, condition and use of the street or public place and to the amount of traffic which is actually on it at the time, or which may reasonably be expected to be on it. * * * * *

10. A motor-car or motor-cycle shall not be driven on any footway nor shall such be driven in any street or public place where such traffic may for the time being be prohibited by the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, or by the Magistrate of Howrah, as the case may be, as being especially dangerous.

11. (1) The person in charge of a motor-car or motor-cycle shall cause the car or cycle to stop and to remain stationary so long as may reasonably be necessary—

PART II—FOR LIGHT MOTOR-CARS AND MOTOR-CYCLES ONLY.

18. A light motor-car or motor-cycle shall not be used, unless it is provided with two independent brakes or other means of stoppage approved by the Commissioner of Police in good working order and of such efficiency that the application of either will be capable of forthwith stopping the car or cycle.

19. A light motor-car or motor-cycle shall under no circumstances be driven at a greater speed than 12 miles an hour,

PART III.—FOR HEAVY MOTOR-CARS ONLY.

20. In this part—

(a) The expression "registering authority" means, in relation to a heavy motor-car, the authority by whom the heavy motor-car has been, or can be, registered, in pursuance of the Bengal Motor-Car and Cycle Act.

(b) The expression "axle-weight" means, in relation to an axle of a heavy motor-car, or of a trailler, the aggregate weight transmitted to the surface of the road or other base whereon the heavy motor-car or the trailler moves or rests, by the several wheels attached to that axle when the heavy motor-car, or the trailler, is loaded.

(c) The expression "registered axle-weight," in relation to an axle of a heavy motor-car, means the axle-weight of that axle, as registered by the registering authority in pursuance of these Rules.

(d) The expression "width," in relation to the tyre of a wheel, means the distance measured horizontally and in a straight line across the circumference of the wheel and between the two points in the outer surface of the tyre which are farthest apart.

(e) The expression "diameter," in relation to a wheel, means the diameter measured between the two opposite points in the outer surface of the tyre which are farthest apart.

(f) The expression "weight," in relation to a heavy motor-car or trailler when unladen, means the weight of the vehicle including all parts, equipment, stores, fuel, water or accumulators necessary or ordinarily used with the car when working; and in relation to a heavy motor-car or trailler when laden the expression means, in addition, the full lawful load, including the weight of the driver. Where alternative parts or bodies are used, the heavier shall be taken for the purpose of calculating unladen weight.

21. (1) On every application to a registering authority for the registration of a heavy motor-car, the owner shall declare—

(a) the weight of the heavy motor-car unladen;

(b) the axle-weight of each axle;

(c) the diameter of each wheel; and

(d) the width of the tyre.

(2) (a) Before a heavy motor-car is registered, the weight of the car unladen, and, if the registering authority so direct, the axle-weight of each axle of the car, shall be ascertained by or in the presence of an officer of the registering authority. That officer shall certify the weight or weights so ascertained, and shall make any necessary correction in the statement of weights declared by the owner.

(b) The officer of the registering authority shall also satisfy himself that the tyres of the wheels of the car, if the tyres are not pneumatic, or are not made of a soft or elastic material, are of the dimensions required by the Rule 23.

(c) The owner of a heavy motor-car shall, for the purpose of this condition, cause the motor-car to be driven or brought to any such place as the registering authority may appoint.

(3) Upon the registration of a heavy motor-car—

(a) the weight of the heavy motor-car unladen, as certified as aforesaid,
(b) the axle-weight of each axle,
(c) the diameter of each wheel,
(d) the width and material of the tyre of each wheel, and
(e) the highest rate of speed at which, in conformity with the Rules, the heavy motor-car may be driven without a trailler, shall be entered in the register of motor-cars.

(4) Upon receiving from the registering authority a copy of the entries made in the register relating to a heavy motor-car, the owner of the heavy motor-car shall cause—

(i) the registered weight of the heavy motor-car unladen,
(ii) the registered axle-weight of each axle,
(iii) the highest rate of speed at which, in conformity with the Rules, the heavy motor-car may be driven without a trailler, and to be painted, or otherwise plainly marked, in the first and second case, upon some conspicuous part of the right or off side of the heavy motor-car, and, in the third and fourth cases, upon some conspicuous part of the left or near side of the heavy motor-car.
(iv) the owner's name and address,

The owner of the heavy motor-car shall cause the aforesaid particulars to be painted or marked in letters and figures not less than one inch in height, and of such shape and colour as to be clearly legible and clearly distinguishable from the colour of the ground whereon the letters and figures are painted or marked, and he shall cause all the paint or marking to be from time to time repaired or renewed as often as may be necessary to keep the said letters and figures clearly legible and clearly distinguishable.

(5) The owner of a heavy motor-car which has been registered before, and which is in use at the commencement of the operation of these Rules, shall within one month thereafter either cause the heavy motor-car to be registered anew, or shall cause the heavy motor-car to be brought before an officer of the registering authority with whom the heavy motor-car has been already registered.

In either case the procedure prescribed by this Rule shall be followed with respec to the heavy motor-car as if it were a heavy motor-car the owner whereof is for the first time an applicant for registation; but in the latter case no registration fee shall be charged by the registering authority in respect of the heavy motor-car.

The registering authority shall furnish the owner of a heavy motor-car with a certificate, in an appropriate form, to the effect that the procedure prescribed by this Rule has been followed, and that the heavy motor-car may be used on a highway without further registration.

On the expiration of one month from the commencement of the operation of these Rules, a heavy motor-car which has been registered before the commencement of the Rules, and in respect of which the procedure prescribed by this Rule has not been followed, shall not, except for the purpose of being registered, be used on any highway until the heavy motor-car has been registered anew; and all previous registration of the heavy motor-car shall cease to have effect.

(6) Nothing in the Rules shall have effect so as to require the registering authority to register a heavy motor-car which does not in all particulars satisfy each condition rendered applicable by the Rules to the heavy motor-car, or in respect of which there has been a failure to comply with the procedure by this Rule.

22. (1) The axle-weight of an axle of a heavy motor-car shall not exceed the registered axle-weight.

(2) The registered axle-weight of an axle of a heavy motor-car shall not exceed eight tons, and the sum of the registered axle-weights of all the axles of a heavy motor-car shall not exceed twelve tons.

23. (1) The tyre of each wheel of a heavy motor-car shall be smooth, and shall, where the tyre touches the surface of the road or other base whereon the heavy motor-car moves or rests, be flat:

Provided that the edges of the tyre may be bevelled or rounded to the extent in the case of each edge of not more than half-an-inch.

Provided also that, if the tyre is constructed of separate plates, the plates may be separated by parallel spaces which shall be disposed throughout the outer surface of the tyre, so that nowhere shall the aggregate extent of the space or spaces in the course of a straight line drawn horizontally across the circumference of the wheel exceed one-eighth part of the width of the tyre.

(2) The width of the tyre of each wheel of a heavy motor-car shall be determined by such of the following conditions as may apply to the circumstances of the case; that is to say—

(a) the width shall in every case be not less than five inches;

(b) the width shall be not less than that number of half inches which is equal to the number of units of registered axle-weight of the axle to which the wheel is attached.

The unit of registered axle-weight shall vary according to the diameter of the wheel and the Rules set forth in the subjoined scale; that is to say—

(i) if the wheel is three feet in diameter, the unit of registered axle-weight shall be seven and-a-half hundredweights;

(ii) if the wheel exceeds three feet in diameter, the unit of registered axle-weight shall be seven and-a-half hundredweights with an addition of weight in the proportion of one hundredweight for every twelve inches by which the diameter is increased beyond three feet; and in the same proportion for any increase which is greater or less than twelve inches; and

(iii) if the wheel is less than three feet in diameter, the unit of registered axle-weight shall be seven and-a-half hundredweights, with a deduction of weight in the proportion of one hundredweight for every six inches by which the diameter is reduced below three feet; and in the same proportion for any reduction which is greater or less than six inches.

(3) This Rule shall not apply to any tyre which is pneumatic, or which is made of a soft or elastic material.

24. A heavy motor-car shall not be used, unless it is provided with two independent brakes or other means of stoppage approved by the Commissioner of Police, in good working order, and of such efficiency that the application of either will be capable of forthwith stopping the heavy motor-car; provided that one brake will suffice in the case of a heavy motor-car propelled by steam.

25. The speed at which a heavy motor-car having non-resilient tyres is driven on any highway shall not exceed 5 miles an hour:

Provided that—

(a) if the weight of a heavy motor-car unladen exceeds three tons, or

(b) if the registered axle-weight of any axle exceeds six tons, or

(c) if the heavy motor-car draws a trailler, the speed shall not exceed 3½ miles an hour.

Provided also that—

If the heavy motor-car has all its wheels fitted with pneumatic tyres, or with tyres made of a soft or elastic material, the speed at which the heavy motor-car may be driven on any highway shall not exceed—

(a) twelve miles an hour—where the registered axle-weight of any axle does not exceed six tons; and

(b) six miles an hour—where the registered axle-weight of any axle exceeds six tons.

26. The diameter of a wheel of a heavy motor-car, if the wheel is fitted with a tyre which is not pneumatic or is not made of a soft or elastic material, shall be not less than 3 feet.

27. (1) The owner of a trailler shall cause to be painted, or otherwise plainly marked, upon some conspicuous part of the right or off side of the trailler, in letters and figures not less than one inch in height, and of such shape and colour as to be clearly legible and clearly distinguishable from the colour of the ground whereon the letters and figures are painted or marked,—

(a) the weight of the trailler unladen; and

(b) the axle-weight of each axle of the trailler, if the weight of the trailler unladen exceeds one ton.

He shall cause the paint or marking to be from time to time repaired or renewed, as often as may be necessary, to keep the said letters and figures clearly legible and clearly distinguishable.

(2) The Rules so far as they relate to the width of the tyres and the size of the wheels of a heavy motor-car, the wheels whereof are fitted with tyres which are not pneumatic or are not made of a soft or elastic material, shall, with the necessary modifications, apply and have effect with respect to a trailler exceeding one ton in weight unladen, with the substitution in the Rules of three inches for five inches as the minimum width of the tyres, and of references to the axle-weights painted or marked upon the trailler in pursuance of this Rule for references to registered axle-weights.

(3) The axle-weight of an axle of a trailler shall not exceed four tons.

(4) Every trailler shall be constructed with suitable and sufficient springs between each axle and the frame of the trailler.

(5) A heavy motor-car which is used either as a stage carriage or otherwise for the conveyance of passengers for gain or hire shall not draw a trailler.

(6) Not more than one trailler shall ordinarily be drawn by a heavy motor-car; provided that the registering authority may, for special reasons to be recorded by him, permit more than one trailler to be drawn by a heavy motor-car, upon such conditions, if any, as he may prescribe in such order.

28. When a registering authority or any officer duly authorized by him has reasonable ground for ascertaining whether the axle-weight for the time being of any axle of the heavy motor-car or of the trailler drawn by the heavy motor-car exceeds the registered or marked axle-weight of that axle, he may require the person driving or in charge of the heavy motor-car to drive the heavy motor-car with or without the trailler, or to cause the heavy motor-car to be driven with or without the trailler to the weighing machine, and the said officer may then cause the axle-weight for the time being of any axle to be ascertained; and the person driving or in charge of the heavy motor-car shall comply with any such requirement, and shall, to the best of his ability, afford all such facilities as may reasonably be necessary for the purpose of ascertaining the axle-weight as aforesaid.

29. No person shall cause or permit to be used on any highway, or shall on any highway drive or have charge of, a heavy motor-car or a trailler which is not in all respects in accordance with the Rules, so far as they relate to the use and construction of heavy motor-cars or traillers, as the case may be, or which is so used or driven as to contravene the Rules:

Provided that during a period of one month after the commencement of the operation of these Rules any failure to comply with the Rules so far as they relate to the use or construction of heavy motor cars or traillers shall not be deemed to be a breach or contravention of the Rules, if the failure occurs solely in relation to a heavy motor-car registered before, or to a trailler which is in use at, the commencement of the operation of these Rules.

30. (1) Where any authority who is liable for the repair of a bridge forming part of a highway affixes or sets up, in suitable and conspicuous positions, on the bridge and in each approach to the bridge notices which state that the bridge is insufficient to carry a heavy motor-car, the registered axle-weight of any axle of which exceeds a weight which shall be specified in the notices, the owner of any such heavy motor-car shall not cause or suffer the heavy motor-car to be driven, and the person driving or in charge of the heavy motor-car shall not drive the heavy motor-car upon the bridge, except with the written consent of the authority liable for the repair of the bridge.

(2) The owner of a heavy motor-car, the axle-weight of any axle of which exceeds six tons, shall not cause or suffer the heavy mortor-car to be driven, and the person driving or in charge of the heavy motor-car shall not drive the heavy motor-car upon a bridge forming part of a highway at any time when another heavy motor-car is on the bridge.

31. For the purpose of the registration of heavy motor-cars there shall be a separate part in the register of motor-cars, which shall be in the Form A set out in the Schedule to these Rules or in a form to the like effect; and to the form of particulars to be furnished by an applicant for registration of a heavy motor-car there shall, for the purpose of enabling the applicant to declare—

(a) the weight of the heavy motor-car unladen,
(b) the axle-weight of each axle, and
(c) the diameter of each wheel,

be added the particulars shown in the Form B set out in the said Schedule.

In every case in which, after prior registration, the procedure prescribed by Rule 21 in relation to such a case has been followed, the registering authority shall cause the entry of prior registration to be erased, and such entries as are required in compliance with the procedure prescribed by Rule 21 to be made in the appropriate columns of the separate part in the register of motor-cars.

As soon as the bonder or his agent or servant shall notify to the Customs Officer that he desires to proceed with any boat-load of salt, he shall obtain a boat-note in Customs Form 531 (Form 3, Appendix A), in which the name of the importing vessel and of the bonder, the quantity of salt contained therein, and the warehouse wherein it is to be deposited shall be specified. The salt shall thereupon be carefully impressed with a stamp specially provided for this purpose, and the hatches shall be closed and sealed by, or in the presence of, the Customs Officer. The lighter shall then be allowed to proceed in charge of a Customs peon accompanied by an agent on the part of the bonder.

Salt discharged outside limits of port.

18. Vessels shall only be permitted to discharge salt outside the limits of the port under special circumstances which should be stated in the Agent's application. When salt is discharged into lighters beyond the limits of the Port of Calcutta, a Customs Officer shall be placed in charge of not more than three lighters, in addition to a Customs peon for each lighter, and he shall accompany them from the side of the discharging vessel to the warehouse in which the salt is to be stored.

Madras salt in bags.

19. Salt imported from Madras and packed in bags of uniform size, which contain two maunds each, and intended to be bonded in a public warehouse, shall be discharged into lighters without weighment, a tally of the bags being kept by the Customs Officer in charge of the vessel. The hatches of the lighter shall be closed and sealed and a Customs peon placed in charge as provided by rule 17. On arrival at the warehouse, the salt shall be landed and the weights of not less than five per cent. of the bags tested by the Inspector or other officer in charge of the warehouse. If any of the bags are found to be over weight, or if the test shows deficiency exceeding 2 per cent., or if any of the bags appear to have been tampered with, or if the salt comes in bulk, the whole consignment shall be reweighed and the result reported to the Collector, who shall levy a penalty not exceeding twice the amount of duty, under article 17 of section 167 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, on any quantity found to be short of the quantity shipped, which is not satisfactorily accounted for.

Salt in bulk will be weighed at the time of discharge from shipboard, and salt in bags on arrival at the golas.

Lighters laden with salt for storage in Kidderpore Docks will not be sealed during transit in the day.

20. In the case of a vessel lying in the Kidderpore Docks and discharging salt into lighters for storage in the bonded warehouse at Kidderpore, it shall not be necessary to close and seal the hatches of the lighter, provided that the salt is taken to and bonded in the warehouse during the day-time. The hatches of every lighter containing salt shall, however, be closed and sealed at 5 P.M., and hatches or hatch-covers must be put on during wet weather.

Fees for vessels discharging beyond port limits.

21. The agents of a vessel discharging salt beyond the limits of the Port of Calcutta as provided by rule 18 shall pay the travelling and other expenses of Customs Officers and peons required by them. A fee of Rs. 4 for the day and Rs. 4 for the night shall also be payable for the services of each Customs Officer in charge of boats in transit between the discharging vessel and the warehouse.

Night work.

22. Persons wishing to discharge salt from shipboard at night for entry into bond shall submit an application to the Collector of Customs or to the Superintendent of the Preventive Service, before 12 noon on the day for which the work is required, except in the case of night work required for Sundays or holidays when the application should reach the office of the Superintendent of the Preventive Service before noon on the last working day. The application shall state the name of the vessel, the berth or moorings at which she is lying, the bonded warehouse for which the salt is intended, the hour of commencement, the probable number of hours of work which will be required, and the number of scales which it is proposed to work. They shall also undertake to pay the fees prescribed in Section V.

Discharge at night direct into the Kidderpore golas.

Persons wishing to discharge salt at night direct from shipboard into the Kidderpore golas shall submit an application to the Superintendent of the Preventive Service, Calcutta, 24 hours before the time when such work is to begin, for permission to have the golas kept open at night. They shall also undertake to pay the fees prescribed in rule 70, Section V.

23. Night work is confined to salt which is going into bond at the Sulkea or Kidderpore salt golas or which is intended for an inland bonded warehouse: provided that in the latter case, it is discharged into boats and not into flats direct. Direct discharge into flats at night is strictly prohibited.

Night work shall, however, be allowed at Chandbali (and in Orissa generally) only on condition that special permits are first obtained from the Collector of Customs, Calcutta, who may, at his discretion, refuse to grant such permits.

24. If the vessel is lying in the Kidderpore Docks, or in any part of the river between the Docks and the Howrah Bridge, the application shall ordinarily be granted. If the vessel is lying below the Docks it shall only be granted if there is a sufficient number of Inspectors and officers available.

Night watches.

25. The night shall be divided into two watches, from 6 P.M. to 10 P.M. and from 10 P.M. to 6 A.M., respectively.

Staff to be employed.

26. For each watch one Inspector shall be posted to each vessel. If two or more vessels are lying close together, the same Inspector may take charge of them if the Superintendent of the Preventive Service approves.

(Section II—Rules 27-33.)

In the case of salt to be discharged into the Kidderpore golas, for each watch one Inspector, one officer, and three peons shall be posted to the golas in addition to the Inspector and officers employed on the discharging vessel. If two or more vessels are discharging salt at the same time the same Inspector and officer may take charge of the work at the golas, if the Superintendent of the Preventive Service approves.

Lighting.

27. The light employed shall be the electric light or such other light as may specially be approved by the Superintendent of the Preventive Service. In the case of the Kidderpore golas such lights shall be provided by the bonder between the discharging vessel and the golas and also inside the golas. The Inspector or other officer in charge may stop work between sunset and sunrise if he considers the light imperfect, or for any other reasonable cause. In every such case he must make an immediate report to the Superintendent of the Preventive Service.

Admission into Bonded Warehouse.

Place of anchorage.

28. On the arrival of a boat containing salt it shall be anchored, if possible, at the steps of the ghât or at the pontoon nearest to the warehouse in which the salt is to be stored, otherwise at the moorings nearest to such ghât or pontoon.

Procedure on arrival.

29. Notice of the arrival of such salt shall at once be given by the Customs peon in charge to the Inspector or other officer in charge of the warehouse who shall thereupon note the date and hour of arrival, bringing any unreasonable delay to the notice of the Superintendent of the Preventive Service, and depute an officer to examine and compare the boat-note delivered by the Customs Officer to the bonder or his agent, and the cargo of salt, and to superintend its removal to, and storage in, the appointed warehouse.

Duty of peon and bonder's agent.

30. The bonder's agent and a Customs peon shall remain on board of the boat in charge until the seals and hatches are examined and all the cargo landed and stored.

Responsibilities of bonder and Inspector or other officer in charge.

31. The bonder shall be held responsible for any departure from these rules on the part of his agent, and the Inspector or other officer in charge of the warehouse shall take notice of any dereliction of duty on the part of the Customs Officer or peon.

Bonder to defray all charges.

32. All expenses connected with the removal and storage of the salt shall be borne by the bonder.

Procedure when salt has been tampered with.

33. If the officer appointed by the Inspector or other officer in charge of the warehouse has reason to believe that the salt has in any way been tampered with during its transit by river, he shall at once report the circumstance to the Inspector or other officer in charge who, with the permission of the Superintendent of the Preventive Service, shall direct the salt to be reweighed; such reweighment shall be made at the expense of Government.

Penalty when salt is deficient.

34. If there is found any unexplained deficiency in the salt on board the cargo-boat, as compared with the quantity specified in the boat-note, the whole of the salt contained in such boat shall be confiscated, and the bond under which the salt is in course of being stored shall be cancelled.

Deficiency satisfactorily explained to be written off.

35. When a deficiency so found is satisfactorily explained and no suspicion of fraud exists, the bonder may apply to have the amount written off from the bond under the orders of the Collector of Customs. The Inspector or other officer in charge of the warehouse shall then be authorised to deduct the amount from the total under the bond.

Salt under different bonds to be stored separately.

36. Salt relating to different bonds shall be stored separately and distinctly. Any admixture of salt specified in different bonds shall render these bonds liable to cancelment, and the holders to immediate payment of the full duty payable thereon.

Storage of rock salt.

37. Rock salt imported in more than one vessel may, however, be stored in one gola notwithstanding that it is covered by several bonds, provided all the lots belong to the same person or firm.

After the salt has been landed, the bonder shall be required to execute one bond covering the total amount, and the other bonds shall be cancelled.

Calculation of duty on delivery from public warehouse.

38. On salt bonded in a public warehouse, the duty shall be calculated on the quantity actually delivered from such warehouse.

Calculation of duty on delivery from private warehouse.

39. On salt bonded in a private licensed warehouse, the duty shall be calculated on the quantity delivered on weighment from the side of the ship in which it was imported, less an allowance on account of wastage, which shall not in ordinary cases exceed 2½ per cent. on the quantity bonded.

Increased allowance for wastage may be allowed.

40. In any special case the Board of Revenue as Chief Customs authority of the Presidency is competent to direct that an increased allowance for wastage shall be granted in accordance with the provisions of section 122 of Act VIII of 1878.

But not if any suspicion of fraud exists.

41. If the Collector of Customs has any reason to believe that any fraud has been perpetrated by the bonder or owner of the salt, or any person in his employ, he shall refuse to make any allowance on account of wastage, and shall demand the full duty payable on the entire quantity received into bond.

Rate of gola rent.

42. In the case of public warehouses, the Board of Revenue shall fix, from time to time, the amount of rent to be paid by the bonder per 1,000 maunds of salt. Ordinarily, no gola should be made available unless the quantity of salt to be bonded is equal to two-thirds of the storage which the gola is capable of containing.

But in Calcutta, when accommodation in golas of suitable dimensions is not available, the rent to be demanded shall be calculated on the quantity of salt which would amount to two-thirds of the storage capacity of the building, whatever the actual quantity of salt bonded may really be, or the bonder shall be allowed the option of taking part of a gola by the erection of a temporary partition at his own expense, when rent shall be charged on the actual quantity of salt stored in a gola within the partition subject to a minimum rent on 5,000 maunds.

Custody of salt landed in Calcutta under section 83 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878.

43. Salt landed in Calcutta under section 83 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878 (VIII of 1878), shall be sent to the Sulkea golas for custody, and it shall be carefully noted in the salt receipt issued by the Custom House at the time of clearing it that the salt has been so landed and is not bonded salt.

SECTION III—RULES FOR THE DISCHARGE OF SALT FROM SHIP-BOARD FOR CONSUMPTION.

Weighment conducted in presence of Customs Officer.

44. The weighment of salt on ship-board shall be conducted in the presence of a Customs Officer on board and on his responsibility by duly licensed weighmen, and the owner of the salt shall defray all costs of weighment.

Tally to be kept.

45. Tally of all salt discharged shall be kept by the Customs Officer as directed in Section I of these rules. As soon as a boat is completed and before another boat is commenced, the Customs Officer shall require the Commander or Chief Officer of the vessel to sign the boat-note, which shall then be made over to the Manjhi of the boat.

Salt discharged in bulk must be stamped with the Government adul.

46. All salt discharged in bulk shall be stamped with the Government adul, and it shall be the duty of the Customs Officer to see that this is properly done.

Delivery to be given in order of entry in the Salt Delivery Register.

47. Delivery of salt shall be given to each merchant in the order in which his bill-of-entry or application for clearance was entered in the Salt Delivery Register (see rule 3, Section I): provided that if a merchant has not his boat ready when his turn for delivery comes, he shall be passed over until his boat arrives. Delivery shall be given to a merchant out of turn during extra hours on application, provided that the merchants standing above him on the list do not wish to work during the extra hours.

Partial deliveries prohibited.

48. When the loading of a boat is commenced, it shall be finished before the loading of another boat is commenced. But partial delivery of a consignment which is not likely to be completed within working or extra hours shall be allowed, provided that the merchant or his representative on board applies for delivery in writing. The Customs Officer in charge of the ship shall in such cases warn the merchant or his representative that no refund of duty will be allowed owing to any accident that may occur through the partially-loaded boat remaining alongside the ship during the night.

Interrupted delivery.

49. If delivery of a consignment has not been completed by sunset, or if through any unforeseen circumstance it becomes necessary to interrupt delivery, the boat partially loaded shall receive a boat-note in the following form, and shall remain alongside the discharging vessel, and shall be subject to seizure in the event of her trying to leave the ship's side:—

51. Salt imported from Bombay, Madras or Coconada in bags which contain two maunds each, and on which duty has been paid in full, may be discharged without weighment on presentation of the bill-of-entry or application for clearance, and under the following conditions:—

The Customs Officer in charge of the vessel shall weigh 5 per cent. of the bags, and if any are discovered to be over weight, the whole consignment shall be detained, and a report be at once submitted.

SECTION IV.—RULES FOR THE DISCHARGE OF SALT FROM THE BONDED WAREHOUSES FOR CONSUMPTION.

Procedure on delivery from bond.

52. All deliveries of salt bonded in a public or private warehouse under the provisions of Act VIII of 1878 shall be supervised as required by section 99 of the said Act by a Customs Officer and a subordinate officer styled a check-muharrir. These officers shall be deputed on application to the officer in charge of the Custom House.

There shall be one Customs Officer at each scale, and his duty shall be to keep on the boat-notes or salt passes to be provided for the purpose at the expense of the Government, a correct tally of the bags as they are weighed and taken off the scale by the bonder's people, as well as to see that each bag contains neither more nor less than the prescribed quantity of salt, viz., two maunds. He shall be held personally liable for any excess or deficiency that may be discovered at the check-scales referred to in rule 56.

Check-scales.

56. The Inspector or other officer in charge of the warehouse shall maintain check-scales in charge of a special Customs Officer and shall arrange that at least five per cent. of the bags issued from every gola shall pass over these scales.

When dispute arises.

He shall not hold any communication with the Customs Officer supervising the weighment of the salt except through the Inspector or other officer in charge until after the day's work is over, when his tally shall be compared with that kept by the Customs Officer, and, if found to agree, shall be signed by the Inspector or other officer in charge.

Duty of check muharrir.

60. The check muharrir's duty shall be to keep a tally similar to that of the Customs Officer, but in the vernacular on tally sheets in Customs Form 561 (Form 9, Appendix A). He shall also keep a tally by means of counters supplied by the Department. One such counter shall be made over to him by each cooly as he passes him with a bag, and shall represent one bag, or two maunds of salt. After the consignment has been delivered, these counters shall be compared with his written tally as well as with that of the Customs Officer for the purpose stated in rule 59.

Duty of Inspector or other officer in charge before salt is removed.

61. Whenever the bonder or purchaser is desirous of removing his boat, railway wagon or cart from or off the premises, the Inspector or other officer in charge shall satisfy himself on every point before granting the prescribed protective documents. In particular, he shall in every case, before granting a boat-note or pass, satisfy himself that the exact quantity entered in the endorsement on the reverse of the application for clearance has been delivered.

Check to be exercised by Superintendent.

62. When discrepancies in the accounts cannot be reconciled and whenever the Superintendent of the Preventive Service has reason to believe that the quantity of salt conveyed to the boat, railway wagon or cart is not correctly represented in the accounts, he shall hold a re-weighment. The expense of such re-weighment shall be borne by Government.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

No. 118T., dated the 9th July, 1907.—In exercise of the power conferred by rule 34 of the Rules for the Conduct of the Legislative Business of the Bengal Council, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to order the publication of the following Bill, which it is proposed to introduce in the said Council, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons :—

to amend the Calcutta Port Act, 1890.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Calcutta Port Act, 1890, in the manner hereinafter appearing ; Ben. Act III of 1890.

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Calcutta Port (Amendment) Act, 1907.

Amendment of section 19 of Ben. Act III of 1890.

2 In section 19 of the Calcutta Port Act, 1890, after the word "borrow" the words "within such dates as may be approved by the Governor General in Council," shall be inserted. Ben. Act III of 1890.

Amendment of section 22.

3. In section 22 of the said Act after the words "previous sanction of" the words "and within such dates as may be approved by" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 24 (1).

4. In sub-section (1) of section 24 of the said Act, for the words "a period not exceeding thirty years from the date of the contracting of the same" the following words shall be substituted, namely :— [Cf. Bom. Act VI of 1879, s. 46.]

> "within such period, not exceeding sixty years, from the date of the contracting of the same as the Governor General in Council may in each case direct."

New section 24A.

5. After section 24 of the said Act the following shall be inserted, namely:—

[Cf. Bur. Act IV of 1905, s. 40.]

Annual examination of Sinking Fund.

"24A. The sinking fund established for the liquidation of any loan shall be subject to annual examination by the Accountant-General, Bengal, who shall ascertain whether the cash and the current value of the securities at the credit of the fund are actually equal to the amount which would have been accumulated, had investments been regularly made, and had the rate of interest as originally estimated been obtained thereon.

The Commissioners shall pay forthwith into the sinking fund any amount which the Accountant-General may certify to be deficient, unless the Governor General in Council specially sanctions a gradual re-adjustment."

Amendment of section 108.

6. In section 108 of the said Act, as amended by the Calcutta Port (Amendment No. 1) Act, 1895,— Ben. Act IV of 1895.

(1) for the words from "If, on the preparation" to the words "requisite in every case" the words "The Commissioners may from time to time," shall be substituted;

(2) for the words "as will, when added to the said income of the year, suffice as nearly as may be for the payment of the said sums in full" the words "as the Commissioners may think fit and expedient," shall be substituted.

Repeal of section 110.

7. Section 110 of the Calcutta Port Act, 1890, is hereby repealed. Ben. Act III of 1890.

Amendment of Form of Debenture in Second Schedule.

8. The word "thirty" in the Form prescribed in the Second Schedule to the said Act, shall be omitted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

At present the Calcutta Port Trust are compelled, under section 24 (1) of the Calcutta Port Act, 1890, to liquidate debenture loans within a period not exceeding thirty years. It is intended by this Bill to enable the Trust in future to raise either loans of a longer and extended term, so that the Sinking Fund charge payable every year from revenue may be proportionately less, or loans of a short term, which may be converted into other short term loans, bearing a lower rate of interest.

2. The object of the proposed amendment of sections 19 and 22 of the Act is to enable the Governor General in Council so to arrange the dates within which a loan may be raised by the Commissioners that such loan may not clash with the raising of a loan by any other local authority or by the Government.

3. The proposed amendment of sub-section (1) of section 24 of the Act will bring the law governing the raising of debenture loans by the Port Trust into practical uniformity with the provisions of the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879, which does not fix any specific period for repayment, but leaves the manner of raising such loans, including the fixing of their term, to be settled, with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, by the Local Government.

4. The Act at present makes no provision for the annual examination of the sinking fund such as is required under the Port Acts of Madras and Rangoon. Clause 5 of the Bill is intended to remedy the defect.

5. Experience has shown that it is desirable to make the special toll,—or, as it is now termed, the river due—which is leviable under section 108 of the Act, a permanent source of income. In practice this has been done throughout, and the amendment now proposed will only confirm the practice. It is desired that the due leviable under this section on all goods entering or leaving the Port shall be the chief item in the revenues of the Port, and that the charges for special services rendered at the jetties and docks shall be reduced as far as may be practicable.

6. Clauses 7 and 8 are consequential upon clauses 6 and 4 respectively.

REPORT ON THE ENQUIRY INTO THE FISHERIES OF BENGAL, BY MR. K. G. GUPTA, I.C.S.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 2228 L.R., dated 8th July 1907.—The following is published for general information.

E. A. GAIT,
Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 39, dated Calcutta, the 20th February 1907.

From—K. G. GUPTA, ESQ., I.C.S., Member, Board of Revenue, on Sepecial Duty,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit the report called for in Government Order No. 162, dated the 9th January last.

2. I was placed on special duty by Government Order No. 1780T.—R., dated the 26th July 1906, to make an inquiry into the fisheries of Bengal and its fish-supply, and took up the work formally on the 20th August last. My first progress report, embracing a period of about six weeks to the end of September last, was submitted with this office No. 86, dated the 12th October 1906.

3. A few days were spent in organising the office staff. For my Assistant I was able to secure the services of Mr. Bunwarilal Chaudhuri, B. Sc. (Edin.), who, with a general scientific knowledge, including Zoology, had the advantage of studying Ichthyology with Professor Herdman. My first care was to prepare and address a complete set of questions to the District Officers for the purpose of eliciting full information regarding the present condition of the fisheries and the fish trade in the Province. Most of the replies have come, but I regret to have to observe that some of the Collectors have shown an inadequate appreciation of the importance of the inquiry, which in several districts was made over to very young and inexperienced officers, and in one district to a Deputy Collector who had been only a few months in the district, and who, being also the Treasury Officer, was tied to head-quarters. While making full allowance for the novelty of the subject, the general ignorance that prevails in regard to it, and the other pressing duties of the district staff, it seems to me that with a little care and attention the reports might have been made more valuable. That there is no lack of materials is evident from the local inquiries that my Assistant and myself were able to make in the course of our tours, and from the good reports received from several districts, such as Cuttack, Sambalpur, Jessore, 24-Parganas, Midnapore anh Darbhanga.

II.—Tours.

4. My Assistant and myself either jointly or separately visited the following districts: 24-Parganas, Khulna, Jessore, Darjeeling, Sonthal Parganas, Bhagalpur, Hooghly, Midnapore, Howrah, Cuttack, Puri and Balasore. The Sundarbans and the Chilka, which are two most important fish areas in Bengal, have been examined. As it was not possible to visit every district, care was taken to examine typical localities in Bengal, Bihar and Orissa. But what is required is a systematic survey of each district under expert supervision and on definite lines, and the results are sure to be valuable and far-reaching. Fish is not a luxury, but an absolute necessary of life, with a rice-eating population, and the whole of the people of Bengal proper, Orissa and Chota Nagpur, and not an inconsiderable proportion of the population of Bihar, live on rice. How far the demand for fish is supplied from existing sources will be discussed in a later part of the report.

5. It is unfortunate that any movement initiated by Government should be viewed with suspicion by the people, and when the news of the inquiry spread, it was asked on all sides, not always merely by the ignorant, whether the ultimate object was not to raise an increased revenue from the fisheries; and it is no easy matter to convince the masses that it is not for adding to the burdens of the people, but to devise means for augmenting the fish-supply that the investigation has been set on foot. The inquiry would have been greatly impeded, but for the hearty co-operation and active help of many zamindars who, from the beginning, or in some cases after a little explanation, were not slow to perceive the great importance of the inquiry to the landed interest. When the fishermen were approached through the landlords and lease-holders, they became more amenable to reason, more open to conviction and less disposed to be obstructive, and after a little persuasion we found them to be quite frank and willing to answer our questions freely and unreservedly. It is the failure to get at the fishing population and obtain information at first hand that the deficiencies of some of the district reports are, to a certain extent, due. I had the advantage of formerly serving in most of the districts from which the chief fish supplies come, and this local knowlegde was of great help to me, and I am grateful to the many gentlemen whom I knew before and who now volunteered their help.

6. Though something has been done, much remains to be done. The inquiry may be said to have only commenced. It is not possible, in the brief period of five months, to make a proper survey for any purpose of a vast area like that of Bengal, but this is especially so in the case of fish, as so little is known of the subject, while it is necessary to study the life conditions of fish not only during different seasons, but also during the same seasons for a number of years, before any definite or practical conclusions can be arrived at.

7. The information that has been gathered cannot be fully utilised on the present occasion, as much of it is incomplete and must be left to be dealt with in the Final Report.

III.—Physical features of the Province.

8. The present Province of Bengal, excluding the Tributary States, has an area of 113,903 square miles, and a population of 50,722,067. It is made up as follows:—

	Commissioners' Divisions.	Districts.

	Burdwan ...	Hooghly. Howrah. Burdwan. Birbhum. Bankura. Midnapore.
Orissa	Orissa ...	Cuttack. Balsore. Puri. Angul. Sambalpur.

9. Physically the Province is broadly divided into two parts; one part being a continuation of the great plain of Northern India, and comprising the whole of Bihar, excepting the Sonthal Parganas and portions of the districts of Gaya, Monghyr and Bhagalpur lying to the south of the Ganges, the whole of Lower Bengal, excepting the districts of Birbhum and Bankura, and the northern half of Midnapore and the whole of Orissa, excepting the districts of Angul and Sambalpur; and the other being the rest. The first part is almost entirely alluvial and intersected by numerous rivers, many of which are perennial; it also abounds in back-waters, jheels, tanks and depressions. It contains the Chilka Lake and the Sundarbans and the various estuaries through which the principal rivers debouch into the sea, as well as the entire sea-board fram the Haringhata on the eastern boundary of Khulna to Ram lenka on the borders of Ganjam. The main characteristic of the second part is the prevalence of laterite and the absence, with a few exceptions, of big or perennial rivers or of any considerable water surfaces except reservoirs made by damming up hill streams. The country is hilly and undulating and in many places wild and rugged, affording ample shelter to the denizens of the forest. It follows, therefore, that whether fresh water, estuarine or sea fisheries are concerned, they are to be looked for in the first part described above, and that from the point of view of the present inquiry the second part is of comparatively small importance. The whole of this vast Province, excluding Orissa and Southern Chota Nagpur has one river system, and it is represented by the Ganges which may not inappropriately be likened to a great banyan tree, the trunk of which is the main stream, the branches are the tributaries which it receives, and the suckers the channels through which it works its way out to the sea. The Ganges, on entering Bihar, follows an almost easterly course to above Rajmahal, and receives numerous tributaries, the principal of which are the following: North—Gogra, Gandak, Kosi and Mahananda. South—Sone. The main current of the Ganges, after mingling with the waters of the Brahmaputra and the Megna, flows into the Bay of Bengal in the New Province, but, so far as Bengal is concerned, the last of the affluents—the Mahananda—is received a little above Jangipur in Murshidabad, almost opposite to where the Bhagirathi or Hooghly, the first of the off-shoots, takes off. From above Rajmahal the Ganges pursues a south and south-easterly course, but the Hooghly flows almost due south, and though the main current runs south-eastward under the name of Padma, its sacred character, in the eyes of the Hindus, is assumed henceforth by the Hooghly, called by them the Bhagirathi, which in its downward course receives several important affluents from the west, such as the Ajay, Damodar, Rupnarayan and Konsai, all of which have their origin in the Chota Nagpur plateau. On the east side it receives a few off-shoots from the parent stream, such as the Jelinghi and the Matabhanga, which, as well as the Gorai, another off-shoot (known lower down first as the Madhumati, then the Baleswar, and finally the Haringhata and forming the boundary between the old and the new Province) throw off numerous branches which, interlacing with one another and with local drainage channels, form, in the districts of the Presidency Division, a perfect network of islands, especially towards the sea coast where they broaden into large estuaries subject to strong tidal action.

10. Orissa is watered by several rivers, such as the Mahanadi, Brahmini, Baitarani, Burabalong and Subarnarekha, and their numerous tributaries and ramifications. Of these rivers all but the first which rises in the Central Provinces originate in the hilly country to the north and west, and have comparatively short courses. They become foaming torrents during the freshets but, except during the rains, they are reduced to shallow, sandy beds with intervening pools, and are navigable throughout the year only along their lower reaches, and they enter the Bay of Bengal through wide estuaries.

11. Chilka Lake is situated on the south west corner of Orissa. Jheels and back-waters abound in North Bihar and the districts of the Presidency Division, especially in the Sundarbans area of Khulna and the 24-Parganas; and innumerable tanks are to be met with all over the Province.

12. The length of the main rivers in the Province, excluding the Tributary States, is not less than 9,000 miles,* and if a minimum breadth of ¼ mile is taken (by no means an excessive estimate) for the dry season, we get a perennial riparian surface of 2,250 square miles which spreads out many times over during the rains. No data exist for estimating the area covered by the numerous minor streams, jheels and tanks, but it would not be far wrong to say that, including the Chilka Lake (344 square miles in the dry season), the never-failing inland water area of the Province is not less than 8,000 square miles, which during the four months of the rainy season is more than doubled. This will enable one to realize the importance of our fluviatile and estuarine fisheries. There is no other part of India, except East Bengal and Assam, the physical conditions of which are similar, where inland fisheries play such an important part. Outside India the only parallels, perhaps, are furnished by Canada and the United States of America.

N.B.—In the above calculation only the portions lying in this Province have been taken into account.

13. The coast line of Bengal is of limited extent. It is 570 miles long and is comprised in the districts of Khulna, 24-Parganas, Midnapore, Balasore, Cuttack and Puri. The greater portion of it is intersected by numerous rivers and estuaries, the mouths of which, with a few exceptions, are obstructed by sand-bars making the passage of vessels of even small draught impossible. It has a belt of low-lying swamp and uninhabited jungle, which in Khulna and the 24-Parganas extends for many miles inland, narrows very considerably in the remaining districts (except near the mouths of the rivers), often with a fringe of dunes, and is altogether replaced by sandy ridges varying in height from 10 to 70 feet from the Devi River to the end of the Puri district. From the land side the shore shelves out very gradually, and the whole coast from the Haringhata to the Mahanadi is full of breakers, and is most difficult of approach except through the few channels, mostly tortuous, that have been marked with buoys. In many places there is a shallow, firm foreshore, two or three miles wide, which is covered with water during the flood-tide and is left high and dry at ebb. A notable instance of it is Chandipur in Balasore where the Shell Proof Station of the Military Department has been established after an examination of the entire Indian sea-board. From below the Mahanadi the sea quickly deepens, and vessels of large draught can come quite close to the shore, but there is always a heavy surf just below the beach negotiable only by the masula or surf boat, which is a flabby craft of planks sewn together so as to "give" to the waves, and that only in good weather. The most serious defect of the coast is the absence of harbours. With the single exception of False Point which affords tolerable shelter, there is no other place where a vessel, even of small draught, can take refuge in bad weather.

14. From about the middle of March a strong breeze begins to blow from the south, and continues right through the south-west monsoon to about the middle of September. April and May are marked by sudden storms known as Nor'westers, and the advent of the monsoon is usually heralded by one or more cyclones. During these six months or more the sea is very rough and is closed to every kind of country craft, and at no point of the coast can any landing be effected. This is followed by a calm till about the middle of November, broken only by those terrible and destructive cyclones occasionally accompanied by storm-waves, which are never so severe or so disastrous as during this period, and which have given the Bay of Bengal such an evil reputation. The north wind then sets in and lasts generally till about the end of February. The weather is then pleasant and the sea fairly smooth and free from danger.

15. The Hindu writers divide the year into six seasons, each lasting two months. They are: summer, rains, early autumn, late autumn, winter, and spring, but in Bengal spring and autumn are barely perceptible. The hot weather begins in March, and may be said to continue till the end of September and even later. It is dry and very hot till about the middle of June, when the rains set in, and the temperature moderates. From that time till about the middle of September the rainfall is heavy and the whole country is more or less flooded. The waters begin to subside about the end of September, the process being very rapid in October and November, by which time all signs of inundation have nearly disappeared. The cold weather begins in November and lasts till about the end of February; the water level continues to recede and is lowest in April and May, when many channels, tanks and reservoirs completely dry up and even the perennial rivers are greatly reduced in size. The most trying period for fish life is from March to June, the contraction of the water surface being then very severe, while during the rains, i.e., from July to September, the whole country is under water and the fish indulge in unrestricted movement.

IV.—Fisheries.

16. During the rains, i.e., from July to September, a great part of the country, especially of Part I, is under water and may not inappropriately be regarded as one vast inland fishery, even the rice-fields attracting swarms of fry and small fish. By a wise provision of Nature this is also the period when most of the freshwater species spawn. The fisheries may be classified as follows:—

Fresh water ...	Rivers. Jheels. Rice-fields. Canals. Irrigation channels. Tanks.
Brackish water ...	Estuaries. Lakes.
Sea ...	Foreshore. Deep Sea.

Fresh water fisheries

17. Rivers.—The Ganges with its tributaries and branches constitutes the most important fresh water fisheries in Bengal. These fisheries are most valuable in the Sadar and Buxar subdivisions of Shahabad, Patna, Saran, Muzaffarpur, Darbhanga, Sadar and Begusarai subdivisions of Monghyr, Sadar and Madhipura, subdivisions of Bhagalpur, Purnea, and Rajmahal subdivision of the Sonthal Parganas and, to a more or less extent, in Murshidabad, Burdwan, Nadia, Hooghly end Jessore. The principal fisheries are contained in Bihar in the Ganges itself and its tributaries within a distance of 30 to 50 miles from their mouths and in Lower Bengal also in the main stream known henceforth as the Padma and forming the northern boundary of the districts of Murshidabad and Nadia, and in its branches and their ramifications. With one exception, which will be noticed presently, there is not much fishing in these waters during the rains, but it practically begins in October with the subsidence of floods. The busy season is from November to March, the largest hauls being made in December, January, and February. All kinds of fish, of all sizes, are caught, but the most valuable ones belong to the Carp family (Cyprinidæ) such as rahu, katla, mirgal, etc. Fish is caught not only in the main stream where there is always a current even in the driest month, but also in the pools or lakes (kols, baurs or dhábs) formed in the bed of the river after the rains and in the blind channels (chharis) closed at one end but connected with the main stream at the other; in fact the largest quantity is usually netted in the two latter. During the rainy season and sometimes well into November, hilsa (clupea ilisha) is caught in large numbers in all the principal rivers—as, often full of roe, they ascend from the sea, the quantity caught gradually diminishing in the upward journey, but it is worthy of note that even as high up as Patna the hauls are by no means insignificant. Hilsa generally keep to the big rivers, such as the Ganges, including the Padma, and its off-shoots, the Hooghly and the Gorai, besides the Rupnarayan, but small schools and stragglers are found in all the others which have direct communication with any of them. Hilsa may be regarded as the Indian shad.

18. The Contai subdivision of Midnapore forms the water-shed between the river system of Bengal proper on the one hand and those of Orissa on the other. The principal rivers of Orissa are the Subarnarekha, Baitarani, Brahmani and Mahanadi, all of which run independent courses, except that in Cuttack the branches of the three last named rivers get considerably mixed up. Tidal action seldom extends beyond 20 or 30 miles from the sea, and higher up, the rivers form extensive beds of sand with very shallow channels and are flooded only when the freshets come down in the rains. Anicuts have been constructed for purposes of irrigation across the Mahanadi, Brahmani and Baitarani near where they enter the plains. As fresh water fisheries, the Orissa rivers are not of great value, though in the pools considerable quantities of fish are caught in the cold weather. The Subarnarekha is well known for the excellence of its carps.

19 In Sambalpur, the principal river fisheries are the Mahanadi and its tributaries, the Ib, Ang and Jira. There is also a number of rivulets.

20. Among the river fisheries must also be included the old or deserted beds of rivers. In all alluvial formations, like that of Bengal, where the rivers are subject to sudden and heavy floods, it is not unusual for them to forsake their beds and force out new ones, and when this takes place the deeper portions of the old beds often form pools of considerable extent and make valuable fisheries, instances of which are very common in North Bihar and in the districts of Murshidabad, Nadia and Jessore.

21. Jheels. (Bengali—beel or pât).—They are really small, shallow inland lakes, some of which are only big ponds. They are not to be confounded with pools in river beds. In alluvial soil the banks of a river are higher than the adjacent country, and the land gently slopes away from the river. The interlacing of the rivers divides the whole country into innumerable islands. Each of these is bounded by rivers and is highest along the sides; and the fall from all directions is towards the centre, which is the lowest, and which is again drained by a khal (channel) communicating lower down with one of the surrounding rivers. In most places the whole land, including the centre, is raised and the middle portion, though still depressed, is sufficiently high to be above water, either always or during some months of the year, and is used for growing crops. Other central areas, though wet, grow various kinds of rice which thrive in water. But in various places the central depressions are yet very low, are always under water and cannot rear crops. These are known as jheels and some of them are of considerable extent. They are to be met with throughout Part I, but are most numerous in Khulna and the Magura and Narail Subdivisions of Jessore. In the cold weather they are the favourite haunts of all kinds of birds. They are also most valuable fisheries. In the rains they afford spawning ground for many fishes, and shelter to all during the dry season, and being usually full of hardy aquatic weeds and floating plants of various kinds, they are not open to free netting and are thus immune from exhausting modes of capture. The water being practically stagnant is not favourable to carp life and the larger varieties usually desert them in favour of rivers. But they are the proper home of the koi or climbing perch (anabas scandens), magur (clarius magur), singi (saccodranchus fossilis) and a host of other fish which, though dark and unsightly, and often of small size, are highly prized by the people as valuable and nourishing food, especially for the convalescent. With the gradual silting up of rivers and the increasing pressure of population, the jheels are being reclaimed and brought under cultivation, causing a corresponding reduction of the fishery area.

22. Rice fields.—The rice-fields which cover a vast extent throughout the Province are more or less flooded during the rains, and in July and August they receive myriads of small fish and the fry of the larger varieties, which are caught, not by professional fishermen, but by the villagers by means of dams, bamboo traps and other simple contrivances when the water begins to be down in September and October. Very few of the fish escape by the time the fields are quite dry. Rice-fields do not make any valuable fisheries, but there is no doubt that the fish caught in them afford a dainty morsel and a relish to the insipid rice diet of the cultivators at a time when fish is scarce in the Province.

23. Canals.—There are three canal systems in Bengal, and they all belong to Part II. They may be briefly described as follows:—

System.	Rivers with Anicuts.	Districts.	Navigation or Irrigation.
1. Sone ...	Sone	Shahabad, Gaya and Patna.	Both.
2. Midnapore ...	Konsai ...	Midnapore ...	Do.
3. Orissa ...	Mahanadi ... Katjuri... ... Birupa ... Brahmani ... Baitarani ... Patia ...	Cuttack and Balasore	Do.

24. Reports were asked for from the Superintending Engineers concerned but their replies have not all yet come, and I am unable to deal with the questions connected with the subject. It may be observed, however, that the canals are not very valuable fisheries, especially as they are all cleaned out once a year. I am not in a position, without further and more careful inquiry, to express any opinion on the complaint that the anicuts effectually bar the passage of breeding-fish and facilitate the wholesale destruction of fish that gather below them in their fruitless attempts to get over the barriers, but there is reason to think that the mischief thus caused is not of a serious nature.

25. There are a few isolated canals for irrigation outside the above systems, but they are not of importance.

26. The Orissa Coast Canal, including the Hijili Tidal Canal, which is intended solely for navigation is 159 miles long and extends along the Midnapore and Balasore coasts from Geonkhali on the Hooghly to the Matai river near Chandbali. There is a fair amount of estuarine fish in it and the fishery is let out in sections, usually by auction.

27. Irrigation channels.—They are chiefly met with in Bihar and are locally known as pain. They are generally shallow and of small breadth and are of no importance as fisheries. The reservoirs are called ahars and are sometimes of considerable extent.

28. Tanks.—Every village may be said to possess one or more tanks and it would not be easy to count them. Till no very long ago it was the pious ambition of every well-to-do Hindu or Muhammadan in Lower Bengal to dig a tank for the benefit of man and beast. But the feeling is very much on the wane, while the cost of digging has greatly increased. Even existing tanks are very much neglected. The tanks are most numerous in Lower Bengal. In a few districts such as Khulna and the 24-Parganas it is not possible to build a house, except on the bank of a river, without first raising the land with earth taken from a tank which explains the reason of the presence of so many tanks in the Suburbs of Calcutta. Numerous tanks, dug mainly for irrigation, exist in Burdwan and Balasore, but they are nearly all dried up and it does not appear to be the concern of either the landlords of the tenants to look after them. In Part II, where the country is hilly or undulating, tanks or reservoirs, some of great extent, have been formed by throwing up embankments across hill streams or the lower ends of catchment areas.

29. In spite of the decrease in the number of new tanks dug and of the obvious neglect of old ones, we have in our perennial tanks a source of fish supply which even now is of considerable magnitude and which, with care and attention and by the application of right methods, is capable of immense development. The carps, though they will not usually spawn in confined waters, thrive well in tanks, and in most districts the wealthy people systematically or occasionally stock their private tanks with fry obtained from the rivers. This is done on a commercial scale and as a matter of business in a few districts, especially in the neighbourhood of Calcutta, and hundreds of the lower classes of both sexes find employment during the rains in gathering spawn in the Hooghly from above Cossipore and in the Damodar, especially near Amta in Howrah.

30. Estuaries.—Next to the fresh water rivers, our estuaries furnish the best fisheries, both in extent and prolificness. Estuaries and tidal rivers can appropriately be dealt with together, They are numerous along the whole coast from the Haringhatta to the Devi, but most so in Khulna and the 24-Parganas, the Sundarbans portion of which abounds in creeks and channels. The principal estuaries are given below :—

31. Fishing takes place in the estuaries and larger channels only during the autumn and cold weather, i.e, from October to March, until the commencement of the strong south-west wind, but the busiest season is from November to February, when parties of fishermen venture out to the seaface. During this period the fish keep fresh longer and can be sent to a fair distance. In the Sundarbans most of the fish caught, especially the larger sorts, such as bhekti, are sent to Calcutta, and some are dried. In the smaller channels, within easy reach of Calcutta, fishing takes place throughout the year, and fish is often sent alive to Calcutta in bamboo crates from distant fishing grounds in Khulna. Generally speaking, the greater portion of the immense uninhabited tract of the Sundarbans is neglected during the period from the middle of March to the end of September. Further inland in Khulna from March to September large quantities of prawns are caught, boiled and dried for the Burma market. In the estuaries of Balasore and Cuttack fishing is confined to the cold weather, when very heavy hauls are made. Owing to the distance of the markets, most of the fish caught is either dried or salted for despatch inland. The most valuable fish caught in the estuaries and estuarine rivers are different kinds of mugils and polynemus, and the well-known bhekti (lates calcarifer). The Hooghly from Ulubaria to Diamond Harbour is noted for the famous topsi (polynemus paradisens) which is caught with or without roe in great numbers from April to June. This fish is also found in a few other tidal rivers such as the Pasar (below Khulna) and Subernarekha and Burabalong in Balasore, but it is nowhere so tasty, nor is it caught so largely, as in the Hooghly. I have already referred to the hilsa (clupea ilisha) in connection with rivers. They are found in all the estuarine rivers and assiduously netted during the rains and autumn when they ascend in shoals. The hilsa of the Hooghly, like its topsi, is greatly esteemed.

32. The Sundarbans is the most valuable of our estuarine fisheries. The main portion, and the one with which we are concerned, lies in the districts of the 24-Parganas and Khulna, between the Hooghly and Haringhatta estuaries.

It comprises a vast tract of forest and swamp 105 miles in length, and with an average breadth of about 44 miles, the total area being about 4,620 square miles. It is intersected by large rivers and estuaries running from north to south. These rivers are connected with each other by a net-work of branches; and the latter, in their turn, with each other by innumerable smaller channels which interlace in every direction. The Sundarbans may, therefore, be described as a tangled region of estuaries, rivers and water-courses inclosing a vast number of islands of various sizes and shapes, most of which, especially in Khulna, are uninhabited, and are covered with salt water at flood-tide. Its numerous waterways are full of most valuable fish and crustacea. In Khulna this immense source of fish supply is barely tapped, and in the 24-Parganas too the larger rivers are wholly avoided—only a few of the minor channels being worked. The number of fishermen employed is small, the boats are unseaworthy, and there is no arrangement for the quick despatch of the catches from the fishing grounds. Much food or drinking water cannot be carried in the miserable boats now employed, which makes it impossible for the fishermen to proceed beyond a short distance from their homes and the clearings made for cultivation. As a result, this great fishery is very imperfectly worked, whereas under more favourable conditions it could be made to supply not only Calcutta but other important markets with abundant fish in fresh condition, and also support a considerable business in preserved fish.

33. Lakes.—There is only one lake in the Province—the Chilka, which is a shallow inland sea situated in the extreme south-east corner of Orissa, a long strip of land separating it from the ocean. Hemmed in between the mountains and the sea, the Chilka spreads itself out into a pear-shaped expanse of water 44 miles long, of which the northern half has a mean breadth of 20 miles, while the southern half tapers into an irregularly curved point, barely averaging 5 miles wide. Its smallest area is about 344 square miles in the dry weather, extending to about 450 during the rainy season. Its average depth is from 3 to 5 feet, and scarcely anywhere exceeds 6 feet. The Chilka receives the Daya and other off-shoots of the Mahanadi, and the silt brought down by them is gradually raising its bed. It communicates with the sea by a narrow mouth, which in some years has to be kept open artificially across the bar of sand which the sea is constantly throwing up.

34. The Chilka forms a most valuable fishery. It abounds in fishes of all kinds, chiefly mugils and perches, besides prawns and crabs. The best fishing grounds are situated on the south side, near the sea, along the numerous creeks and channels, and around a low uninhabited island known as Nalban or reed forest, from a kind of reed with which it is covered. The fish are caught in the shallow banks from October to November by means of fixed cruives (jáns) each of which is over a mile long and several hundred yards wide. Prawns are caught in abundance from January to March in bamboo traps fixed to screens of the same material. They are boiled and dried for the Burma market, and simply dried for consumption in Orissa. Nets are used in the creeks as well as in the main Chilka throughout the year, and very large hauls are often made. Shoals of hilsa are found in the rainy season near the north-east corner where the Daya falls into the lake. Owing to the absence of any large markets in the neighbourhood, most of the fish is dried, and the larger varieties also salted and exported to Cuttack, Puri and the Tributary State.

The lake would form an ideal ground for the propagation of estuarine fishes, including hilsa. The lake is now largely fished, and the introduction of any improved methods of capture, without anything being done to increase the supply, can only have a disastrous end and lead to the speedy depletion of the waters. But there is ample scope for supplying, from the present catches, Calcutta and other important places with fresh fish, prawns and crabs from October to April. There is also a small bed of oysters near Manikpatna.

Sea Fisheries.

35. Foreshore.—The physical features of the Bengal coast have already been described. Foreshore fishing is carried on only in calm weather, i.e., from October to about the middle of March. Such fishing is unimportant, except in Balasore where there are seven main fishing stations along the coast, Chandipur being the best known of them. Fishing during this period is done there only by means of fixed nets (mála) in which fish are caught twice daily during ebb-tide. The catches are of all sorts, varieties and sizes, including young sharks and skates, crabs, etc. Good fish, such as bhekti, mugils ploynemus, and clupeas form a fair proportion of the catch. Some of the fish is sold locally, some sent fresh to Calcutta, and the rest is dried for export, but, unlike Cuttack and Chilka, no salt is ever used. During the rest of the year a certain amount of fishing is done by means of a long but vary narrow (less than a foot) net (kathia), which is dragged by two or three men in knee-deep water.

36. Deep Sea.—There is no deep-sea fishing anywhere in Bengal, except in Puri which alone has got an open coast. Even there such fishing is of the most limited extent, and is carried on, not by local Uriya fishermen, but by Telugu settlers from Ganjam called Nulias. In Puri there are some 400 families of Nulias inhabiting 8 hamlets. During the calm months they use the seine net, and at times make excellent hauls, bijram (Madras seir, cybium guttatum), pomfrets, small soles, etc., being among the fish caught. A kind of herring is also found in abundance.

37. During the cold weather, there is a small export of fresh fish from Puri town to Calcutta. The rest is either sold locally or dried for export. With the seine net the fishermen cannot go far out, seldom more than half-a-mile, as one end of the rope to which the net is attached is left on the beach where the net is eventually hauled. With small gill nets or hooks and lines the Nulias go to a distance of two or three miles in calm weather in catamarans, but the catches are small. During the prevalence of the south-west breeze, when the seine cannot be used, a little fishing is done with gill nets not far from the beach, but all deep-sea fishing practically ceases from about the middle of March to about the middle of September.

38. The abundance and variety of sea fish caught with the rudest and most primitive of appliances on the foreshore in Balasore and in the open sea in Puri indicate the wealth of marine life that may reasonably be looked for in the deep sea, for big shoals seldom come quite close to the beach and the catches merely represent stragglers from schools and younger members of the larger kinds.

V.—Fishing castes.

39. All the sections of people who are engaged in fishing also generally keep and ply boats. Hence both fishermen and boatmen have been taken together in the following analysis of the different castes pursuing fishing as their chief occupation.

Hindus—

Bengal ...	Mála (Jhála). Tiyar (Rajbansi). Kaibarta (Jele). Karál.
Orissa ...	Kewut. Kaibarta. Nikari. Gòkhá. Jhora. Máchhuá Kandrá. Karitá. Dandamayi. Ujiá. Nuliyá.
Bihar ...	Kewut. Mála. Tiyar. Gunrhi. Banpár.

40. Kaibarta is a primary caste in Bengal, one subdivision of which Kaibarta jele are fishermen by occupation as well as by caste They are well represented in many districts, especially in Midnapore, Nadia, Purnea, etc. Some of them are quite in affluent circumstances and own lands, such as the old Rajas of Tamluk in Midnapore. Most of them do not catch fish themselves, but act as dealers and middlemen. The total number of the caste is large, but that of Kaibarta jeles in 79,120.

The Kewuts of Orissa and Bihar, about 372,000, who correspond to the Kaibartas of Bengal Proper, are still fishermen by occupation, though a section of them have adopted the profession of selling parched rice. They fish with nets and boats.

Mál, Mála and Míllah are the different names for the same class and caste of people who have derived their caste name from their occupation as boatmen. Probably in the beginning fishing was a subsidiary calling with them. Subsequently those who restricted themselves to fishing only adopted the name jhála (derived from jál—net). Total number 456,568.

Tiyar (Rajbansi jalias).—There is a great confusion about this caste. Though belonging to one caste and originally having fishing with fixed engines as their main occupation, the members of this caste style themselves differently in different districts. In some districts they are known as Rajbansis, and unfortunately from a similarity in name these have been classed as Koch, though obviously they are not of Mongolian blood. Total number 198,789.

Generally Málas or Míllahs fish with boats and nets in the rivers and estuaries, whereas Tiyars, including Rajbansis, prefer to be contented with fishing in the jheels, pools and other confined waters with various fixed appliances.

The Gokhas are fishermen, but their touch defiles and they rank far below Kewuts. They use only bamboo contrivances (shalua) and are forbidden to fish with nets. Those who are strictly following their caste occupation are known as Malik Gokha. In occupation Kewuts and Gokhas of Orissa correspond respectively to Malas and Tiyars of Bengal Proper. Total number 46,201.

The Jhoras are a numerous caste in Orissa and Chota Nagpur. They are usually fishermen, but are also gold washers and are supposed to be a sub-caste of Kewuts.

Machua Kandrá—Is a sub-caste of a low caste—(Kandra) in Orissa. The name is said to be derived from their skill in archery. The occupation of the sub-caste is to prepare and sell contrivances for catching fish.

Karita—Is a fishing caste found only in Puri and the Orissa States. Its origin is unknown. Its social status is very low. Khatia is an allied caste which only sells fish while the former also catches it.

Nuliyas—Are Telegu fishermen settled on the Puri coast from Gopalpur (Ganjam) and its neighbourhood. They are found in Puri, Nuagaon, Arakkuda, Manikpatna, Khirisai, Sahadi and Ramlenka. There are two sub-castes, viz: Varah (crew) and Jalaries (net-workers). They profess to be followers of Ramanuja. They worship Varuna (Hindu Neptune) with offerings of flowers and sweetmeats before launching a boat or casting a net. The rule amongst them is that a man should, wherever possible, marry his first cousin. They are the only people who go out to fish in the open sea. Number 9,785.

Ujias—Found in Balasore. Their traditional occupation is fishing and the caste name is probably derived from ujan "to swim" as the Ujias handle their nets swimming. Their social rank is very low. Total for Balasore and their Tributary States 6,608.

Gunrhis—Are found in Bihar and are generally regarded as allied to Kándus and Gours, but they are quite distinct, and their orthodox occupation is fishing. Total number for the Province is 143,247.

Karáls—Are fish sellers and fish salters, mostly found in Jessore and on both banks of the river Madhumati. They never catch fish. Their period of mourning is 11 days, and Chandal Brahmins preside over their religious ceremonies. But they do not intermarry with Chandals or Tiyars. They are limited in number and are practically a sub-caste of Chandal.

Banpár—A boating and fishing caste of Bihar (from ban—wood and par—split). They are very low caste Hindus. They eat everything, including crocodiles, skates and porpoises which they catch besides fish proper.

But their main occupation is to catch aquatic animals other than fish. Total number 5,440.

Chains.—A cultivating caste mainly but some members of which fish are found in Bihar and western Bengal and number about 129,002.

Danda manihi.—Also called danda chhatra manjhi and fishermen and day labourers and are found in the Orissa States and Midnapore.

Ghasi or Ghasiyo.—Are found in Chota Nagpur and in the Orissa States. They are fishermen and also musicians. Number 34,187.

Muriyari—Is a boating and fishing caste only found in the Bhagalpur Division, numbering 11,862.

Surahiya—Is another boating and fishing caste of Bihar. Number 15,184.

41. Muhammadans :—

Chaklai.	Mahimalmal.
Chandali.	Nikari.
Datiya or Dalatia or Dohaviya.	Pajhra.
Dhawa.	Kan.
Dahifarosh.	Kewari or Kunjra.

Shambuni.

Though there is no caste among the Muhammadans there are still some conventional divisions which have given rise to social grouping, based mainly on occupation Fishing and selling fish is the business of the several such groups enumerated above.

Mahifarosh or Maifarosh (mahi—fish and farosh—selling) both catches and sells fish. Number 2,114 (found in Mursh dabad).

Nikari—Sells fish but does not catch them and thus claims a somewhat higher status. Number 29,723.

Chaklai—Is a small community in Jessore of higher origin which has got degraded for selling fish.

Chandali—Is a small group of fish vendors in the 24-Parganas (known as Musalman Bagdi and is reported to be endogamous).

Dohariya and Pajhra—Are two small communities of Muhammadam fish vendors in Murshidabad.

Datiya and Mahimal—Catch fish as well as sell them retail.

Dhawa—Is a fish-catching caste of Northern, Central, and Western Bengal. Its members cannot intermarry with any other group. Its reported number exceeds 18,000, but may be greater.

Kan—Who are found all over Bengal Proper represent a group included under the general term Badiya. They follow fish-hook-making as a subsidiary occupation.

Kunjra or Kewari—Are most numerous in Bihar where their number exceeds 170,000. Some sell fish, many earn a livelihood as boatmen. Sabjifarash is a synonym for this caste as most of them are in addition greengrocers.

Punjra—Same as Mahifarohs found in Hooghly and Jessore. Number 80.

With one or two exceptions, such as Mahifarosh and Datia, Muhammadans seldom engage themselves in catching fish, but many of them are lessees of fisheries, middlemen and wholesale and retail vendors.

42. Besides these fishing castes, there are other castes a certain percentage of whom have taken to fishing as a profession. Among these the important ones are as follow :—

Caste.	Total Number.	Estimated percentage engaged in fishing.
Bagdi	1,011,491	14·9
Chandal	536,822	6·7
Pod	464,878	3

43. Hindu fishermen generally begin a season with the worship of the Ganges or other river, in which sacrifices are offered. Cessation of fishing takes place for short periods at different times in different places, but no general close season is observed.

44. Pious Hindus of better classes often abstain from fish on Sundays and during the months of Kartick (October-November) and Baisak (April-May). They also do not eat hilsa from the Dasarah to the Sri Panchwi day, i.e., from about the end of October to the end of January or for about three months after the close of the spawning season. But with the growth of heterodoxy these wise regulations, which had for their object the preservation of fish, are being generally disregarded.

45. The occupation of boatmen and that of fishermen are interchangeable and when one is slack the other is resorted to. These two professions are so closely allied that it is impossible to separate them. Some of the fishing castes have also taken to (1) agriculture, (2) domestic service, (3) ordinary labour, (4) care of animals or (5) selling fruits, vegetables and provisions, as their subsidiary occupation not connected with their recognised profession. Among kewuts the percentage of those who are agriculturists is considerable (65 per cent). Most of them make their own nets.

46. The actual catchers and carriers are not so well off as the middlemen who keep information about demand and supply, and with the help of a modest capital can always secure a good trade. The income of an average Calcutta middleman is said to be not less than Rs. 40 a month. Some of these men have in their own life secured a considerable fortune, and live in substantial brick buildings. The prosperity of the middlemen proves that in some localities at least good business is done. The income of an ordinary fish-catcher working with parties or by himself varies from Rs. 4 to Rs. 12. The income has undoubtedly risen, but so have prices all round. The fish-catchers have never been a prosperous class. Their calling is at best precarious and uncertain, and owing to the extremely perishable nature of the article with which they deal, and the necessity of disposing of it as quickly as possible, they are unable to reap the full advantage of a prosperous season and are often at the mercy of middlemen to whom they are under pecuniary obligations. It is the general opinion that the economic condition of fishermen has not improved. It appears to be admitted on all sides that the supply of fish has decreased, especially fresh-water carps. Moreover, apart from the normal increase of the fishing caste, the introduction and extension of railways and river steamers has thrown out of employ many members who formerly found ample occupation in plying cargo and passenger boats and who have helped to swell the number of those engaged in catching fish. All these causes have led to competition among them, of which the middlemen have not been slow to take advantage.

Probably the fish-catchers are just as badly off as they were 20 years ago, as was observed by an old Brahmin of 90 in a village in Jessore. The rigours of the caste system which artificially restrict a number of people to a fixed trade, irrespective of fluctuations in its requirements, act with full force upon the lower classes who are but slowly throwing off its shackles. A difficulty of a different kind arises when there is an increased demand for any particular kind of labour which the castemen concerned are unable to meet, as people of another caste will not readily take it up, although it may offer profitable occupation. There is every prospect that the employment of capital and the introduction of improved methods will secure to fisherman not only steady work but also good wages, both of which they lack at present. But the caste rules will stand in the way of any large extension of fishing operations for some time to come.

VI.—Fishing Implements.

46. In Bengal fish is captured to-day in very much the same way as it used to be done over a century ago, as appears from the drawings and descriptions given in Dr. Buchanan-Hamilton's great work. No appreciable improvement is perceptible in any of the methods, most of which are primitive and a good many of which lead to much loss to the fish-catchers.

The methods of capture at present in existence may be broadly classified as follows:—

A.—By fixed engines and nets.
B.—By moveable engines, nets, traps and other contrivances.
C.—By missile implements, such as spears and arrows.
D.—By baited hooks, springs, rods and lines, and bottom lines.
E.—By twisted cords and knots.

On close examination, it would appear that originally each of these different methods of capture was assigned to each of the different sections or castes into which the fishermen were divided. For instance, the Gokhas of Orissa and the Tiyars of Bengal proper are (or were at first) restricted to fixed engines only, i.e., ján bajá, kumár, kheyon, &c. Similarly, Málos were restricted to moveable engines, Kurangs to spearing; and fishing Pods and Bagdis to trapping of koi with barsas and knots in the paddy-fields, a profession which they still follow in some parts of Midnapore.

A.—FIXED ENGINES.

47. These may be complicated structures consisting of bamboo frames, lifts and nets as kháro jál or pháphar jál, or they may be simple split bamboo traps with a double screen like ghoni to be found in every Bengal village. Mál jál of Balasore, tatur jál of Jessore, kháro jál of North Bengal, ján and bajá of the Chilka and Chilwan of Bihar are good examples of fixed engines.

Mál jál is V-shaped. The two sides consist of nets 2 to 3 feet high supported and kept in position by bamboo poles driven in sand; the base is open and points toward the shore, while the apex lies towards the sea and is secured by a thick-woven detachable purse net which is attached to it. This arrangement of the nets is made on shallow firm bottom close to the beach which is fully covered during the high tide and is left almost dry at ebb. The fish caught is removed twice daily, and four times in the month the position of the enclosure has to be shifted to suit the varying depths of water. A large number of men are required in furnishing the necessary appliances, constructing and shifting the net, as well as for keeping watch and carrying the catches to the market. The length of the side of an ordinary mál is 1,200 feet, and that of the open base line nearly 950 feet.

Tatur jál is a fixed engine to catch in a flowing river where it is possible to throw a dam from bank to bank. A passage is left open in mid-stream where an enclosure of net (or split bamboo) is formed. A screen or guide from this enclosure floats down the river and is kept in position by the current and by floats and weights. Fish in their upward journey creep along this screen (36 feet in length) and arrive at the enclosure which can open only inwards by a valve. As soon as the fish realise their position, they try to clear the enclosure by jumping and are thus caught in the nets kept hanging over the top of the enclosure. Tatur jáls are found in Central Bengal as well as in other parts of the Province.

Huri jál, kheuner jál, kumar, &c., are also fixed engines which are constructed in more or less stagnant water to attract fish by providing shelter with twigs and branches of trees thrown in the water, and after some time to secure all that are found gathered there. These are employed in jheels and baors as well as in old river beds in Central Bengal.

Manna jál.—Near the mouth of a tidal khal, a double net of conical shape is fixed with bamboo posts. The wider mouth is kept open and to the narrow end is attached a spilt bamboo basket capable of holding two to ten maunds. The fish coming with the tide enter the net and thence pass into the basket. This net is in use in Midnapore and Balasore. It is made of hemp; length 25 cubits, price Rs. 50.

Bendi jál is a modification of the above and Gogá jál is an improvement on it; length 100 to 120 cubits, price Rs. 150.

Gogua jál or Dhara is a funnel-shapped net which is fixed with wooden posts near the mouth of a tidal river the direction of the open (wide) mouth changing with the change of the tide, and kept in position by floats and weights. Largely in use in the district of Balasore, price Rs. 30.

Ján is an extensive bamboo enclosure by which the fish that come for shelter and food in the shallow water near a bank are cut off from the rest of the water and are kept confined for daily capture until the enclosure dries up and the whole of the fish is caught. This method is much in vogue on the Chilka—one single ján often covering more than a square mile. Cost Rs. 150. The ján is fixed in localities where the fish are known to congregate.

Chilwan with arsi and ghana of Bihar resembles and probably takes the place of bajá or patta of the Chilka. Chilwan is a screen of spilt bamboo thrown right across a stream in shallow water, with a small space left in the middle, where a bamboo trap, such as arsi, ghani or ganja, is placed in which the fish are caught as they go up. Ganja is made of fine split bamboo and is a circular trap with valves opening inwards. Bitti, chárá and ghunie are corresponding basket traps in use in Lower Bengal.

Dara jál used in the open sea near Dublat (Saugor Island) is also a fixed engine, though it acts as a gill net. It is a very strong net made of hemp with 8″ meshes 50 bam (bam = about 5′ 3″) in length and 12 cubits in height. These nets are fixed across the current by means of large sát posts driven into the mud. The net is kept floating by means of big earthen pitchers (pai kalsi) or wooden barrels. Fishing is possible with it only in the cold weather.

From the above it is clear that fixed engines are in use in all waters from the open sea to the stagnant jheel.

Jhimri and kumri which are baited bamboo traps are also fixed engines, but of a very primitive kind. They are found in Singhbhum.

Cruives and bamboo screens are extensively employed in bheris jáns and bánds; ján cruives are termed patta and are made of split bamboo pieces tied up with jute or other fibre. The interstices are too small to allow even fry to pass. Split bamboo screens in bheris and in bánds also allow only water to pass through.

Chilwans of Bihar are thin split bamboo screens. They are used in connection with fixed engines, but occasionally also used as a moving screen to bring up fish caught within a larger area into a smaller enclosure.

Weirs and bánds are numerous in all sluggish rivers. Their baneful effect on Bengal rivers and on the supply of fish is a matter which deserves very careful inquiry. They are usually impassable barriers thrown right across a river with a small passage guarded by a floating bamboo pole. A series of them is often constructed at short intervals along the entire course, and they not only intefere with the free passage of boats, but accelerate the process of silting up. To fish life the result has been disastrous, as they effectually bar the upward journey of breeding fish, especially of the carp family, to the spawning grounds as well as the downward passage of young ones later on. The diminution of carps in Bengal is to a certain extent due to this cause.

Unta is made of fine split bamboos and is used in Bihar. It corresponds to the ghuni of Lower Bengal.

Tehuki or suraila is the same as unta, except that the latter is used in deep water, whereas tehuki is intended for shallow water only.

B.—MOVEABLE ENGINES, NETS, TRAPS, AND CONTRIVANCES.

48. These may be subdivided into (1) nets and (2) bamboo implements.

(1) Moveable nets again may be generally classified under the following heads:—

(a) Cast. (c) Gill.
(b) Drag. (d) Purse.
(e) Labyrinth.

(a) Cast net—Found all over Bengal. It is called phenká jál in Singhbhum and Bankura, keplá or kheyá jál in Hooghly and pás jál in Midnapore. In some places it is also called máthá ghuráni (head encircling) which graphically explains the manner of throwing the net. It is of various sizes and of four different meshes ($\frac{1}{4}''$, $\frac{1}{2}''$, 1″ and 3″) and the price varies from Rs. 5 to Rs. 20. Those with small meshes are made of cotton and those with large ones of hemp. In Sambalpur it is called bhawar or sanki; other names for this net are bachi, báchári, chunámará, etc. This is the net which is in most use and can be worked by one man either from a boat or on foot. It has iron weights. It is dexterously whirled over the head and then cast, when it falls in the form of a circle.

(b) Drag nets.—These are often used with boats and a good many of them are provided with a purse. Thus the bara jál of Puri, though a drag net, has, as its main portion, a large pocket and may, therefore, also be termed a purse net. Ganthi, kanthi, and jungáliá jáls have pockets; but these pockets are situated at the bottom line and the nets are properly drag nets, and they almost scrape the bottom.

The following nets have this in common that they are provided with floats and weights, and are dragged to a point close to the bank or shore:—

Name.	Material.	Size.	Mesh.	Price.
				Rs.
Ber (general)	Cotton	150 × 16	1′	80
Dumri or tánd (Birbhum)	Flax	25 × 12	1″	3 to 5
Barang (Midnapore)	Cotton	150 × 12	4′	30 to 40

Jángalia or Jánglá.—Twelve pieces of this net, each measuring 21 × 12 cubits, are joined together to form a drag net. A strong rope passes through the upper edge. The lower edge is doubled up to 1′ and divided into pockets. The net is paid out from a boat, one end being left on a bank. It is then hauled over to dry land, and a good many fish are caught in the pockets.

Air (macronos aor) is said to be a very stupid fish and is easily caught by being driven in by a rope wrapped up in a covering of old or torn net. This is the dara jál of Jessore and is very different from the net of the same name used at Dublat.

Kanthi—Has many varieties and is used in shallow water. It is a doubled-up net, 12 cubits in length, joined together to cover and scrape a large area. The two edges of the free month are kept open by means of sticks (kanti). The close end is divided into pockets in which the fish are caught.

Bara jál—Of Bengal and Mahá jál of Bihar are also drag nets of great length used in big rivers.

Mahejal pouri—Is made of cotton 100 to 300 cubits in length and 5 to 6 cubits in breadth—price from Rs. 50 to Rs. 200.

Jali, bishád and bhesál—Are moveable drag or draw nets with bamboo frames and sometimes with bamboo handles and with meshes of all sizes.

Bheshál—Is largely used for catching bhetki in the Khulna Sundarbans; otters are often employed to drive in the fish, two to four being attached to each boat.

(c) Gill nets.—Nets in which fish are caught by the gills getting entangled in the meshes. As the size of the mesh is fixed, one sort of fish is usually caught by any particular net of this kind.

Koi jál—Is a gill net 1½ cubit broad and over 30 cubits in length; several pieces are joined together with which suitable localities are surrounded at night after the rains. Numerous koi fish are found entangled in the meshes of the net, price one rupee a piece.

Sainglá—Is worked from a boat by one hand, mesh 1⅓″ to 2″. Price (cotton) Re. 1 to Rs. 1-4 each. If made of hemp the price is Rs. 2-8 to Rs. 3. The shape is elliptical, and it is worked with two pieces of divided bamboo. A rope is tied to the lower piece, by means of which the fisherman can feel the approach of fish. He then draws up the lower portion and raises the net to the boat. Only hilsa is caught with this net.

Khári jál—Is also a gill net for catching hilsa, in which the rope is replaced by a long bamboo, mesh nearly 2″. Price, hemp Rs. 3-8, cotton Rs. 2-8. The shape is square and when doubled up measures 36′ × 18′.

Some fishermen prefer Sainglá and others khári. Saingla is only suitable for surface shoals, whereas khari goes down deeper.

Catamaran jál—Is made of cotton, size 404′ × 18′ with ½″ mesh. One corner of the net is held by a rope from the catamaran, the opposite corner is heavily weighted and the rest of the net is kept stretched by means of floats and weights carefully arranged. When a shoal of Kowla (Clupea fimbriata) pass through a good many get caught and entangled in the meshes, and the floats sink and the net is drawn up with the fish all hanging by their gills. This is in use in Puri.

(d) Purse net.—Sutijál, which is well known all over Bengal, is a very good example of a purse net. It has the shape of a long funnel the narrow end of which is secured by a piece of string. The net is kept stretched by the strong current; from time to time the fisherman comes round with his boat to the narrow end, takes up the end portion into his boat and clears all the catch and then puts the narrow end into the water again. A slight modification of this net is known as dhará jál in Orissa. Price of this net varies from Rs. 30 to Rs. 40. The meshes towards the end are exceedingly fine.

Ghungri—Is also a purse net, but is used in connection with mál jál which is a fixed engine. Ghungri is placed at the open apex of the triangular enclosure which the fish enter with the receding tide through the open base. Ghungri can be easily removed from the fixed engine without disturbing the permanent structures. It is taken to the shore with the whole of the catch which is then conveniently divided among the members of the party.

Choba jál—Is a purse net with a long tapering end, and is used as a plunge net chiefly in shallow water to capture fish which lie half concealed in the mud; made of hemp or cotton with iron and lead weights. Price Re. 1 to Rs. 2. Reported from West Bengal (Birbhum) and Bihar.

Chhák jál or chák jál—Is a small conical bag 3 feet in length, with a circular mouth edged with a split bamboo hoop and with a septum about 11 inches from the mouth leading into the lower portion of the net. It is found in almost all parts of Bengal. In Orissa it is termed dangi, price annas 6 to annas 8.

(e) Labyrinth net—Koná jál—Is a good example, and perhaps the only specimen of a labyrinth net in Bengal. It is the most ingenious and elaborate kind of net that we have come across. It is a drift net with a purse and side walls and has all the advantages of ber or chhándi jál for catching hilsa. The purse which is a capacious one is guarded by two side walls (nets), to one of which is attached a guiding net. The purse and the side walls are kept in position by bamboo poles. During the rainy season when ber jál is out of the question koná jál is employed to catch hilsa in the Madhumat; price Rs. 200 or more.

Moveable catching apparatus other than nets.

49. Polo (dhoika)—Is extensively used throughout the Province. It is a trap made of split bamboos. Used in shallow water. It is like a bell-jar with a wide bottom and narrow open neck. It is suddenly plunged into the water, and fish found inside are taken out by hand through the narrow opening; price from annas 2 to annas 8. Táp is the name given to it in Gaya and Bihar.

Honchá—Is a fishing scoop made of split bamboos. It is cylindrical in form and ends in a tapering handle; price annas 4 to annas 8.

Bamboo jáli—Is more like a triangular thelá jáli, but made of split bamboo or rushes.

Bochna—Is more cylindrical than a polo, but wider than honcha, and at the same time has a hooked handle to allow a better grip; price annas 4 to annas 5.

C.—Missile Implements.

50. Konch or chowki—Is a bundle of spears of split bamboo generally tipped with iron points, 6′ in length; price from annas 8 to Re. 1-8.

Juti.—A piece of thin bamboo 12′ long with 7 pointed hooks; cost Re. 1.

Aro—Is a long spear bamboo handle with 3 iron pointed heads.

Kula or Anchra—Is a long hooked handle to find and drag out sluggish eels buried in the mud.

Bow and arrow mainly reported from Darbhanga. The Gandak being very clean and transparent during certain seasons, fish are often shot with arrows; price Re. 1.

Sahatki kothi—Made of iron and bamboo, corresponds to koch of Bengal.

Scythe.—In some of the districts a deadly wound is inflicted by means of a scythe instead of a spear. A lighted torch is held in the left hand and a scythe in the right. The torch is constantly moved to and fro. The fish being surprised waits spell bound gazing at the light, when it is struck.

Tentá with torch light—Spearing fish by torch light. A long torch, 6″ or 8″ in diameter, is made of bamboo shavings, and is placed on the prow of a dongá or dug-out. The torch is lighted at dusk, and the canoe quickly propelled by a man in the stern. Another man armed with a four-pronged spear (tentá) stands near the light. Attracted by the light, the fish swim up to the canoe and are speared with rapid thrusts.

D.—BAITED HOOKS, RODS AND LINES, ETC.

51. The simplest kind of baited hook is koi barsá. It is a kind of hook made of fine split bamboo, doubled up, the two ends of which are secured by means of a segment of a grasshopper which is used as a bait. As soon as the bait is swallowed, the ends of the hook are released and spread out with a bound inside the mouth of the fish, which is thus secured. It is used for catching koi.

Sol barsá—Is an iron hook with which sol fish are caught.

Most of the Siluridæ which are bottom feeders are caught by a series of baited hooks, each tied with short strings in a long line or rope a foot apart. One end of this line (or rope) is tied to a heavy weight (stone) which makes the line sink; the free end being tied to a detached branch or some such thing, keeps the line stretched. A float is attached to this weight, which indicates the position as well as gives some idea whether a sufficient number of baits have been taken.

There is a spot close to the Puri beach, which is named Pedraya by local fishermen, where ballast used to be thrown in those days when ships came in ballast. There lines are cast from catamarans to bait big bottom fish. They are 64 feet long. Two men with four hooks fish in this area from each catamaran, and use the cuttle-fish as bait. These hooks are bought in Madras.

Fishing with rods and lines is very popular all over Bengal. Hooks are made in all important fishing centres—but imported hooks are preferred. The material for line is almost everywhere tagi or tozi (twisted tasar thread). Price annas 8 to annas 12.

Dongri—As the long fishing line of Gaya is called, is made of hemp and often costs Rs. 10 a set.

In Bihar Banpárs catch crocodiles by fixing lines of big hooks across their path when they go on shore to bask.

E.—TWISTED CORDS AND KNOTS.

52. The knots are a kind of fixed engines, but as they are very primitive and the catching is left more to chance than to design, they are described separately.

Barh.—The name is given to the twisted knots of sar grass, and is suspended from a ridge at a point where there is an opening for the passage of water. Fish coming from rice fields are caught in them.

Phánd of Nalban in the Chilka is the most ingenious of these simple contrivances. It is made of fibres extracted from the stalks of palm leaves. A series of loops of gradually diminishing diameter are made of the twisted fibres, which are then joined at equal intervals by a thin string of the same material. The loops then look like tapering bags which are attached to the reeds just a little below the surface of the water. Fish come to Nalban through the shallow channels to eat the grass, but, having entered the thick reeds, lose their way and make for any openings that are found near at hand. Once a fish puts its head inside a phánd, it is unable to recede, and in its mad struggle gets more entangled and is often killed at once. Khonga (mugil) and sahal (Polynemus indicus) are caught in this way in the rainy season.

BOATS.

53. The fishing boats of Bengal may be described under three different classes:—

(1) Dug-outs—Which are differently named as donga, canoe or ekhta (Bihar). These are single trunks of mango, sál, tree cotton, palmyra palm and other trees scooped out, and are extensively used throughout the Province. Capacity varies from 3 to 20 maunds, and one man is enough for each. Price varies from Rs. 3 to Rs. 20.

(2) Dingi—(dakhtea of Bihar).—These are small boats, ordinarily of sál or teak. Parokia boats of Contai, juli dingis (bhesal or saingla boats of Jessore) and dukhtea of Bihar may be all placed under this class. Two men suffice to manage these boats. Their size is about 25′×4′ and maundage 12. Cost about Rs. 80.

(3) The big or daria boats comprise all the rest. They are usually 40′×5′, with a capacity of over 50 maunds. Cost about Rs. 200. Bachari boat of Khulna and the big boats of Ulubaria all come under this class. The latter varv in their capacity from 150 to 500 maunds, and cost from Rs. 300 to Rs. 1,000. The largest of them visit Dublat and Saugor regularly during the winter months, and are the only fishing boats that venture out to sea. Putta of Cuttack (Kanika) and malangi of Balasore are employed in the estuaries, and their capacity is about 100 maunds, and cost Rs. 150. Patua boats of the Chilka are flat-bottomed boats specially suited for use in shallow water only. Masulah boats of Puri are an introduction from Madras along with Nulia fishermen: these are good sized, flat-bottomed boats, with the planks sewn together with cane strips. They are good enough for working close to the beach, but are quite unsuited to go out to the sea.

Catamarans are largely employed in fishing, and are composed of four entire trunks of trees held together with wooden pegs, the two middle trunks acting as a keel.

Bhala of Birbhum is a raft made out of Sholá (pith) bundles.

The number of fishing boats is reported to be 2,000 from each of the districts of 24-Parganas, Jessore and Khulna. Ulubaria alone reports 1,500, whereas Midnapore returns only 200. The figures are unreliable, but the number of boats engaged in fishing is very considerable.

VII.—Fishes caught.

54. Fresh-water fishes are will represented in the Bengal waters, and fairly long lists have been received from several districts, but only local names have been furnished in most of them. The work of identifying every species and giving its scientific nomenclature has been taken in hand, but it has not been possible to make much headway. We have also a fair enumeration of the estuarine fish, but only a beginning has been made with the preparation of a list of marine fish. It is hoped to make a full and comprehensive catalogue of the fishes of Bengal with all their known vernacular names, so that the work of indentification may be simplified once for all.

55. The following account gives a brief description of the principal varieties which have come to notice in the course of the present enquiry.

Fresh-water fishes.

Sharks and skates are sometimes caught high up in the rivers, but they properly belong to the sea and estuaries.

Among Physostomi—Of the family Siluridæ—Clarius magur, Saccobranches fossilis (singhi), boal (Wallago attu), Eutropiichthys vacha (bacha), Callichrous pabda (pafta) Alia coila (kajuli or baspati), Pangasius buchanani (pángas), Siland (Silundia gangetica), Macrones aor (Air), Macrones corsula (tengra) have been reported from almost all the districts. Some of the Siluridæ are gross feeders (e.g., pángas and rita), which are not eaten by higher classes, but go to cheapen the price of fish eaten by the lower classes.

Of other species of this family (Siluridæ) caught and sold in Bengal, the following may be mentioned:—

Sisor rhabdophorus (chennuah),
Pseudecheneis sulcatus.
Pseudeutropius goongwaree.
Pseudeutropius murius (Muri bacha).
Pseudeutropius garua (Punia bachua).
Macrones cavasius (kavasi tengra).
Macrones vittatus (tengra).
Arius nenga (nenga tengra).
Gagáta cenia (Patta chatta).

56. The best known fresh-water fish belong to the carp family.

„ boga (bhagon bata).
Cirrhina latia (kala batta).
„ reba (reba).
Amblypharyngodon mola (moraru).
Amblypharyngodon microlepsis.
Rasbora elanga (elang).
„ daniconia (Daricuni).

„ ticto (tit punti).
„ sarana (saral punti).

Sarana, punti, dankini are smaller species with which rivers, jheels and tanks abound.

57. In fresh water a good many of the Clupea family are caught, though the principal species properly belong to the sea:—

Clupea ilisha, clupea chapra (coori) are extensively caught in the rivers, and the latter is a fresh-water clupea—so is Corica soborna (subarna kharika).

Raconda russelliana (phosa) is found in the rivers, but it is properly an estuarine fish.

Engraulis telara (tel tampuri) is also found and caught in fresh water.

Both the Notopteridæ, i.e., Notopterus kapirat (phali) and Notopterus chitala—are fresh water fishes—they breed in tanks, and stagnant water and are extensively caught.

Of the family Scombresocidæ—Belone cancila (kákle) are regularly caught for which there seems to be some demand.

Acanthopterygii—Ambassis among Percidæ is very small in size, but is a genus which provides a large amount of food. Ambassis nama, a. ranga, a. baculis are all known as "chándá"

Of Gobiidæ—Gobius giuris (gula) is a fresh water representative which is caught and utilized as food.

Of Labyrinthici—Anabas scandens (koi), Trichogaster chuna (kalse) Trichogaster fasciatas (large khalse) are found in abundance.

Of Rhynchobdellidæ—(1) Rhynchobdella aculeata (Tara baim), Mastacembelus Zebrinus (raj pakal), Mastacembelus pancalus (gochi pakal), are all caught and command a good sale.

Of the family Mugilidæ Mugil corsula and Mugil cascasia are the only fresh water representatives which are very much sought after and caught for consumption.

Of the Ophiocephalidæ—(1) Ophiocephalus striatus (sol), (2) Ophiocephalus marulius (sal or gazal), (3) Ophiocephalus gachua (cheng) and Ophiocephalus punctatus (Rakta cheng) are caught largely.

Of the Anacantheni and Plectognathi, no fresh water representatives have been reported worth utilising as food.

Fishes caught in the sea and estuaries.

58. I.—Of Elasmobranchs (chondropterygii)—

(1) Zygæna blochii (julia magar),
(2) Pristes cuspidatus (khán da magar),
(3) Pteroplata micrura (kulta),
(4) Aëtobatis narinari (sanka chil),
(5) Rhynchobatus djeddensis,
(6) Urogymnus asperrimus,
(7) Trygon sephen,

and several others are caught.

59. II.—Teleostei—Of Plysostomi—The family Symbranchidæ supplies Amphipnous cuchia (kuchia) which are found and caught extensively in brackish water.

Of family Siluridæ—(1) Plotus canius (kan magur), (2) Arius gagora (gagat), (3) kentengu typus (meda) and few others are exclusively brackish, but many of the fresh water representatives are also found in the estuaries and sea. Bagarius yarrellii (Bag Air) attains 6 feet.

Carps are entirely absent, but the Clupeidæ are very well represented. Clupea ilisha (hilsa), Opisthopterus tartoor (tarture) Raconda russelliana (kura phasa), Engraulis hamiltoni (phasa), E. telara (Tel tampri), E. indicus (kagaja), Chatoessus nasus (Barang), Coila dussumieri (ocrialli), Chanos salmoneus (sabá), Clupea kanagurta and C fimbriata.

The only representative, Chirocentrus dorab (khandá), of family Chirocentridæ is very largely caught and consumed.

Family Scopelidæ—Harpodon nehereus (Bombay duck) and Saurus myops (koniari).

Family Scombresocidæ—Hemirhampus cantori (gangturi), H. ectuntio and Exocaetus poecilopterus (flying fish) are caught and sold.

Of Acanthopterygii the sea claims numerous representatives, most of which are very valuable as food.

Of the family Percidæ—

(1) Lates calcarifer (bhekti),
(2) Cromileptes altiveles (khaibel),
(3) Serranus sonnerate (son bhekti), are largely caught and are considered good eating.

Of family Nandidæ—

Nandus marmoratus is the only brackish water fish (which is occasionally also found in the fresh waters, i. e. Bodosi of Orissa) which is largely caught and eaten.

As a familly Polynemidæ is very important though having only a few representatives in the Bengal seas. Polynemus paradiseus (mango fish), P. indicus (chhela of 24-Parganas and sahal of Orissa). Other species reported are polynemus xanthonemus, P. sextarius, P. sexfilis, P. Plebeius, and P. tetradactylus.

Of family Sclæniæ Sciæna cuja (danteens), S. coitor (bhola), Scavenoides pama (koii bhola), Otolithus maculatus (berisli) are caught, but not much esteemed as food.

Of Trichiuridæ—Trichiurus muticus, T. haumela and T. Savala (rupa patia) are caught and command a good price.

Of the family Caransidæ (1) Chorinemus moadetta, (2) C. lysan (Talia para or kárisa), (2) Psettas argenteus (chanda), (3) Platax teira, (4) Equula edentula (tanka chanda) and (5) Equula blochii are esteemed as food and are largely caught.

Of the family Stromateidæ—the important species caught are Stromateus sineusis (white pomfret) S. cinereus (adult-grey pomfret) (immature-silver pomfret), S. niger (Báhál of Orissa)—all these are considered very good eating.

Of the family Coryphænidæ the only species, i. e., Mene maculata (chanda) always commands a good market and is largely caught.

Of the family Scombridæ (1) Thynnus thunnia, Pelamys chiliensis, Cybium commersonii (champa) C. guttatum (Madras seir) are important.

Of the family Trachinidæ—the most important species caught is Sillago canijus (Guj karma). It ascends rivers and tidal estuaries, and is considered light and wholesome food.

Of the family Gobiidæ—Gobius kokius is the sea and estuarine representative of Gobius giuris of the fresh water. Apocryptes bato (Tutta) Periopthalmus koelreuteri and Periopthalmus schlosseri, Boleophthalmus viridis, Eleotris fusca (Balia), E. amboinensis, Gobiodes anguillaris, G. cirratius, G. buchanani, G. rubicundus are the representatives of the several species which are known by the general name Bêle and are largely caught and eaten.

Of the family Rhynchobdellidæ--Rhynchobdella aculeata (Tara báim) Mastacembelus unicolor (Pákál) M zebrinus (Ráj Pákál), M. pancalus (Gochi pákál) are excellent as food and are found both in fresh as well as brackish waters.

Of the family Mugilidæ Mugil tade (Bhangon) and Mugil oeur (Ash Bhagon of Calcutta and Khoyenga of Orissa) are very largely caught and much prized as food. Dried khoyenga roe is considered a delicacy. Mugil parsai (tarui) is a small Mugil (5″ to 6″) and is largely caught.

Among Anacantheni the family of Pleuronectidæ is the only representative in the sea and estuaries of Bengal. They are all flat fishes (soles). The important species caught are :—

(1) Solea ovata (kántál páttá),
(2) Synaptura pan,
(3) Cynoglossus bengalensis (kukurjibh),
(4) C. hamiltonii (Bánspátá) and
(5) C. brevis.

(1) Triacanthus brevirostris,
(2) T. strigilifer,
(3) Tetrodon lunaris,
(4) T. patoca, and
(5) T. cutcutia

are reported, some of which are utilized as bait for crabs.

VIII.—Economic value of different kinds of fish.

60. Every kind of fish is eaten, and though a few sorts are avoided by certain classes and a preference is shown for others, the masses exercise no such choice and consume whatever is within their reach.

Most of the fish consumed is eaten fresh, though sometimes in various stages of decomposition. Owing to the difficulty of transport and to the total absence of any arrangement for cool store, the fish has to be disposed of near the place of capture, and it is only during the cold weather that the railway is made use of for sending fish to any distance. The marine and estuarine fish are consumed only in the coast districts, though in Orissa considerable quantities of them are sent inland in a dried or salted state. In Lower Bengal and Bihar the use of preserved fish is very limited. Fresh water fish is exclusivly consumed in Bihar and the greater portion of Lower Bengal. The first place among purely fresh water fishes is occupied by the carps, especially—

Rahu (Labeo rohita),
Katla (Catla buchanani),
Mirgal (Cirrhina mrigala),
Kalabaus (Labeo calbasu).

They are found in rivers and are reared in tanks and reservoirs, and attain a considerable size. The Rahu is a universal favourite with all classes and always fetches a good price. Amongst the other varieties which are good eating are:—

Chital or moi (Notopterus chitala), rather bony, attains several feet in length.
Saralpunthi (Barbus sarana), one foot.
Kákila or Gangturi (Belone cancila), 10 inches.
Váchá (Eutropiichthys vacha), one foot.
Pabta (Callichrous Pabda), ditto.
Batasia or Kajuli (Ailia coila), 7 inches.

Dankuni (Rasbora daniconius),
Gagot (Gagota cenia),
Chapila (Clupea chapra),
Goni (Labeo gonius),
Tengara (Macrones tengara),
Nadim (Labeo nandina).

61. There is adother group of purely fresh water fishes which thrive in dirty, stagnant water. The chief varieties are—

(a) Koi (Anabas scandans),
(b) Magur (Clarius magur),
(c) Singi (Saccobranchus fossilis),
(d) Soul (Ophiocephalus striatus),
(e) Cheng or látá { O. punctatus. O. gachua.

Of these the first three are in great demand with all classes of the people and sell well. They are considered very nourishing and good for invalids. Koi has a good flavour but it is full of troublesome bones. Sol only attains to any large size, and when big is not to be despised, but cheng is the coarsest of all, and the smaller variety, O. gachua, is largely used as bait. All the above fishes are dark and ungainly in appearance.

62. The next group consists of small fishes seldom exceeding 6 inches in length and some much smaller:—

Marulla (Aspidoparia morar),
Punti (Barbus punti),
Khalisha (Trichogaster fasciatus and T. chuna),
Chela, Chilwa } (Chela phulo).

There are also several varieties of ambassis which fall under this group. Large quantities of the fishes of this group are caught everywhere, mainly in jheels. In the rainy season they are caught in every hollow and rice-field. Collectively they form the largest proportion of the fish consumed.

There is a very large siluroid—Bagh air (Bagarius yerrellii) attaining 6 feet in length, which is found in the larger rivers. It is eaten only by the lower classes.

63. There are some varieties which are found in both fresh and brackish water, the best known of which is the hilsa (Clupea ilisha). Among the others are—

Air (Macrones aor),
Boali (Wallagu attu),
Silond (Silondia gangetica),
Pangas (Pangasia buchanani), all of which grow to a large size and are gross feeders, especially the last. Rita (Rita buchanani) is smaller, but comes under this group.

Elanga called also arwari (Mugt corsula) is a well-known and delicious fish which is found very high up.

Tengra (Macrones vittatus) and Bele (gobius giuris) are not large in size, but great quantities of them are eaten.

64. Of the estuarine and sea fishes none is better known or more esteemed than bhekti (Lates calcarifer), and topsi or mango fish (Polynemus paradiseus) and the following also are of great value:—

Bhangon (Mugil tade).
Khonga or ash bhangon (M. oeur).
Dangir or danglea [M. belanak (?).]
Parsia or taoroi (M. parsia).
Tel tamri (Engraulis telara).
Tarui bhangon, guchhia or sahal (Polynemus indicus).
Kan magur (Plotosus canius).
Khaira (Clupea fimbriata).
Ekthute (Hemiramphus cantori).
Khuranti or datina (Pagrus spinifer and Chrysophrys datina).

Sobha (Chanos salmoneous) is found occasionally in the Chilka. It is a clupea and the Raja Bahadur of Parikud assured me that as regards taste and flavour it is the best of all fishes. It is found largely in Southern India.

Chándá is a term loosely applied to several varieties belonging to different families such as Stromateidœ, Squamipinnes, Carangidœ, and Coryphœnidœ. Some of these are true pomfrets (Stromateus) and come from Balasore and Puri, but they are generally small in size.

65. Among the purely marine varieties are son bhekti (Serranus sonnerata), samudra koi, (Lobotes surinamensis), rupapatia or ribbon fish (Trichiurus haumala) and several species of polynemus.

Bijram or seir (cybium guttatum) and other fish of Scombridæ family and some representatives of Pleuronectidæ (soles) are found along the coast. But they are usually of small size and are chiefly of value as indicating their presence and showing that with proper appliances for deep sea fishing more successful hauls could be made.

Bombay duck (Harpadon nehereus) is by no means rare, especially at the Sandheads; if it could be brought into Calcutta fresh it would find a ready market.

Eels which come under different families are found in both fresh and brackish water, especially in the estuaries, and are consumed to a large extent.

66. The estuaries and tidal rivers abound in crustacea of which the principal are—shrimps, prawns and crabs. During the rainy season the waters are often thick with the young of crab, which must furnish abundant food to many kinds of fish. Good sized crabs are found throughout the Sundarbans, but the best and largest are caught in the Chilka, in small bamboo traps; sukura (Triacanthus brevirostris) which is plentiful, but is never eaten, being used as bait. There are special fixed nets with very fine meshes for catching shrimps and the hauls are sometimes so large that in Balasore they can then be had for less than half an anna per seer. Prawns of all sizes, some as big as lobsters, are abundant and always find a ready sale. Both shrimps and prawns are also sold in a dry state. Crabs are seldom found in fresh water, and shrimps and cray fish are met with in limited numbers.

67. Molluscs which are so largely consumed in many countries are, in Bengal, wholly neglected, even the poorest classes seldom touching them. They of course furnish food to fish, and the dried shells are collected and burnt for lime, but they have no other economic value. Oysters are found at Manikpatna on the Chilka, and a few places on the Cuttack coast, such as Sâtbhâya and False Point, but the beds are not looked after, nor is any attempt made to create a market for them.

68. Although skates and sharks get caught in large numbers along the Orissa coast, especially in Balasore, their flesh is seldom eaten and they are simply thrown away. Sharks do not usually ascend the rivers, but skates travel long distances. In Lower Bengal skates are sometimes eaten, but in Bihar skates, crocodiles and the mammal porpoises are regularly pursued by the Banpârs who eat their flesh and make oil from their livers.

IX.—Consumption of Fish.

69. Fish is a general article of food throughout the province and is highly prized by all, epecially by the Bengali and Urya-speaking peoples.

The abstainers from fish are:—

1. Jains
2. Some Brahmins in Bihar.
3. Widows of a few high castes, such as Brahmins, Vaidyas and Kayasthas.
4. A limited number of ascetics and Vaishnavas.
5. Infants 5 years old and under.

It is worthy of note that in Lower Bengal and Orissa, Brahmins and Vaishnavas, as such, do not eschew fish but on the contrary indulge in it as freely as the other castes.

70. The population of the Province, 50¼ millions, and the number of those who come under the above classes as not eating fish is about 7 millions or 14 per cent. This leaves 86 per cent. or, making further allowances, it may be affirmed that not less than 80 per cent. or 40 millions of the population are fish-eaters. People do not care to eat fish every day and with Hindus there are certain prohibited periods, so that we may estimate 320 days in the year when fish would be taken. Allowing 2 chataks a day, the quantity per head comes to one maund, and 40 million maunds would represent the proper annual consumption of the Province, were the supply equal to the demand which it is not.

71. In Bihar wheat is usually preferred by those who can afford it and the lower classes mostly live on maize and other grains, but rice also is in much use, while in Lower Bengal, Orissa and Chota Nagpur rice is the staple food. Fish goes well with rice and, fried or curried, does much to impart relish and flavour to it, besides supplying the nitrogenous element which rice lacks. There is therefore a great demand for fish in all rice-eating countries, such as Japan, China, etc. The same is the case in those parts of India where the people live on rice, viz.—Bengal (old and new), Burma and the coast districts of Madras and Bombay.

72. In Bengal, fish largely takes the place of meat and there are thousands of people who do not taste meat even once in a year but who have fish, whenever they can get it with their principal meals, twice a day. From nearly every district there is the same complaint that the supply of fish is wholly inadequate to the demand, and much more would be taken, if it could be got. The persistency with which the masses pursue fish with every conceivable kind of contrivance whenever there is the least chance of catching any, however small in size or poor in quality, shows clearly how the finny tribe is prized as food.

X.—Carriage of Fish.

73. A great deal of the fish caught is consumed locally or in the immediate neighbourhood. The fish is carried in baskets or bags by the catchers themselves to their houses and thence hawked about by their womenfolk in the villages, but more often it is sold in the daily bazars, where such exist, or in the weekly or bi-weekly markets which are held all over the Province, not only for the sale of fish, but for all kinds of commodities of daily use. In some cases the catchers dispose of their fish to dealers (nikaris) on the spot and the latter take them to the bazars and markets for sale. In a few cases wholesale dealers intervene, have the fish conveyed to the markets by paid carriers, and there sell them to retail vendors.

74. In the cold weather, which is also the time when fish of the better sorts are more largely caught there is a freer distribution by rail, and fish is sent fresh to distant markets. All the principal stations on the Ganges in Bihar, such as Arrah, Patna, Monghyr, Bhagalpur, Colgong, Sahebgunj and Rajmahal then send regular consignments of good carps, chiefly to Calcutta, but also to Hooghly and Burdwan. The fish is usually packed in open baskets and occasionally in bags and despatched by wholesale dealers to their correspondents in the consigning stations, and sometimes consignees have their own agents in the producing centres. In Bhagalpur, for instance, the lessee of two important Ganges fisheries is a Muhammadan resident of Murshidabad. In the cold weather he takes a number of fishermen from his native district with boats, nets and other appliances, and does a large export business with Calcutta. It may be noted in this connection that even before the railways fish used to be sent down from Bhagalpur to Calcutta in the cold weather by fast carrier boats having a large crew. Ice is seldom used.

75. Fish is also sent by rail to Calcutta from Chandipur in Balasore and occasionally from Puri and the Chilka, but only in the cold weather. Khulna becomes a large despatching depôt in the cold weather, and fish is sent by rail not only to Calcutta but to several stations on the line. From various places on the Hooghly fish is received in Calcutta by rail throughout the year, and hilsa comes from Damukdia and Goalundo often packed in ice, during the rains, when that favourite fish is in season. From the returns furnished by the railways it appears that 43,262 maunds of fish were imported into Calcutta in 1905-06 by the different railways.

76. Boats are largely used in the conveyance of fish, both fresh and dried, as well as alive, and the Calcutta market is supplied in this way to a great extent from Khulna and the adjacent districts of East Bengal. The canals show an import of 1,49,522 maunds by boats during the same period.

Live bhetkis are put in crates which are towed by boats and brought all the way from the furthest corners of Khulna to Dhappa on the Salt Lake, the journey occupying 3 to 7 days, but a portion of the cargo is always lost. This mode is resorted to more in the rains and hot weather, when dead fish cannot be sent fresh by rail. In the cold weather special fast carrier boats are employed by all parties of Sundarbans fishermen to convey the catches to the nearest railway station.

77. There are certain fish unknown to the table of Europeans, but largely consumed by the people of the country, which are furnished with special breathing apparatus enabling them to live for a long time in very little water such as koi (anabas scandens), magur (clarius magur), and singi (saccobranchus fossilis . When dead they fetch a very low price and the better classes would not eat them at all. So, every effort is made to bring them alive to the market and they are put in the well of a boat, a constan tchange of fresh water being secured by means of a hole made in the bottom and the water coming th rough being baled out from above. In this way these fishes can be kept alive for many days with very little loss.

Boats are employed in bringing the fish, chiefly dried, from the fishing grounds in the Cuttack estuaries and across the Chilka in Puri. But the mode of removal from the foreshore fisheries in Balasore is by men's loads.

78. Steamers are seldom used for the conveyance of fresh fish. The passenger launches that ply on the Hooghly might be of great use for bringing fish up to Calcutta, but they are avoided by the fish dealers owing to the rapacity and highhandedness of the clerks and the crew in charge, a bad instance of which was personally witnessed by my Assistant and which was brought to the notice of the authorities concerned. With the exception of the occasional use of ice in packing fish for the Calcutta market, no other form of cool storage is known or practised, and no launches or steamers are employed in collecting the catches from the fishing centres, nor are any special facilities offered by the railway for the conveyance of fish, except the provision of separate wagons furnished with racks, but these too are not always forthcoming.

XI.—Fish Preserving.

79. There is a great demand for fresh fish, which is ever on the increase owing to the growth of population and improvement in the means of communication. The supplies are in many places quite inadequate and have to be supplemented from all available sources. The price of fresh fish is always better than that of preserved; and in view of the crude and insanitary modes of curing usually adopted, it is not surprising that preserved fish is generally avoided by the better classes and is only consumed by the poorer population and by them also in localities where fresh fish is not attainable or is beyond their means.

80. The following modes of preserving are observed in this Province:—

(a) Drying in the sun.
(b) Boiling and drying in the sun or by artificial heating.
(c) Dry salting.
(d) Wet salting.

81. (a) Drying in the sun.—This is the process most largely resorted to especially with the smaller kinds which are put out in the sun as caught without any cleaning on mats or on the sand, and after three or four days gathered up and placed in bags or open baskets for removal. The larger sorts are opened up and their entrails removed before drying. There is always a foul smell and the dried stuff does not keep for very long, especially in wet weather. In some cases the fish is not dried until all efforts to sell it fresh have failed and putrefaction has set in. There is very little drying done in Lower Bengal, but in North Bihar a certain amount of fish is dried for export to Nepal. The largest amount of simple drying takes place on the Balasore Coast, and considerable quantities of dried shrimps and small fish of all kinds are sent to the interior of the district as well as to Midnapore and the Tributary States of Orissa.

82. (b) Boiling and drying in the sun or by artificial heating.—This method is followed only in the case of prawns intended for the Burma market and si carried out in two centres. In Khulna there are several depôts for the purpose. The business was introduced some 25 years ago by a Muhammadan from Surat whose firm still heads the list, though a few others have followed his example. From March to September prawns are caught by fishermen in the numerous creeks and channels of the district and by them sold fresh to the dealers who have factories for boiling and drying them, the principal firm using trolleys and heated chambers for the purpose, in which the drying is completed in two or three hours. The shells are separated by beating and the inner stuff, which gets broken up into the shape of large peas, is packed in bags. It keeps for some time. In other cases the fishermen themselves do the boiling and drying and sell the prepared stuff to the dealers. This business brings a very large amount of money into the district for distribution to the fishing population at a time when work is otherwise slack. The same business is done on the Chilka Lake by a Muhammadan trader from Ganjam who also exports to Burma. There the season is from January to March. The prawns are boiled and dried in the sun, no artificial heating being practised. This form of preserving, though very effective, is unacceptable to the Hindus, as the fish being boiled cannot be eaten by them without loss of caste.

83. (c) Dry salting.—It is practised chiefly in the estuaries of Cuttack and on the Chilka, where all but the very small ones are preserved in this way. The fish are ripped up into two from the snout to the tail, entrails taken out and the inside washed and cleaned ; salt is then rubbed both inside and outside and the fish placed in small rows under some pressure, as that of a plank, and the juice allowed to exude for a little time. They are then spread out in the sun for a few days until they are quite dry. Dry salt is then put inside, the quantity varying according to the size of the fish, and the two halves which remain joined at the back are then folded and the fish is ready for despatch. The fish keeps good for several months and is sent to different parts of Orissa, including Sambalpur. This is a very clean process and there is no particularly offensive smell. Hilsa, bhetki and all other large kinds as well as the roes of certain varieties of mugils are treated in this way.

84. (d) Wet salting.—This is only practised in Khulna and Nadia for preserving hilsa. The fish are cut up into transverse slices and kept in earthen pots in brine. Tamarind is sometimes used. The fish emits a nasty smell and requires an acquired taste to relish it. Hilsa so treated comes to Calcutta in small quantities from the Madhumati in Khulna and the Ganges in Nadia and Faridpur.

None of the modern improved methods of curing and preserving fish, such as smoking, canning or preserving in oil are practised.

85. The amount of preserving done in Bengal is so limited that the question of reducing or abolishing the duty on salt used in curing has not here the importance which it possesses in other Provinces, such as Madras. It is true that if salt were cheaper, more would be used in curing, but the demand for fresh fish is so great, that until there is a considerable expansion of fishing operations, there would not in any case be any great increase over the quantity now dried. In Cuttack and Puri where alone salting is done on a large scale, the process is such that any measure of relief would require to be very carefully safeguarded, as a quantity of dry salt is placed inside the fish which could be put to other uses, apart from the danger of the strong inducement it would undoubtedly afford to raise the amount of salt used, merely for the purpose of increasing the total weight, the price of fish being much greater than that of salt.

XII.—By-products of fish.

86. The by-products of fish, though of great value, are little utilized in Bengal. The trade in them falls under the following heads :—

1. Isinglass.	4. Oil.
2. Fins.	5. Whips.
3. Skins.	6 Fish manure.

1. Isinglass.—This is prepared from the sounds or air bladders of certain fishes, that obtained from the sturgeon being the true article. In Lower Bengal the sounds of a few kinds of Arius (e. g., A. gagora) are collected for the purpose. In Orissa very good sounds can be had from the Nakora (Polynemus indicus) and Son bhekti (Serranus sonnerati) and a small business is done in them in Balasore, but in Cuttack and Puri it is practically unknown. There is a good opening for any one with a small capital who is prepared to take it up. At present a valuable economic product is literally thrown away. There is a great demand for sounds in China and they can also be exported to Europe.

2. Fins.—Shark's fins are greatly prized in China and large quantities are exported there from Bombay and Karachi. It is a pity that nothing is done in Bengal to foster this trade. A great number of sharks and skates are caught daily in the cruives spread out along the whole of the Balasore coast from October to the end of February, but they are entirely thrown away, no use whatever being made of their flesh, fins, skin or oil.

A similar waste takes place in Puri, but there the number caught is small.

3. Skins.—Skates go up the larger rivers and some of good size are often caught in the Ganges in Bihar. But, as far as I know, no use is made of the skin. The true alligator is unknown in India, its habitat being America. The two varieties of crocodiles that are common in the rivers of Bengal are—

(1) Gavialis gangeticus (gharial) with an extremely elongated snout. Feeds entirely upon fish.

(2) Crocodilus palustris (kumir) short snout, often man-eaters.

Numbers of them are killed, and in Bihar they are regularly hunted by Banpárs, a low caste people, for their flesh and oil, but the skin is not preserved A gentleman of my acquaintance who has large opportunities of shooting crocodiles tried to ascertain whether the skins had any marketable value but met with a disappointing response. The matter, however, is deserving of further enquiry. Crocodiles destroy much fish life and if a profitable trade could be found for their skins, there would be a strong inducement to kill them systematically.

Tortoises of all sizes and varieties are very common. Their shells, which are now thrown away, should have a commercial value.

4. Oil.—In former times, before the introduction of kerosine oil, fishermen in those parts of the country where fish was cheap and abundant, used to prepare oil from various fishes, chiefly for burning, and this practice still continues, though on a much reduced scale in the poorer localities. Oil is made from the liver of scates and porpoises for burning as well as for medicinal purposes, it being considered a good remedy for rheumatism.

5. Whips.—The long tails of some varieties of skates are used for the preparation of whips.

6. Fish manure.—The demand for fish for eating is so great that there is seldom any waste, but when the catches cannot be wholly disposed of, the surplus is utilized in Darbhanga and Muzaffarpur as manure for the more valuable fruit trees, such as mango, lichu, lime, vine, etc., and in Shahabad occasionally for gardens.

XIII.—Fish-supply—general decrease—causes.

87. Nearly all the districts report a decrease in the supply of fish. There is, however, no valid reason for thinking that in the greater portion of Part II of the Province, any material decrease has taken place in the production of fish; the rivers and hill-streams have undergone no perceptible change; there are no jheels and there has, therefore, been no contraction of the water surface by their silting up or reclamation; on the country, the practice of rearing the larger carps in tanks and reservoirs with fry taken from rivers has in recent years been introduced in some of the districts, such as Hazaribagh, Ranchi and Manbhum; and in the last named district tank-reared fish has now become fairly common, specially in the towns.

All throughout Chota Nagpur and in the districts of Gaya, Birbhum and Bankura, fish has always been scarce and difficult to procure, but the supply is much better now than it was ever before, for not only is the practice of stocking tanks becoming more general, but the opening of railways is stimulating the import of fish from outside in the cold weather. The people, however, are poor and cannot afford a high price, so that the imports are small and confined to such centres of population as have a large Bengali element. But consumption would greatly increase if fish could be supplied at a reasonable price.

88. Coming to Part I, there is no doubt that the fresh-water surface is gradually diminishing. The land is entirely alluvial and is being gradually raised by the deposits left by the annual inundations. This process of silting up which is going on steadily is further assisted by the many works of reclamation that are being undertaken on all sides to meet the increasing pressure of population. The result is apparent throughout the area, from North Bihar downwards, but especially in Lower Bengal where an additional cause has been in operation. The rivers of the Presidency Division, from the Bhagirathi or Hooghly on the west to the Gorai (Madhumati or Baleswar) on the east, are all off-shoots of the Ganges by which they are fed; they were at one time considerable streams with a good depth of water even in dry weather, and during the rainy season carried down large volumes of flood water. Owing to the raising of the beds of these rivers the current of the Ganges is deserting them, and is being deflected further and further to the east. One by one they are all but closed, and this year even the Gorai, which less than 40 years ago gave, by reason of its depth and strong current, no small trouble in the construction of the railway bridge over it at Kushtea, has had its mouth completely choked up, causing irreparable damage to the fresh-water fisheries of Jessore and Khulna. The deterioration of the rivers has not only been a direct and potent source of ill-health, but has seriously affected the supply of the only kind of animal food that is open to the people. The evil effects are most seen in the districts of the Presidency Division, especially in Jessore and Khulna. Even down to 20 or 30 years ago, the principal rivers of the two districts remained sweet throughout the year until they entered the Sundarbans, but now there is not a river in Khulna the water of which does not become brackish in the dry season, and saline water goes well up into the other district. Carps have in consequence deserted these rivers. The silting up and reclamation of the numerous jheels has greatly affected the supply of those live fish for which the two districts have long been famous. Khulna fortunately gets a fair amount of estuarine fish from its Sunderbans, but Jessore is so badly off that it is content to receive all kinds of small and inferior fish from Khulna, very often in a half-decomposed state, and pays a high price for it. There is a scarcity of good fish in Jessore and Bongong towns, and the price charged, annas 8 to annas 10 a seer, is equal to, or higher than, what obtains in Calcutta.

89. The retail price of good fish per seer in the Province is follows:—

					Average.
				As. As.	As.
Lower Bengal	...	...	...	4 to 8	6
Bihar ...	...	...	...	1 to 4	2
Chota Nagpur	...	...	...	2 to 7	4
Orissa ...	...	...	...	2 to 4	3

Inferior sorts sell for less, and in some outlying parts of North Bihar and in the remote estuaries of Cuttack the price is very low. On the other hand, in the hill station of Darjeeling, the price varies from 8 annas to Re. 1-8.

The price of fish has doubled or trebled in the last two years, but the rise is not disproportionate to the increase that has taken place in the price of other food-stuffs.

The railways take all the available fish to Calcutta and other markets, causing a further decrease in local supplies, while the demand is ever on the increase owing to the growth of population. Overfishing is carried on to a ruinous extent, and no fry or immature fish are spared.

90. In Bhagalpur, some of the fishermen stated that after the close of the rainy season, the volume of water in the main stream of the Ganges is very much less now than was the case before, which they gave as a reason for the falling off in the supply of fish. They could not explain why the Ganges should receive less water, but it is probable that the multiplication of large irrigation projects in the United Provinces has greatly diverted the water and caused a deterioration of the main channel.

91. The general increase of population has raised the demand for all articles of food, including fish, while the opening of railways has led to freer and more profitable distribution. Taking the Province as a whole, there is no question that a great and progressive decline is taking place in the production of fresh-water fish due to—

(a) silting up of rivers and jheels,
(b) neglect and drying up of tanks,
(c) overfishing,
(d) destruction of fry and immature fish, and (e) probably to the obstructive action of large irrigation works.

On the other hand, the growth of population has increased the demand for fish; and the improved means of communication, though on the whole beneficial, have in some cases caused a shrinkage of local supplies. To meet this ever-increasing demand, nothing is being done to stimulate the growth of fish or assist nature in the exercise of its wonderful reproductive powers, but, on the contrary, the evil is being greatly aggravated by the improvident exhaustion of the fresh-water fisheries that is taking place all round, in utter disregard of the prospects of the future.

92. The estuarine and sea fisheries stand on a different footing. The former are still imperfectly worked; they are replenished from the sea, and there is little fear of their exhaustion within any measureable distance of time. The foreshore has barely been touched and the ocean still waits to deliver up its riches. There is no doubt that an inexhaustible supply can be obtained fron these two sources by improved methods of capture and transport.

XIV.—Protective Measures.

93. The question of protection is a very large one and cannot be adequately dealt with here, nor is it necessary to do so in a preliminary report of this kind. It originally arose in 1867 out of complaints that in Madras anicuts constructed across the big rivers of the Presidency were injuring the fisheries, and Dr. Day (afterwards Sir F. Day) was put on special duty to enquire into the subject. He submitted his report in 1868, suggesting certain remedial measures and recommending a general survey of the Madras fisheries, both fresh-water and marine. Dr. Day's investigations were extended to the whole of India, and he completed his labours in 1873, the results of his enquiry being embodied in two volumes. They contained evidence of general and widespread slaughter of breeding fish and fry, denudation of fresh-water fishery and the necessity that existed for protective measures. This led to a very lengthy correspondence, which eventually resulted in the passing of Act IV of 1897 for the whole of India, except Burma, which has a separate fishery enactment of its own. The Act absolutely prohibits the dynamiting and poisoning of waters for killing fish, and enables Local Governments, under certain conditions, to make rules for regulating (a) the erection and use of fixed engines, (b) the construction of weirs, and (c) the dimension and kind of the nets to be used, and the modes of using them; and for prohibiting all fishing in any specified water for a period not exceeding two years.

The use of dynamite for killing fish is practically unknown in Bengal. Poisoning of pools is reported from a few districts, but the mischief done is inappreciable; and in any case the present law is sufficient to suppress it.

In Bengal no rules have been framed under the Act which remains a dead-letter.

94. Among the protective measures adopted in other countries, such as Australia, the United States and Canada, are the following:—

(a) enforcement of a close season for all fish or any particular kinds of fish;
(b) prohibiting the capture and sale of fry;
(c) adding the damming of streams or channels without fish passes;

(d) prescription of the kinds of instruments to be used and of a minimum size of mesh for nets or a minimum distance between the sticks of fixed engines;

(e) prohibiting the dynamiting or poisoning of waters.

95. In Bengal no protective measures are called for in regard to marine and estuarine fisheries. As regards fresh-water fisheries, (e) is already in force. The district officers generally are opposed to (a) and (d) owing to the difficulty of enforcing them. Our fresh waters abound in small fish of all kinds which never grow to any size, but enormous quantities of which are caught and consumed everywhere, and it is impossible to fix on any size of mesh or interstice which would save the immature of the larger species without, at the same time, interfering with the capture of the smaller varieties. Any attempt to introduce any such regulation would be attended with great hardship and be universally resented.

96. Most of the officers consulted, however, are in favour of (b) and (c). Everyone has witnessed the slaughter of fingerlings of the finer carps all over Bengal, especially in October, November and December, shortly after the spawning season. In the course of our tours we have seen whole baskets containing them exposed for sale. The amount of reckless waste that thus takes place is much to be regretted, for it must largely account for the growing scarcity of the better sorts. Of course, it is quite proper and necessary to catch fry and spawn for rearing and stocking purposes, and no one would dream of stopping it, and it would not be advisable perhaps to interfere with the owners of private waters in the exercise of their rights. But there can be no reasonable objection to discourage the consumption of the fry and immature fish of, say, the four principal carps, by prohibiting their sale in a dead state, a minimum size being prescribed for the purpose. Under the operation of such a rule, the immature fish, when caught, would be restored to water, except when they are required for stocking, and in course of time the people themselves would perceive its beneficial effect. Damming of channels and streams has also become a source of great complaint in many districts, for it not only interferes with the free passage of fish, but is a hindrance to navigation and a fruitful cause of obstructed drainage. We observed some glaring instances of it in Jessore. It seems to be very necessary to make some rules on the subject. In regard to both measures, the main difficulty is so to frame them that they may attain the object in view without causing any undue harassment or oppression, and to find a suitable agency to see to their enforcement. This difficulty should, and can, be overcome.

97. It may be remarked that in discussing the provisions of one of the Madras Fishery Bills, the Secretary of State in his Despatch No. 4Rev., dated the 27th March 1873, to the address of the Madras Government, observed in paragraph 2: "The wisest course would probably be not to attempt to regulate the implements of fishermen, but to make the destruction of fry penal, leaving it to the ingenuity of the fisherman to devise the best means of combining the capture of the fish he wants with the escape of those which are useless."

XV.—Propagation.

98. The importance of the fresh-water fisheries of Bengal cannot be overrated. In spite of the adverse agencies at work, the fresh-water surface, as represented by the numerous river-beds, old and new, and by the innumerable jheels and tanks, is still enormous, and should, with proper care and attention, be able to add largely to the fish-supply. In most civilized countries it has been recognised that water, properly cultivated, is as important an agency in supporting human life as are its crop-laden acres, and this object is sought to be attained by measures, which broadly fall under two classes, viz., propagation and protection.

99. For propagation various methods are in use, the principal of which are noted below:—

(1) Simply gathering the fry in streams and putting them in rearing tanks where they are allowed to grow until they are wanted for use.

(2) Collecting floating impregnated eggs or spawn of various kinds with a piece of cloth and transporting them to small shallow ponds, where the fry are hatched in a few days and at once divide and begin to swim in separate shoals, according to their species. They are then sorted and put in separate ponds. The fry are largely utilized for stocking tanks and are sometimes conveyed to long distances.

(3) The European and Japanese method of culturing carp, which is thus described by Sir F. Nicholson: "get a few parent carp (Reproducteurs) and keep them separately by sexes in separate ponds: at spawning time net out the ripe fish of both sexes and place them together in spawning ponds provided with floating water weeds, &c.; in these weeds the eggs are deposited and fertilized and the fry emerge in a few days; the parent fish are fertile for many years and an immense stock of young fry is obtained every year with a minimum of expense and trouble. The young carp, whether as fry of 1″ or 2″ long or as yearlings of 6″ or 8″ or more, are readily transportable to long distances in damp moss or straw or in suitable tubs of water."

(4) Lastly, the elaborate and highly-organized hatcheries in which artificial propagation on a large scale is undertaken, in the British Isles chiefly for salmon and trout, and in the United States and I believe also in Canada for all kinds of fish, fresh-water and marine. In America, the hatcheries are used not only for stocking ponds, but what is of special interest to us in Bengal, in systematically replenishing the large rivers and lakes, many of which have by this means been restored from a state of exhaustion to one of great abundance exceeding that which unassisted nature ever achieved before. In the present stage of my enquiry it would be out of place to attempt any description of the system, but it may be noted that in 1905, Canada distributed 653 millions of fry from its 32 breeding establishments, and that, in 1903, the hatcheries of the United States supplied 1,037 millions of fry besides nearly 200 millions of impregnated eggs, fingerlings, yearlings and adults.

100. In Bengal, the third and fourth methods are absolutely unknown With regard to the third, it should be observed that in Bengal the carps form the most valuable of the fresh-water fishes, the four species most prized being the rahu (Labeo rohita), katla (Catla buchanani), mrigal (Cirrhina mrigala) and kalabaus (Labeo calbasu), especially the two first. They have, however, never been known to breed in ponds, tanks or other confined waters. It remains to be seen whether the adoption of the European and Japanese practice of keeping the parent fish separately by sexes in separate ponds and only at spawning time, putting the ripe ones of both sexes together, will have any effect here otherwise the method would be inapplicable to Bengal. The varieties of carp just mentioned are perhaps the only fish to rear which any trouble is ever taken, and for this purpose, the first method is the one usually adopted. Towards the close of the rainy season and for a couple of months afterwards, i.e., from September to November, young fry of 1″ to 3″ long are largely caught in the rivers, and some are sold alive to owners of tanks at so much per 1,000, the price varying from Rs. 5 to Rs. 15.

101. The second method is only found in the suburbs of Calcutta and in the neighbouring districts of the 24-Parganas, Howrah and Hooghly. The impregnated eggs float in small lumps near the shallow edges of rivers, and are collected in a piece of cloth by certain low-caste people, and also by fishermen. They are bought by the rearers at the rate of Rs. 5 to Rs. 8 for a handful and put in shallow ponds where they hatch in a few days. In about a month's time, it becomes possible to distinguish the various kinds. The fry are then caught with fine nets, sorted and put in different tanks; at the same time some are disposed of to hawkers who carry them about for sale to stockers of tanks. Eggs and spawn are largely caught in the Hooghly from above Cossipore and in the Rupnarayan, Amta in Howrah being considered one of the largest centres,

102. In Bihar, the system of stocking tanks is not much in vogue. It is practised to a limited extent in Orissa and more largely in Lower Bengal and parts of Chota Nagpur, but it is everywhere confined to well-to-do owners of tanks who rear fish only for their own use and not for sale. It is undertaken on business lines in the neighbourhood of Calcutta and in a few other districts such as Manbhum and Burdwan It is beyond question that if the practice became more general and fish were more systematically grown in tanks, there would be an immediate and considerable addition to our fish supply, and those who applied themselves to it would find it a sure and profitable employment. It is surprising that in spite of the scarcity of fish and the large price paid for it, so few should have thought of taking up this business. There are many tanks, especially in Lower Bengal, in which fish can be placed without any initial outlay except the cost of the fry, which is very small—not more than Rs. 10 to Rs. 15 per 1,000, and this number can be put in a tank not exceeding an acre in extent. The four principal species of carps grow rapidly, especially the katla, and in a tank in Chinsura, the result of a haul was observed as follows:—

			Length.	Weight.
Mrigal—present season	...	...	2½′	...
Katla— ditto	...	...	4′	...
Do. — last season	...	...	9″ to 10″	¼ seer.
Do. — year before	...	...	12′	2½ seers.

The rate of growth is apparently much quicker in the second year. The average weight of a two-year carp may be taken at 1½ seers, and assuming that no more than half the number put in or 500 survive at the end of two years, the total weight would be 750 seers, the value of which at 4 annas is nearly Rs. 190. The account will then stand thus:—

Debit.		Rs.	Credit.		Rs.
1,000 fry	... ...	15	Value of 750 seers fish at 4 annas	... ...	190
Payment to fishermen for dragging	... ...	30
Miscellaneous	... ...	5
Total	...	50	...	... ...	—50
			Net Profit	...	140

This is indeed a low estimate which is often exceeded.

103. If the tank is regularly stocked every year, a clear profit of Rs. 100 to Rs. 200 per annum may be ensured, and that with a minimum expenditure of money or trouble. If the owners of tanks did not themselves care to undertake the business, fishermen and others could hire them (as is done in some places) at a fair rent, after paying which there would still be a good margin of profit. To meet the increased demand for fry, the business of gathering eggs and spawn which is now confined to a very few localities, would also greatly extend.

104. While much may be done by making better use of our tanks than has been the case hitherto, our main supply must continue to come from our magnificent rivers, especially the Ganges and its tributaries and branches. Carps thrive best in running water, and a proper system of conserving and developing our river fisheries is a question which should no longer be neglected Any such large measure cannot be undertaken by private individuals, but must be taken up by Government. The first step is to inquire and find out what has been done in other countries in this direction, and how far and with what modifications the methods successfully adopted there could be introduced here. It is most necessary therefore to study the subject on the spot, and a visit to Canada and the United States is imperative. In both these countries depleted rivers and lakes have been replenished, and they are made to yield a fish harvest more abundant than was possible under natural conditions, and without any fear of exhaustion.

105. There is every reason to hope that by the adoption of similar measures, we can indefinitely raise our fish-supply not only to meet the demand of a growing population in normal years, but also to afford substantial relief in times of scarcity to which many parts of the country are so liable.

106. Everywhere in Bengal (except perhaps in some remote parts of Bihar, the fresh waters are constantly and ruthlessly fished, and it is not necessary or desirable to introduce any more effective modes of capture. The depletion of the fisheries has been going on from year to year, and it will be a serious calamity if nothing is done to retard it.

107. Our marine and estuarine fisheries are amply replenished by nature, and the question of propagation in connection with either of them will not arise within any measurable distance of time, if ever at all; what is required, however, is improved methods of capture and transport. We want better boats, better nets, more expert fishermen, as well as quick modes of despatch and provision for bringing the fish alive or in a cool store. The creeks and rivers of the Sundarbans are full of fish, but they are worked only to a very small extent. The numerous estuaries on the Midnapore, Balasore and Orissa coasts are visited only during the cold weather, but there is no serious obstacle to fish in them as well as in the Sundarbans throughout the year. Capital and enterprise are needed to work these valuable fisheries. No doubt there are difficulties in the way. Fishing is the profession of certain castes whose number is limited. They are very ignorant, superstitious and suspicious, and their first instinct is to oppose any innovation. Caste regulations extend even to the prohibition of the use by any caste of any nets or appliances that are not specially appropriated by it. There will also be trouble, especially in Calcutta, with the middlemen and wholesale dealers who have great influence over the actual catchers, many of the latter being under pecuniary obligations to them, and who would no doubt oppose any measures affecting their business arrangements. But the obstacles are not insurmountable.

108. The Chilka Lake requires somewhat different treatment. As already observed, it is connected with the sea by a very narrow mouth which is frequently liable to obstruction. Its enormous water area is thus imperfectly replenished from the sea and overfishing would soon exhaust it. On the other hand, it affords an ideal ground for the artificial propagation of various kinds of estuarine fish, especially perches, shads and grey mullets whose favourite haunt it is, and I feel confident that its fish supply could be very largly increased by the establishment of hatcheries. The lower classes inhabiting the banks of the Chilka collect the frothy spawn and eggs (sridhar) that float near the edge during the monsoon with pieces of cloth and fry them or put them in their curries. A morsel of this stuff means the destruction of thousands of fish life. This practice which is unknown anywhere else should be prohibited, but it will require legislation.

109. Open sea fishing is beset with exceptional difficulties along the Bengal coast, due mainly to the physical and weather conditions to which reference has already been made, and any great development of it can scarcely be looked for in the near future. There is the further difficulty that local fishermen will not go out to sea. Telugu settlers from Ganjam do a little sea fishing on the Pur coast In Madras, sea fishing is a general and important industry, and it would perhaps be advisable to wait and sea what devolpments take place there as a result of Sir F. Nicholson's inquiries. My own view is that the Puri coast should be left to be worked from the Madras side, as it will not pay any one to work it from Bengal, though something may be done to procure a larger supply in the cold weather by the extension of present methods and by the importation of parties of fishermen from the South.

110. In the Salt Lake, Calcutta has a valuable fishery of immense possibilities. At Dhappa there are two municipal fisheries both of which are let to lessees who do not work them themselves, but simply sublet them to others at a considerable profit. The fisheries consist of several enclosures formed by throwing mud embankments round a shallow area along the side of a drainage channel communicating with the Salt Lake. Each of them is called a bheri, and water, is let into it at flood time from the channel by a regulated wooden sluice, through which fry and small fish go in but cannot come out again. The bheris act as nurseries, and fish of various kinds, chiefly prawns, small bhekti, mugils and macrones are caught from time to time, but owing to the existence of annual leases, the whole place is completely drained by February, and all the fish caught, so that any large growth is not possible. By deepening the channel, larger fish could be introduced, and by a system of long leases the value of the bheris as nurseries could be greatly increased. The Municipality would do well to make a thorough inquiry into the whole matter.

XVI.—IMPROVED COMMUNICATION.

111. The extension of railways has done much to ensure a freer distribution of fish. But fish is a rapidly perishable commodity, and the cold weather is mild and of short duration. The use of refrigerators and cool stores is practically unknown, and ice is obstainable only in one or two of the biggest towns, and that at a price which must add largely to the cost of transport. In the chief fishing centres of Great Britain, ice can be had at a nominal cost. The price in Aberdeen, for instance, is 8*s*. 1*d*. per ton or 3½ annas per maund. At such a price ice can be, and is, freely used in packing fish.

112. For carriage by water slow country boats are in use, and they are almost useless for conveying dead fish except in the cold weather and over very short distances. When the fish is brought alive in the well of the boat or in crates, much is lost during the long, slow journey.

113. The absence of rapid means of conveyance is one of the reasons why the Sundarbans is not worked more than it is, and so long as this want is not supplied by the establishment of a service of suitable launches provided with cool stores for collecting the catches from the fishing grounds, no great improvement in the supply can be looked for. Such a service would also set free a number of fishermen who now act as crew of carrier-boats and who would then be available for fishing and would thus help to increase the catches.

114. The fish caught in the Orissa estuaries and the Chilka Lake, though the fishing takes place in the cold weather, has to be dried and salted, as there is no way of sending it fresh to the proper markets. Dhamra, which is one of the best estuarine fisheries, lies on the route between Chandbally and Calcutta, and it should not be difficult to arrange for a proper steamer service with a cool store for the conveyance of fresh fish to Calcutta during the few months that the fishing lasts. It would also be quite easy to get regular supplies of fresh fish from the Chilka from October to January or February by employing motor-boats to bring the fish across the lake and then sending it packed in ice to Calcutta from Balugaon station on the Bengal-Nagpur Railway, Chandipur, which is only eight miles from Balasore, a railway station, and is connected with it by a good road, is not made full use of. The supply at Puri is fitful and uncertain, and until the local fishermen can be induced to work more regularly or a more dependable set of fishermen can be introduced, there is no prospect of improvement there.

115. In North Bihar the difficulties of transport stand in the way of properly working some valuable fisheries. A notable instance is furnished by a large jheel (Kávár Tál) which is 17 or 18 miles from Beguserai in Monghyr. It abounds in fish which is sold locally at ½ to ¾ anna per seer.

XVII.—CONCLUSION.

116. The water surface of a country is as valuable an asset as, if not more so than, its land portion. But land yields its harvest only after careful tillage, whereas water requires very little attention. Fish are by nature so polific that without any effort on the part of man, the waters teem with the finny tribe, and, so long as man only refrains from interfering with their normal growth, by indiscriminate or untimely slaughter, he is sure of a good supply. It is also true that with some care and attention, but much less than is bestowed on land, the yield of water is much more abundant than that of the same area of land. This truth has been recognized in most countries where fish is esteemed as food, evidence of which is to be found in the primitive methods of China as well as in the more scientific systems of Japan, Europe and America.

117. In India aquiculture has almost been wholly neglected. In Bengal this is all the more surprising, regard being had to the fact that here a fish diet is not only highly prized, but is a necessary of life, and that the inland waters are so extensive. A partial explanation may be found in the abundance of fish furnished by nature. But with the gradual contraction of the water surface and the growing pressure of population, it does not do any longer to rely solely on nature. The demand for fish is everywhere on the increase, prices are rising and fry and immature fish are indiscriminately destroyed, causing a further fall in natural production. On the other hand, with due care and attention and with artificial propagation, the inland fisheries of Bengal can be developed to such an extent that after supplying the requirements of the Province, there would be a large surplus available for export. Nothing wholly new has to be attempted, as pisciculture has passed the experimental stage and has succeeded beyond expectation in countries where the natural conditions are much less favourable than they are here. What is wanted is a close study of up-to-date methods and their introduction in this country by a capable agency. Agriculture has of late received considerable attention in this country, and much is being done to improve the productiveness of land, and the time has come to look after our magnificent waters and to try to turn them to good account. This can only be accomplished by Government which in such matters must always take the initiative and give the direction. There should be a fishery department as we have got an agricultural department. The two departments may be combined and worked together, but that is a matter of detail. What is immediately required is the organization of a Fishery Board for the control of our fisheries. Even this short inquiry has convinced me of the absolute necessity of having a Government agency to develop our fisheries. As to its constitution, I am unable to offer any advice until I have had an opportunity of studying the arrangements in force in some of those countries where Fishery Boards have been working successfully.

118. I am also satisfied that a beginning can at once be made in largely assisting nature in the work of reproduction by the adoption of the simpler methods of propagation, leaving the more elaborate systems to be introduced later, if necessary. For this also a visit to Europe and America is absolutely necessary.

119. Measures connected with propagation and protection will demand immediate attention, but a properly organised Fishery Board will also have ample scope for its activities in—

(1) Introducing and familiarizing—
- (a) suitable and properly equipped boats,
- (b) improved and up-to-date methods of capture and of transport of fish, either alive or in cool store,
- (c) accelerated services, both by land and water,
- (d) various methods of preserving and canning fish, and
- (e) utilization of the many by-products of fish, such as isinglass, scales, oil, eggs, etc.

(2) Training fishermen.

(3) Encouraging enterprise and the employment of capital in working and developing the fisheries.

(4) Diffusing all useful information on the subject.

(5) Carrying on scientific investigation in all matters relating to aquatic life.

(6) Engaging the services of competent experts, both local and foreign, and lastly

(7) Establishing training institutions for giving instruction in both the scientific and practical aspects of the industry.

The recent excessive rainfall has done some damage to jute in Hooghly, Howrah, the 24-Parganas, and Jessore, to maize and marua in Bhagalpur and to paddy in Sambalpur, where resowings have been found necessary in many places. Sugar-cane is doing well. Weeding of jute and transplantation of paddy are in progress. Prospects are on the whole satisfactory. In Darbhanga the number of persons on gratuitous relief is 11,576, on test-works 1,080 and on famine-relief works 8,319. Cattle-disease is reported from four districts only. The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Kundsen's Barograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. The rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

o, overcast; g, dark gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers; t, thunder; <, lightning; K, thunderstorm.

E. A. GAIT,
Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATIONS.

No. 2335L.R.—The 7th July 1907.—The following rules are published for general information.

E. A. GAIT,
Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Rules for the exemption from Assessment of Improvements made at Private Expense in Government and Temporarily-settled Estates.

1. The term "improvements" used in these rules means improvements as defined in section 76 of the Bengal Tenancy Act.

Temporarily-settled Estates.

2. In settlements of temporarily-settled estates the Settlement Officer will prepare for every village a list of the improvements which have been made at private expense by the proprietors or settlement-holders including improvements which have been made with the aid of a loan from Government. This list will show—

(a) the nature of the improvement,
(b) the area of the land benefitted thereby,
(c) the cost of the improvement, initial and recurring,
(d) the estimated annual value of the land to the maker of the improvement (1) before the improvement was made, and (2) after it was made.

3. The Settlement Officer will calculate in respect of each improvement the number of years within which the maker of the improvement will be able to recoup his outlay thereon together with interest at the rate of 6¼ per cent. per annum from the increase in the value of the land due to the improvement. He will fix the period of exemption as a term of years 50 per cent. in excess of the number of years thus arrived at, subject to a maximum of 30 years. A certificate regarding the period of such exemption shall be granted to the maker of the improvement.

Government Estates.

4 In the case of tenure-holders in Government estates the same principles will be followed in respect of the exemption of improvements from assessment as in the case of proprietors of temporarily-settled estates.

5. Under section 77 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, raiyats holding at fixed rates and occupancy raiyats have the prior right to make improvements affecting only their own holdings. As landlord, the Government is bound by the provisions of section 30 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, where that Act is in force. Elsewhere it will observe the principles contained in that section. Government will, therefore, not claim an enhancement in respect of works carried out by its raiyats. The following sentence should be printed on the receipts issued to the raiyats —

"No enhancement of rent will be demanded from any raiyat on account of increase in the value of the land included in the holding as originally settled with him, in so far as such increase is due to improvements affected by the raiyat at his own cost. Provided that the raiyat shall be liable to pay rent for any land, which was not included in the holding as originally settled with him, and which he subsequently brings under cultivation."

6. The preceding rule will not apply to raiyats holding under a lease or contract falling under provisos (i) and (ii) to section 178 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. In such cases the assessment of improvements will be governed by the conditions of the lease or contract, or by the law or custom applicable to the estate, or by the rules, if any, sanctioned by the proper authority for the estate.

Rules for the reduction of Assessment in Government and Temporarily settled Estates, other than diaras settled for a period not exceeding five years, on account of deterioration of soil or failure of improvements which were taken into account when the assessment was made.

Temporarily-settled estates.

1. The proprietor or settlement-holder of a temporarily-settled estate may apply to the Collector for a reduction of his assessment on the ground that the land of the estate has permanently deteriorated through causes beyond the control of the landlord, or through the failure of an improvement effected at the cost of the landlord, which was taken into account in fixing the assessment.

2. On receipt of such application, the Collector will cause an enquiry to be made and may grant the landlord a reduction of assessment on this account, provided that the settlement-holder and intermediate tenure-holder (if any) agree to give a proportionate reduction of rent to the tenants of the land affected.

3. In calculating the reduction of assessment to be given, the Collector will first of all fix fair rents for the raiyats whose holdings have deteriorated, and the settlement-holder and intermediate tenure-holders (if any) will be required to bind themselves not to collect higher rents than those thus fixed from the raiyats for the remainder of the period of settlement. The Collector will then estimate the loss sustained by the settlement-holder and intermediate tenure-holder (if any) on account of the deterioration of the lands (if any) in their own cultivation or on account of the lands (if any) which have gone out of cultivation altogether. He will fix fair rents for the intermediate tenure-holders (if any), and will then proceed to fix such reduced assessment as he may consider fair for the remaining period of the settlement.

4. The fair rents fixed under the preceding rule will be published in the village by an officer not below the rank of Sub-Deputy Collector.

5. All kabuliyats which may in future be issued in regard to temporarily-settled estates should contain clauses—

(a) empowering the Collector to take action of his own motion under these rules to reduce assessments of estates on account of permanent deterioration of soil, or failure of improvements which were taken into account when the assessment was fixed, and providing that, in making such reduction, he will observe the provisions of rules 3 and 4;

(b) binding the settlement-holder to give an equivalent reduction of rent to his tenants, in accordance with the principles contained in the above rules, in any case in which a reduction or remission of revenue is allowed by the Collector, and also providing that, should a settlement-holder who has already received a deduction of revenue under these rules be found not to have granted a corresponding reduction of rent to his tenants, the omission shall be treated as a breach of the conditions of his lease, or the Collector shall be at liberty to withdraw the abatement granted.

6. All proceedings of the Collector under the foregoing rules shall be subject to the confirmation of the superior authority, if any, by whom the original settlement was confirmed.

Government Estates.

7. The Collector may of his own motion, or on the application of the tenant concerned, reduce the rent fixed for any tenant in a Government estate on the ground that the soil of the holding has permanently deteriorated through causes beyond the tenant's control since the rent of the holding was fixed, or that an improvement has failed which was taken into account when the rent of the holding was fixed under a reclamation lease, provided that if the tenant is a tenure-holder, the Collector will not grant any reduction of rent, unless the tenure-holder agrees to give a corresponding reduction to his tenants, and provided that the Collector shall fix fair rents for all such tenants; provided also that no reduction of rent may be granted on account of the failure of an improvement which has been permanently exempted from assessment on the ground that it was affected by a raiyat holding at fixed rates or an occupancy raiyat.

W. A. INGLIS,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 16th July 1907.

No. 63 Marine.—It is hereby notified for general information that under the powers conferred upon him by section 29 of the Inland Steam Vessels Act, 1884, as amended by subsequent enactments, and with the previous approval of the Government of India, the Lieutenant-Governor sanctions the following amended Rules to regulate the grant of certificates of competency to Masters of Inland Steam Vessels, in supersession of those published under the Notifications, issued by this Department, Nos. 21 and 22 Marine, dated the 2nd April 1894.

Certificates granted to persons who pass examinations.

1. Certificates of Competency will be granted to those persons who pass the requisite examinations and otherwise comply with the requisite conditions. For this purpose arrangements will be made for holding examinations periodically at the Port of Calcutta.

Examinations continued till all the candidates are examined.

2. The examinations will be held by the Port Officer and one or more other examiners to be appointed by the Government from time to time. They will commence early in the forenoon, and will be continued from day to day until all the candidates whose names appear upon the Port Officer's list on the day of examination are examined.

3. Candidates for examination must make their application upon the appropriate form, (Exn. 2*b*,) which must be filled up at the Port Office. The form properly filled in, together with the candidates' testimonials and discharges, must be lodged with the Port Officer not later than the day before the day of examination.

Testimonials of character, conduct, and ability required.

4. Testimonials of character, and of sobriety, experience, ability, and good conduct on boardship for at least the last twelve months' service preceding the date of application to be examined will be required from all applicants. Applicants who have not served on boardship within the last twelve months will be required to produce, in addition to the preceding testimonials, certificates of a like nature from their employers, or if unemployed from some respectable house-holder. No candidate will be allowed to be examined unless he has served on boardship at sea or on inland waters two years within the last six years, and six months within the last three years preceding the date of his application to be examined.

Testimonials of Foreigners

5. The testimonials of servitude of Foreigners and of British seamen serving in foreign vessels, which cannot be verified by the Port Officer, must be confirmed either by the Consul of the country to which the ship in which the candidate served belonged, or by some other recognized official authority of that country; or by the testimony of some credible person on the spot having personal knowledge of the facts required to be established. The production, however, of such proofs will not of necessity be deemed sufficient. Each case must be decided on its own merits; and if the sufficiency of the proofs given appears to be at all doubtful, the point must be referred to the Government.

6. Testimonials of servitude must ordinarily be based on their employers' office-records.

Service claimed which cannot be verified from the employer's office-records must be authenticated by affidavits of men under whom such services have been performed as well as by an affidavit of the candidate himself.

Testimonials of servitude from European commanders will be accepted.

Certificates as to age.

6. Should any doubt exist as to the age of a candidate, he will be required to produce a certificate of birth or baptism.

Foreigners to know English.

7. Foreigners must prove to the satisfaction of the Examiners that they can speak and write the English language sufficiently well to perform the duties required of them on board a British vessel.

In the case of natives of India who may not be able to speak English, their certificate shall be endorsed to the effect that they are valid only for vessels manned and officered entirely by Asiatics.

Sight and Colour Tests.

8. Any persons, including the holders of Certificates of Competency, or persons about to apply for Certificates of Competency, if desirous of being examined in colours only, must make application to the Port Officer in Form Exn. 2*a*, and pay a fee of one rupee.

9. No candidate will be examined in colours until he has passed the sight tests.

This rule must be observed whether the candidate has or has not on any previous occasion passed the sight tests.

10. Candidates who fail to pass the sight test can be re-examined at intervals of three months.

11. If he fails in colours, it will be open to him to be examined again for three occasions only at intervals of three months. A fresh fee must be paid on each occasion.

12. A candidate who holds a Certificate of Competency, and who, on presenting himself for examination for a certificate of a higher grade, is unable to pass the colour test, will notwithstanding be permitted to proceed with the examination for the certificate of the higher grade.

13. Should he pass this examination, the following statement will be written on the face of the higher certificate which may be granted to him, viz.—"This officer has failed to pass the examination in colours."

14. Should he ultimately fail to pass the examination, a like statement, relating to his being colour-blind, will be made by the Port Officer on his existing certificate before it is returned to him.

15. Holders of certificates which bear the statement of their having failed to pass in colours, and who may desire to have the statement removed from their certificates, must obtain the special permission of the Local Government.

16. Examinations in sight and colours.—All candidates for Certificates of Competency must first be examined in sight and colours.

17. A candidate for a certificate as Serang of an inland steam-vessel must be not less than twenty-one years of age, and must produce satisfactory certificates of sobriety and intelligence. 26. If a candidate has failed in his examination, but the subjects in which he has failed are not included in the subjects required for a certificate of a lower grade, he may, if he desires it, receive a certificate of such lower grade.

27. No part, however, of the fee he has paid will be returned to him, and on presenting himself, when entitled so to do, for re-examination for the higher grade of certificate, he will be required to pay again the full fee.

Fees.

28. Candidates for examination, in making their application on Form Exn. 2*b*, will be required to pay the examination fee before any step is taken, whether by enquiring into their services or testing their qualifications, &c. Should it be found that their service is not sufficient to entitle them to be examined, or should their testimonials be unsatisfactory, or should they from any other cause not be examined, no part of the fee will be returned to them, but when they have fulfilled the requisite service, or are able to produce satisfactory testimonials as the case may be, they will be allowed to again present themselves for examination for a certificate of the same grade without paying any further fee.

Fees to be paid by applicants for examination

29. The fee for examination must be paid to the Port Officer. In any case in which a candidate offers money to any other officer, and in any place but in the Port Office, the candidate so offering money will be regarded as having committed an act of misconduct, and will be rejected and not allowed to be again examined for twelve months.

30. If a candidate fails in his examination, no part of the fee will be returned to him.

Direct discharge into flats at night is strictly prohibited.

Night work shall, however, be allowed at Chandbali (and in Orissa generally) only on condition that special permits are first obtained from the Collector of Customs, Calcutta, who may, at his discretion, refuse to grant such permits.

24. If the vessel is lying in the Kidderpore Docks, or in any part of the river between the Docks and the Howrah Bridge, the application shall ordinarily be granted. If the vessel is lying below the Docks it shall only be granted if there is a sufficient number of Inspectors and officers available.

Night watches.

25. The night shall be divided into two watches, from 6 P. M. to 10 P.M. and from 10 P.M. to 6 A.M., respectively.

Staff to be employed.

26. For each watch one Inspector shall be posted to each vessel. If two or more vessels are lying close together, the same Inspector may take charge of them if the Superintendent of the Preventive Service approves.

(Section II—Rules 27-33.)

In the case of salt to be discharged into the Kidderpore golas, for each watch one Inspector, one officer, and three peons shall be posted to the golas in addition to the Inspector and officers employed on the discharging vessel. If two or more vessels are discharging salt at the same time the same Inspector and officer may take charge of the work at the golas, if the Superintendent of the Preventive Service approves.

Lighting.

27. The light employed shall be the electric light or such other light as may specially be approved by the Superintendent of the Preventive Service. In the case of the Kidderpore golas such lights shall be provided by the bonder between the discharging vessel and the golas and also inside the golas. The Inspector or other officer in charge may stop work between sunset and sunrise if he considers the light imperfect, or for any other reasonable cause. In every such case he must make an immediate report to the Superintendent of the Preventive Service.

Admission into Bonded Warehouse.

Place of anchorage.

28. On the arrival of a boat containing salt it shall be anchored, if possible, at the steps of the ghât or at the pontoon nearest to the warehouse in which the salt is to be stored, otherwise at the moorings nearest to such ghât or pontoon.

Procedure on arrival.

29. Notice of the arrival of such salt shall at once be given by the Customs peon in charge to the Inspector or other officer in charge of the warehouse who shall thereupon note the date and hour of arrival, bringing any unreasonable delay to the notice of the Superintendent of the Preventive Service, and depute an officer to examine and compare the boat-note delivered by the Customs Officer to the bonder or his agent, and the cargo of salt, and to superintend its removal to, and storage in, the appointed warehouse.

Duty of peon and bonder's agent.

30. The bonder's agent and a Customs peon shall remain on board of the boat in charge until the seals and hatches are examined and all the cargo landed and stored.

Responsibilities of bonder and Inspector or other officer in charge.

31. The bonder shall be held responsible for any departure from these rules on the part of his agent, and the Inspector or other officer in charge of the warehouse shall take notice of any dereliction of duty on the part of the Customs Officer or peon.

Bonder to defray all charges.

32. All expenses connected with the removal and storage of the salt shall be borne by the bonder.

Procedure when salt has been tampered with.

33. If the officer appointed by the Inspector or other officer in charge of the warehouse has reason to believe that the salt has in any way been tampered with during its transit by river, he shall at once report the circumstance to the Inspector or other officer in charge who, with the permission of the Superintendent of the Preventive Service, shall direct the salt to be reweighed; such reweighment shall be made at the expense of Government.

Penalty when salt is deficient.

34. If there is found any unexplained deficiency in the salt on board the cargo-boat, as compared with the quantity specified in the boat-note, the whole of the salt contained in such boat shall be confiscated, and the bond under which the salt is in course of being stored shall be cancelled.

Deficiency satisfactorily explained to be written off.

35. When a deficiency so found is satisfactorily explained and no suspicion of fraud exists, the bonder may apply to have the amount written off from the bond under the orders of the Collector of Customs. The Inspector or other officer in charge of the warehouse shall then be authorised to deduct the amount from the total under the bond.

Salt under different bonds to be stored separately.

36. Salt relating to different bonds shall be stored separately and distinctly. Any admixture of salt specified in different bonds shall render these bonds liable to cancelment, and the holders to immediate payment of the full duty payable thereon.

Storage of rock salt

37. Rock salt imported in more than one vessel may, however, be stored in one gola notwithstanding that it is covered by several bonds, provided all the lots belong to the same person or firm.

After the salt has been landed, the bonder shall be required to execute one bond covering the total amount, and the other bonds shall be cancelled.

Calculation of duty on delivery from public warehouse.

38. On salt bonded in a public warehouse, the duty shall be calculated on the quantity actually delivered from such warehouse.

Calculation of duty on delivery from private warehouse.

39. On salt bonded in a private licensed warehouse, the duty shall be calculated on the quantity delivered on weighment from the side of the ship in which it was imported, less an allowance on account of wastage, which shall not in ordinary cases exceed 2½ per cent. on the quantity bonded.

Increased allowance for wastage may be allowed.

40. In any special case the Board of Revenue as Chief Customs authority of the Presidency is competent to direct that an increased allowance for wastage shall be granted in accordance with the provisions of section 122 of Act VIII of 1878.

But not if any suspicion of fraud exists.

41. If the Collector of Customs has any reason to believe that any fraud has been perpetrated by the bonder or owner of the salt, or any person in his employ, he shall refuse to make any allowance on account of wastage, and shall demand the full duty payable on the entire quantity received into bond.

Rate of gola rent.

42. In the case of public warehouses, the Board of Revenue shall fix, from time to time, the amount of rent to be paid by the bonder per 1,000 maunds of salt. Ordinarily, no gola should be made available unless the quantity of salt to be bonded is equal to two-thirds of the storage which the gola is capable of containing.

But in Calcutta, when accommodation in golas of suitable dimensions is not available, the rent to be demanded shall be calculated on the quantity of salt which would amount to two-thirds of the storage capacity of the building, whatever the actual quantity of salt bonded may really be, or the bonder shall be allowed the option of taking part of a gola by the erection of a temporary partition at his own expense, when rent shall be charged on the actual quantity of salt stored in a gola within the partition subject to a minimum rent on 5,000 maunds.

Custody of salt landed in Calcutta under section 83 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878.

43. Salt landed in Calcutta under section 83 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878 (VIII of 1878), shall be sent to the Sulkea golas for custody, and it shall be carefully noted in the salt receipt issued by the Custom House at the time of clearing it that the salt has been so landed and is not bonded salt.

SECTION III—RULES FOR THE DISCHARGE OF SALT FROM SHIP-BOARD FOR CONSUMPTION.

Weighment conducted in presence of Customs Officer.

44. The weighment of salt on ship-board shall be conducted in the presence of a Customs Officer on board and on his responsibility by duly licensed weighmen, and the owner of the salt shall defray all costs of weighment.

Tally to be kept.

45. Tally of all salt discharged shall be kept by the Customs Officer as directed in Section I of these rules. As soon as a boat is completed and before another boat is commenced, the Customs Officer shall require the Commander or Chief Officer of the vessel to sign the boat-note, which shall then be made over to the Manjhi of the boat.

Salt discharged in bulk must be stamped with the Government adul.

46. All salt discharged in bulk shall be stamped with the Government adul, and it shall be the duty of the Customs Officer to see that this is properly done.

Delivery to be given in order of entry in the Salt Delivery Register.

47. Delivery of salt shall be given to each merchant in the order in which his bill-of-entry or application for clearance was entered in the Salt Delivery Register (see rule 3, Section I): provided that if a merchant has not his boat ready when his turn for delivery comes, he shall be passed over until his boat arrives. Delivery shall be given to a merchant out of turn during extra hours on application, provided that the merchants standing above him on the list do not wish to work during the extra hours.

Partial deliveries prohibited.

48. When the loading of a boat is commenced, it shall be finished before the loading of another boat is commenced. But partial delivery of a consignment which is not likely to be completed within working or extra hours shall be allowed, provided that the merchant or his representative on board applies for delivery in writing. The Customs Officer in charge of the ship shall in such cases warn the merchant or his representative that no refund of duty will be allowed owing to any accident that may occur through the partially-loaded boat remaining alongside the ship during the night.

Interrupted delivery.

49. If delivery of a consignment has not been completed by sunset, or if through any unforeseen circumstance it becomes necessary to interrupt delivery, the boat partially loaded shall receive a boat-note in the following form, and shall remain alongside the discharging vessel, and shall be subject to seizure in the event of her trying to leave the ship's side:—

Salt imported from Madras, Bombay, and Coconada to be discharged without weighment. Test weighment of 5 per cent. of the bags necessary.

51. Salt imported from Bombay, Madras or Coconada in bags which contain two maunds each, and on which duty has been paid in full, may be discharged without weighment on presentation of the bill-of-entry or application for clearance, and under the following conditions:—

(1) that the salt shall come packed in bags of uniform capacity containing two maunds each;

(4) that the importer shall waive all claim whatever to any refund of duty on account of wastage in transit or loss of salt from the bursting of bags.

The Customs Officer in charge of the vessel shall weigh 5 per cent. of the bags, and if any are discovered to be over weight, the whole consignment shall be detained, and a report be at once submitted.

SECTION IV.—RULES FOR THE DISCHARGE OF SALT FROM THE BONDED WAREHOUSES FOR CONSUMPTION.

Procedure on delivery from bond.

52. All deliveries of salt bonded in a public or private warehouse under the provisions of Act VIII of 1878 shall be supervised as required by section 99 of the said Act by a Customs Officer and a subordinate officer styled a check-muharrir. These officers shall be deputed on application to the officer in charge of the Custom House.

Charges to be paid by bonder.

53. A charge of Rs. 5 per diem for each Customs Officer and of 12 annas per diem for each check muharrir at Calcutta shall be made for the services of these officers, and shall be deposited before delivery is given.

Bonders to provide their own labour and tools.

54. Scales and weights shall be provided by the Government, but bonders shall make their own arrangements for labour and tools.

55. There shall be one Customs Officer at each scale, and his duty shall be to keep on the boat-notes or salt passes to be provided for the purpose at the expense of the Government, a correct tally of the bags as they are weighed and taken off the scale by the bonder's people, as well as to see that each bag contains neither more nor less than the prescribed quantity of salt, viz., two maunds. He shall be held personally liable for any excess or deficiency that may be discovered at the check-scales referred to in rule 56.

Check-scales.

56. The Inspector or other officer in charge of the warehouse shall maintain check-scales in charge of a special Customs Officer and shall arrange that at least five per cent. of the bags issued from every gola shall pass over these scales.

When dispute arises.

57. Should any dispute arise between the Customs Officer and the bonder or purchaser of the salt under delivery, the former shall stop the weighment, and at once refer the matter in dispute to the Inspector or other officer in charge for orders.

(Section V.—Rule 63.)

58. The Customs Officer shall be careful to bring every irregularity that he may become cognisant of to the notice of the Inspector or other officer in charge without delay, and shall be held responsible for failure in doing so.

When irregularities occur.

He shall be posted at the discretion of the Inspector or other officer in charge either at the ghât when salt is being removed by boat, or on the railway platform or roadway when salt is being removed in railway wagons or carts. He shall not hold any communication with the Customs Officer supervising the weighment of the salt except through the Inspector or other officer in charge until after the day's work is over, when his tally shall be compared with that kept by the Customs Officer, and, if found to agree, shall be signed by the Inspector or other officer in charge.

Check to be exercised by check muharrir.

60. The check muharrir's duty shall be to keep a tally similar to that of the Customs Officer, but in the vernacular on tally sheets in Customs Form 561 (Form 9, Appendix A). He shall also keep a tally by means of counters supplied by the Department. One such counter shall be made over to him by each cooly as he passes him with a bag, and shall represent one bag, or two maunds of salt. After the consignment has been delivered, these counters shall be compared with his written tally as well as with that of the Customs Officer for the purpose stated in rule 59.

Duty of check muharrir.

61. Whenever the bonder or purchaser is desirous of removing his boat, railway wagon or cart from or off the premises, the Inspector or other officer in charge shall satisfy himself on every point before granting the prescribed protective documents. In particular, he shall in every case, before granting a boat-note or pass, satisfy himself that the exact quantity entered in the endorsement on the reverse of the application for clearance has been delivered.

Duty of Inspector or other officer in charge before salt is removed.

62. When discrepancies in the accounts cannot be reconciled and whenever the Superintendent of the Preventive Service has reason to believe that the quantity of salt conveyed to the boat, railway wagon or cart is not correctly represented in the accounts, he shall hold a re-weighment. The expense of such re-weighment shall be borne by Government.

Check to be exercised by Superintendent.

Contractors and sirdars who have not been licensed by the Collector of Customs will not be recognised by Customs officers.

94. Any person wishing to become a licensed weighman will be supplied, on application to the Collector of Customs, with a form which he will be required to fill up, and such application should ordinarily be supported by a recommendation from some person directly interested in the importation and weighment of salt. If he is considered suitable, a license will then be granted to the applicant.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT ON THE REFORMATORY SCHOOLS AT ALIPORE AND HAZARIBAGH FOR THE YEAR 1906.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—EDUCATION.

RESOLUTION—No. 1894T.-G.

READ—

The Annual Report on the Reformatory Schools at Alipore and Hazaribagh for the year 1906.

The number of boys sent to the Reformatory Schools in 1906 was 144. This is a very noticeable increase over the figures for 1905, when the admissions amounted to 95 only. Sir Andrew Fraser has lately had under consideration the whole question of the treatment of juvenile offenders, and will shortly issue instructions to Magistrates, impressing upon them the necessity of exercising extreme care in choosing the most appropriate method of dealing with children who may be brought before the Courts. The marked increase in the number of admissions emphasises the need of sympathetic treatment, and His Honour is satisfied that more use ought to be made of the lenient procedure permitted by the Code of Criminal Procedure and the Reformatory Schools Act. The Boards of Management examined the lists of admissions, but only 7 boys as against 9 in 1905 were released as the result of the scrutiny, and the Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Director of Public Instruction that there are probably other cases in which orders of discharge would have been justified.

2. It has been ascertained from the judicial returns that 282 youthful offenders were discharged on probation under section 562 of the Criminal Procedure Code, while 60 boys were discharged after admonition or made over to their guardians under section 31 of the Reformatory Schools Act. The corresponding figures for 1905 were 348 and 42 respectively.

3. The health of the inmates of the Reformatories was very satisfactory. While the number of admissions to hospital at the Alipore School rose slightly from 56 in 1905 to 61 in 1906, the number at Hazaribagh fell from 110 to 58. The use of quinine during the rainy season led to the reduction of the number of cases of ague from 65 to 7.

4. The number of punishments inflicted on boys at Alipore was 52—the same as in 1905, but the figures for Hazaribagh show a noticeable increase from 51 to 149. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Director of Public Instruction that the explanation offered for this increase is insufficient, and awaits the further report promised.

5. There was no noteworthy increase or decrease in the number of marks obtained by the boys for good conduct and industry, and their average earnings were much the same as in 1905.

6. At both Reformatories considerable attention was paid to education. The upper primary class at Alipore was abolished during the year; but the Director of Public Instruction has raised the question of the desirability of reviving it. Mr. Earle is considering a scheme prepared by the Inspector of Schools, Presidency Division, for the improvement of the general education of the boys at Alipore. When this question has been decided a similar scheme will be worked out for the Hazaribagh School. His Honour will welcome any proposals for the raising of the standard of education in the schools, and meanwhile notices with approval that opportunities have been given to Indian boys to take up the study of Bengali and Hindi, while Europeans, Eurasians and selected Indians have had additional facilities for optional instruction in English.

7. At Alipore 16 boys passed the Lower Primary examination as against 9 in the previous year. At Hazaribagh 23 boys reached the Upper and 17 the Lower Primary standard, the corresponding numbers for 1905 being 13 and 20.

8. Careful attention was paid to gymnastics, drill and games at both schools, and the band at Alipore has proved a decided success.

9. At Hazaribagh agriculture is still the most important work on which the boys are employed. Out of 142 boys 79 were taught farming and market gardening with good results. The Director of Public Instruction, however, reports that the work requires systematising, and the supervision of the Director of Agriculture should remedy this defect. At Alipore instruction is given for the most part in various trades and handicrafts. Exhibits were sent to the Calcutta Industrial Exhibition; and numerous orders for the supply of articles manufactured at the school have been received during the year.

10. The figures with regard to the occupation followed by boys after release are still disappointing. Only 50 out of 161 boys released from the Alipore Reformatory during the three years preceding the year under report were found to be engaged in the industries which they had been taught at school. Out of 161 boys released from the Hazaribagh School during the same period, only 68 were employed in work in which they had been trained. Of the total number of boys released (322), no less than 55 were untraced, but 230 are reported to be leading honest lives and only 18 have been reconvicted.

11. In 1906 the total number of boys under license from the two schools was 72. The Lieutenant-Governor observes with pleasure that although the system of licensing has not been followed as extensively as in former years, yet greater care seems to have been exercised in the selection of boys, as out of the total number only 4 were sent back to school for bad conduct.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. C. STREATFEILD,

REPORT UNDER SECTION 41 OF BENGAL ACT I OF 1893 ON THE WAREHOUSES IN HOWRAH FOR THE YEAR ENDING 31st MARCH 1907.

No. 680M.—The 12th July 1907.—The following report is published for general information.

H. J. McINTOSH,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1906-07 UNDER THE LICENSED WAREHOUSE AND FIRE-BRIGADE ACT I OF 1893, AS AMENDED BY ACT I OF 1894.

Dated Howrah, the 13th June 1907.

From—H. T. S. FORREST, ESQ., Chairman of the Howrah Municipality,
To—The Magistrate of Howrah.

I HAVE the honour to report that 314 warehouses were licensed in 1906-07 out of 366 registered during that year, against 308 out of 331 registered in 1905-06; the details are as follows:—

Years.		Jute.	Cotton.	Hay.	Straw.	Wood.	Resin.	Waste paper.	Total
Registered	1905-06 ...	40	39	1	39	209	1	2	331
	1906-07 ...	42	39	1	42	238	1	3	366
Licensed	1905-06 ...	34	34	1	35	201	1	2	308
	1906-07 ...	35	30	1	34	211	1	2	314

2. The income from license-fees during the year under report amounted to Rs. 9,970, of which Rs. 38 were collected on account of arrears and Rs. 236 were due to a few extra items of demand on account of the year 1905-06, but realised in 1906-07.

3. The demand, collection, remission and balance for 1906-07 are shewn in Appendix A, and the details of licenses granted in this year to jute and cotton warehouses are entered in Appendix B. Owing to the comparative unimportance of the 249 licenses granted for the storage of straw, wood, hay, resin and waste paper in 1906-07 against 240 in the previous year, they have not been entered in Appendix B, and it may be noted that such license-fees have only been levied under the Fire-brigade Act since July 1893, prior to which they were levied under section 261 of the Bengal Municipal Act.

4. There were 36 prosecutions in the year under review, which realized Rs. 126 against 55 in the previous year which produced Rs. 146.

5. The expenditure incurred in assessing and collecting license-fees amounted to Rs. 1,005 as detailed below:—

	Rs.
Salary of General Supervisor and Assessor ...	600
Ditto Inspector	180
Commission of Inspector	99
Salary of clerk	60
Ditto peon	48
Contingencies	18
Total ...	1,005

6. The Fire-brigade establishment continued under the control of the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta. The Fire-brigade station in Howrah stands in a very central position north of the Municipal market, and from a wooden stage raised over it the whole town is overlooked. There were nine fires during the year, the details of which are given in Appendix C. Besides these nine other petty fires occurred, the brigade turned to all these fires, but on arrival of the brigade on the scene the fires were all extinguished by the neighbours. The nine large fires in Appendix C were all extinguished by the fire-brigade.

7. The Commissioner of Police demanded Rs. 10,802 for the maintenance of the Fire brigade in 1906-07, and this amount was remitted to him during the year.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE SANITARY COMMISSIONER, BENGAL, FOR THE YEAR 1906.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—SANITATION.

RESOLUTION—No. 676T.—San.

CAPTAIN CLEMESHA, M.D., I.M.S., was in charge of the department up to the 15th November 1906, on which date Lieutenant-Colonel F. C. Clarkson, I.M.S., who has submitted this report, returned from leave.

2. The rainfall during the monsoon period was scanty and irregular throughout the greater part of the Province. In Bihar, however, and more particularly in the district of Darbhanga, there were heavy floods which destroyed a great part of the bhadoi crops. In the cold season months of January and February the rainfall in most districts was considerably in excess of the normal. The exceptional climatic conditions of the year are reflected in the record of vital statistics.

3. Births and deaths.—Fewer births were recorded than last year, the ratio per mille (excluding the districts of Angul and Sambalpur) being 37·22, as compared with 39·55 in 1905. In Lieutenant-Colonel Clarkson's opinion the reduced birth-rate was due to the general unhealthiness of the year 1905, and to the prolonged continuance of high prices of food-grains which, by lowering the vitality of the people, acted as a check to the growth of population. The total number of deaths registered was 1,823,243, or 36·08 per mille. Excluding Sambalpur, for which the figures for 1905 are not given, the total mortality was 1,807,930 against 1,922,369 in 1905, and 1,703,970, the average of the preceding five years. The highest mortality was returned from the districts of Bihar, where there were severe outbreaks of plague and cholera; the lowest mortality was as usual reported from Chota Nagpur. In accordance with the recommendation of the Sanitary Commissioner with the Government of India, the accuracy of the vital statistics at present being tested in certain parts of the Burdwan district. The results so far obtained show that little or no reliance can in most cases be placed on the reports submitted as to the cause of death, but the enquiries are not yet sufficiently advanced to justify any definite opinion being pronounced, and a further report on the work is awaited.

4. Infant mortality.—The total infant mortality in the Province, though still lamentably high, was slightly lower than that of the previous year. The highest percentage of deaths among infants was as usual recorded in Calcutta. Leaflets in the vernacular containing simple instructions regarding the feeding and rearing of infants, and prescribing the diet of Indian mothers after child-birth, were again distributed to the general public through the subordinate vaccination inspecting staff. But, as the Sanitary Commissioner correctly explains, it will probably be many years before any direct result can be attributed to this measure.

5. Cholera.—The extensive prevalence of cholera during the year contributed in a marked degree towards the general mortality. The number of deaths registered from cholera was 192,596, including 61 in Sambalpur, against 146,339 during the preceding year and 116,490, the average of the five years 1901—1905, the respective ratios being 3·81, 2·93 and 2·33 per mille. The mortality from cholera was the highest ever recorded, and was undoubtedly due to the unhealthy climatic conditions prevailing during the year. The districts most heavily attacked were Purnea, Bhagalpur, Champaran, and Khulna. Ranchi, as usual, was practically unvisited by the disease, and doubtless owed its immunity to the fact that the population is scattered over a large area and to the good natural drainage existing in most parts of this district.

6. Plague.—The total deaths from plague during 1906 were 59,619 against 126,084 and 75,433 in the two preceding years. The most severe outbreaks occurred as usual in the districts of the Patna Division, and the period of greatest prevalence was from January to April, the climax being reached in the month of March, when 19,855 deaths were reported. Only nine districts, including Sambalpur, were entirely free from the disease, while in Purnea there was only one death. Only 1,777 inoculations were performed against 1,544 in the preceding year, and only one case of death from plrgue among those inoculated was reported. As no less than 1,146 of the total number of inoculations were among the prisoners in the Gaya Jail, it is obvious that inoculation is even now regarded with marked disfavour by the people of this Province. The village of Jagadispur in Shahabad, where the work of rat extermination was carried on in a thorough and systematic manner, enjoyed complete immunity from the disease although it prevailed with considerable severity in the immediate neighbourhood. This experiment has proved a distinct success and has afforded an excellent object-lesson of the advantages of a systematic campaign against rats. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction that the measure is becoming more popular and that rat extermination is now being vigorously carried out in many places.

7. Fever.—The deaths from fever represented 62·29 per cent. of the total deaths recorded in the Province from all causes. But, as the investigations as to the accuracy of the vital statistics tend to show, a large number of the deaths reported as due to fever are not really to be attributed to that cause. The total number of deaths recorded, including the district of Sambalpur, was 1,132,579, representing a ratio of 22·41 per mille. The districts which suffered most were Purnea, Nadia, Darjeeling, Birbhum, and Bhagalpur, which recorded a mortality of 35·97, 30·68, 0·48, 29·89, and 28·92 per mille respectively. Jessore suffered less from fever during the year under report, the recorded mortality being 27·38 against 33·02 per mille in the previous year; while Calcutta and Puri returned the smallest death-rate from this cause, viz., 4·58 and 7·27 per mille respectively. Anti-malarial operations were carried out at Ranaghat, Berhampore, Jagadispur and Moheshpur, but it cannot be said that much advantage has resulted from them. The operations at Berhampore and Moheshpur have been abandoned on the recommendation of the Sanitary Commissioner, while those at Ranaghat and Jagadispur will be continued for a further period. Steps are being taken to collect accurate statistics as to the prevalence of fever in places where drainage works are either in progress or about to be undertaken, showing the death-rate from this cause both before and after the execution of the drainage works; the results will demonstrate whether any marked improvement in the death-rate from malaria is produced by them. The Committee appointed by Government to enquire into the causes of malaria in the districts of the Presidency Division and to ascertain how far it is due to obstructed drainage and whether the evil can be remedied, completed their enquiries in March last, and their report which was recently received is now under the consideration of Government.

8. Dysentery and Diarrhœa.—The number of deaths recorded was 47,069 against 45,260 in the previous year, the corresponding ratios being ·94 and ·90 per mille respectively. The largest number of deaths occurred in January and the smallest in June. Orissa returned the very high death-rate of 3·20 per mille from these causes. A special enquiry into the cause of the high mortality returned from this division which was made during the year by Captain Clemesha showed that it was to some extent due to the bad water-supply but mainly to the insanitary habits of the people. It is however not improbable that the high figures returned from these districts are to some extent due to incorrectness in reporting.

9. Respiratory Diseases.—The total number of deaths reported from these causes, excluding Sambalpur, was 12,170, or ·24 per mille as compared with 11,189 or ·22 in 1905 and 8,325 or ·16 per mille in 1904. In Sambalpur the mortality was 655 or 1·02 per mile. The mortality was as is natural heavier in towns than in rural areas, the largest number of deaths, 4,384, being registered in Calcutta where the persistent increase of the deathrate from this cause is most noticeable. The returns from the districts cannot however be strictly relied upon, as the reporting agency is not sufficiently intelligent to be able to discriminate with any degree of accuracy between cases of respiratory disease and of fever.

10. Sanitary Improvements.—The Lieutenant-Governor has read with interest the account given in Section IX of the Sanitary Commissioner's report of the efforts made by Municipalities and District Boards to promote sanitation. He notices with satisfaction the opinion recorded by Lieutenant-Colonel Clarkson that the conservancy arrangements in Municipalities are steadily improving and that the expenditure under this head is increasing. A brief reference is made to a number of the more important drainage and water-supply schemes under preparation or under actual construction. The Lieutenant-Governor will again allude to these when dealing with the annual reports on the working of District Boards and Municipalities. The services of the Sanitary Board and their Engineer were largely used in working out these schemes.

11. Vaccination.—The mortality from small-pox increased very largely, the number of deaths recorded being 23 543 in 1906-1907 as compared with 12,090 in 1905-1906. In last year's resolution the unsatisfactory vaccination results in the district of Puri were specially noticed. The results now reported are even more unsatisfactory. The death-rate from this cause for the district rose from 2·84 to the abnormal figure of 4 72 per mille, and at the same time the number of successful operations performed fell from 43,080 to 40,682. Sanction has recently been accorded to a scheme formulated by the Civil Surgeon for increasing the number and pay of the vaccinators employed in the district, and the Sanitary Commissioner will be directed to make a special and thorough enquiry into the causes of the abnormally high death-rate now reported. A severe outbreak of small-pox occurred in the Darjeeling district during the year, and as a natural result there was a large increase in the number of operations performed. Unfortunately the lymph supplied from the Government depôt at Ghoom was found to have deteriorated, and considerable difficulty was experienced in checking the epidemic. Under the orders of the Lieutenant-Governor a special enquiry was made into the causes of the failure of the lymph by the Sanitary Commissioner and the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, and steps have now been taken to guard against such a contingency occurring in the future. The large decrease in the number of operations in Calcutta, 41,300 as compared with 85,287 in 1905-1906, is very noticeable and the explanation given in the report is hardly satisfactory; the death-rate from small-pox in Calcutta is still very high (2·09). With these exceptions the vaccination work generally compares favourably with that performed during the previous year. The total number of operations performed in the Province during the year 1906-1907 was 2,037,273 against 2,041,230 in 1905-1906. Anti-septic vaccination was introduced throughout the Province, and on the whole the results appear to have been satisfactory.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. J. McINTOSH,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

GENERAL SUMMARY.—Rain was general in the Province, but the fall was heavy in Jessore, Khulna, Angul and Cooch Bihar. It was moderate in Nadia, Champaran, Bhagalpur, Darjeeling and Ranchi and light in the rest of the Province. Recent heavy rain has done some damage to jute and paddy in Hooghly, Howrah, the 24-Parganas, Jessore and Khulna. Rain is still reported to be wanted in parts of Burdwan, Bankura, Shahabad and Palamau. Locusts passed through some districts of Bihar, but no appreciable damage has been done. In Darbhanga the number of persons on gratuitous relief in the observation area is 760 and in the famine area 11,086. The number of persons on relief-works is 7,658. Test-works in the Madhubani subdivision of the district have been closed. Cattle-disease exists in five districts. Fodder and water are sufficient. The price of common rice has risen in five and fallen in eight districts.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL DURING THE MONTH OF JUNE 1907.

THE monsoon current and the usual monsoon rains commenced in Bengal during the middle of the month. This year the south-west monsoon was actively established in Bengal on the 17th (vide the weather summary of India for the month of June). The following lines are added regarding the advent of the south-west monsoon from the above summary:—"In Bengal, on the other hand, the rains commenced about the normal date, but the rain-bearing current like that from the Arabian Sea, was restricted to a comparatively small area and never extended westwards beyond Bihar. It may be noted that although the delay in the arrival of the monsoon currents in the Coast districts has not been greater than in June 1906, their progress inland has been considerably slower."

With a slight defect in the districts of Burdwan and Birbhum, the rainfall was well above the average in South-West Bengal. It was deficient in the districts of Saran Champaran, Muzaffarpur, Darjeeling, and Purnea in Bihar, and the deficiency was well marked in the district of Champaran, where the departure from the normal was 5·09 inches. In the districts of Angul and Balasore in Orissa only the fall was in excess of the normal, and it was in great excess throughout Chota Nagpur. On an average, South-West Bengal received 13·28 inches, Bihar 9·44 inches, Orissa 8·72 inches and Chota Nagpur 12·81 inches. Expressed in percentage figures, South-West Bengal received 123 per cent. of the normal, Bihar 113 per cent., Orissa 96 per cent and Chota Nagpur 139 per cent.

The following table gives the rainfall of the various divisions of Bengal in June and in each of the previous months of the present year as compared with the normal values for the same periods. The figures given represent the actual falls expressed as percentage of the normal falls :—

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Kundsen's Barograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. The rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

o, overcast; g, dark gloomy; t, thunder; <, lightning; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers.

3rd.—If the amount of the purchase-money do not exceed Rs. 100, the whole amount to be paid down at once.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT ON THE POLICE ADMINISTRATION OF THE TOWN OF CALCUTTA AND ITS SUBURBS FOR THE YEAR 1906.

POLITICAL DEPARTMENT—POLICE.

READ—

The Annual Report on the Police Administration of the Town of Calcutta and its Suburbs for the year 1906.

Read also—

The Reports for the two previous years, and the orders of the Government recorded thereon.

Mr. F. L. Halliday, M.V.O., held charge of the office of the Commissioner of Police throughout the year. The post of Deputy Commissioner was held by Mr. F. C. T. Halliday from the 1st January to the 9th May, and again from the 11th to the 31st December. Mr. C. A. Tegart acted as Deputy Commissioner, and then remained on as Additional Deputy Commissioner to the end of the year. Mr. R. S. F. Macrae was placed on special duty in the last quarter of the year to enquire into alleged malpractices by the River Police.

2. The scheme for the reorganization of the Calcutta Police received the sanction of the Secretary of State in August 1906. This scheme will be worked up to gradually as funds permit. A commencement had already been made in the previous year, under the provisional sanction accorded to the scheme by the Government of India. The principal step taken during the year under review was the entertainment of 18 additional Sub-Inspectors. Sanction was accorded to the substitution of armed police for military guards at the Mint, Currency Office and Bank of Bengal.

3. There was an increase in the number of dismissals and other punishments. The Commissioner of Police attributes this to increased supervision and stricter discipline. It is partly the result of the special enquiries which were made by Mr. Macrae into the conduct of the River Police. It is satisfactory to note that, in spite of stricter discipline, the better pay and prospects of the force have brought about a considerable decrease in the number of resignations, of which there were only 133 compared with 321 in 1904 and 236 in 1905.

4. The number of true cognizable cases reported direct to the police and instituted on complaint to a Magistrate has increased by over 4,000. This is due principally to a larger number of police prosecutions for public nuisances, offences under the Calcutta and Suburban Police Acts and cruelty to animals; but there is also a regrettable increase in the number of serious offences against the person and against public tranquillity. There was a large decrease of 1,070 cases under the Port Act, due to the investigation by Mr. Macrae which has been referred to above. There were 412 burglaries against 404 in 1905. The introduction of a regular system of patrol, which is now under the consideration of Government, should lead to a diminution in this form of crime. Fourteen true cases of murder were reported. In four of these cases no clue was obtained, and in only three were the offenders convicted.

The number of non-cognizable cases was 15,027 against 15,349 in 1905; of these, 9,547 ended in conviction.

5. No fewer than 30,499 cases were instituted in the Presidency Magistrates' Courts, of which about 4·3 per cent. were disposed of by the Honorary Magistrates. The High Court and the Alipore Sessions Court dealt with 78 and 36 cases, respectively, of which 61 and 31 ended in conviction.

6. Considerable attention was paid during the year to the operations of fraudulent firms. The system of instituting prosecutions in the districts where the complainant and witnesses live has led to the disappearance of the larger fraudulent firms. An exemplary sentence of fourteen years' rigorous imprisonment was obtained against one of the most notorious offenders of this class.

7. Further progress was made in the system of identification by means of finger impressions. One thousand and twenty accused persons were thus identified as against 981, 917 and 897 in the three preceding years. Five hundred and eighty-one old offenders were reconvicted.

8. During the year 127 private motor-cars and 26 cycles were registered. The total number of registered motor-cars and cycles in Calcutta at the close of the year was 304 and 73, respectively. Five deaths were caused by motor-cars. Two cases in which the drivers were prosecuted ended in a discharge and an acquittal, respectively. In the other three cases the drivers were exonerated from blame at the inquests.

9. A noteworthy event of the year was the panic that occurred in Calcutta towards the end of August, commonly called the 'kidnapping scare.' It arose out of a trumped-up story that he had been kidnapped, told by a youth to his father, in order to conceal the fact that he had got into bad company and suffered in consequence. The panic spread to all classes of the Indian population, and led to unprovoked assaults on various innocent persons on the suspicion that they were kidnappers. There were demonstrations connected with the partition of Bengal on the 16th October, but they passed off without a disturbance. The twenty-second sitting of the Indian National Congress was held in Calcutta in December. An Indian Industrial Exhibition was also held at the same time. Both entailed considerable additional police work. The Exhibition was the largest ever held in Calcutta, and is reported to have been very successful.

10. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to thank the Commissioner of Police, and the officers serving under him, for the good work done by them during the year under review.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, for information and guidance.

Ordered, also, that a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the Chief Presidency Magistrate, Calcutta, the Commissioner of the Presidency Division, the Chairman of the Corporation of Calcutta, and the Municipal Department of this Government, for information.

Ordered, also, that a copy of this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

E. A. GAIT,

Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE STAMP DEPARTMENT IN BENGAL IN THE YEAR 1906-07.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 230T.S.R.—The 22nd July 1907.—The following Resolution by the Board of Revenue, L.P., regarding the administration of the Stamp Department in Bengal during the year 1906-1907, and an abstract of the receipts and charges for the year, are published for general information.

H. J. McINTOSH,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

STAMPS.

THE HON'BLE MR. W. C. MACPHERSON, C.S.I.

Dated Calcutta, the 8th July 1907.

THE annual statistics of the Stamp Department for the year 1906-1907 have been compiled in the prescribed Statements I to VII.

2. The figures of general receipts and charges for the year 1906-1907 obtained from the Accountant-General have not as yet been finally verified, and are, therefore, liable to subsequent adjustment.

3. The revenue collected under the Stamp and Court-fees Acts amounted to Rs. 1,42,36,693, against Rs. 1,41,83,281 in the preceding year, showing an increase of Rs. 53,412. The increase of revenue which was obtained occurred entirely in non-judicial stamps. The figures adopted in the revised budget estimate for the year were Rs. 1,46,00,000; the difference appears to be due to the inclusion in the estimate of the sale-proceeds of unified stamps which have not been shown in the collections.

The total charges during the year amounted to Rs. 3,53,641; the increase of ·13 per cent. over the figures of 1905-1906 was due to the larger amount of discount paid to vendors on the increased sales of stamps.

* * * * * *

5. The sale-proceeds of court-fee stamps, excluding stamps for copies, fell from Rs. 96,13,749 to Rs. 94,66,666. The largest decrease, amounting to Rs. 3,14,185, occurred in Calcutta, and is attributed by the Collector partly to the smaller amount of duty paid in probate and letters of administration cases and partly to the abolition of salt rowanas, on which a court-fee duty used to be payable. Muzaffarpur, Hazaribagh, Jessore and Nadia showed a decrease of Rs. 53,506, Rs. 17,564, Rs. 15,888, and Rs. 13,707, respectively. The decrease in Muzaffarpur is ascribed to the falling off in the number of civil suits instituted, as well as to the decrease in the sale of stamps of higher value used for probates. The decrease in Hazaribagh is attributed to a decrease in the number of civil suits. The decrease in Jessore is said to be due to the fact that, owing to the high price of food-grains, many zamindars refrained from suing their tenants. In Nadia the decrease is cheifly due to the falling off in probate fees.

Increases of over Rs. 10,000 occurred in the districts of Darbhanga (Rs. 48,305), Bankura (Rs. 31,536), Murshidabad (Rs. 22,450), Manbhum

(Rs. 19,098), Ranchi (Rs. 18,669), Patna (Rs. 16,778), Gaya (Rs. 16,369), Khulna (Rs. 15,903), Midnapore (Rs. 13,548), and Puri (Rs. 12,481). The increased number and value of civil suits and rent suits are usually adduced in explanation, but in Ranchi and Midnapore the increase is attributed to the survey and settlement operations.

6. Non-judicial stamps yielded an increased revenue to the extent of Rs. 4,03,417, or 11·1 per cent. as compared with the figures for the year 1905-06 (excluding the receipts on account of one-anna receipt stamps). The increase was shared by all classes of stamps except stamps for legal practitioners' licenses, which showed a slight decrease. The revenue derived from the sale of impressed stamps amounted to Rs. 23,22,342 against Rs. 20,83,098. The increase in the number of deeds executed, which gave this increase of revenue, is ascribed to failure of harvests and the higher prices of food-grains. The revenue derived from the sale of hundis or inland bills of exchange was Rs. 1,49,559, showing an increase of Rs. 15,137 as compared with the receipts of the preceding year. The receipts from the sale of impressed labels, which are used only in Calcutta, amounted to Rs. 10,38,541 against Rs. 9,66,652. The increase is attributed to the growth of trade and the increasing popularity of this class of stamps in Calcutta. A striking feature of the statement is the increase (Rs. 58,797) under "Share-transfer stamps," the sale of which is also practically confined to Calcutta. This is due to the activity in speculation in coal shares and to the floating of several companies of speculative nature. There was an increase of Rs. 13,112 under the head "Miscellaneous receipts" as compared with the previous year. The increase was mainly contributed by Calcutta and was due to action taken by the Collector under sections 32, 40, and 41 of the Stamp Act.

7. There are 2,978 vendors engaged in the sale of judicial and non-judicial stamps during the year, or nine fewer than in the previous year. In Calcutta the number of vendors decreased by 20; and the reduction is attributed to the abolition of one-anna receipt stamps, as noticed in the preceding year's report.

The discount allowed during the year exceeded that of the preceding year by Rs. 3,301, the increase representing the necessary result of increased sales.

8. The total number of cases in which deficient duty and penalty were levied by the Courts during the year shows a decrease of 89, and there was a decrease of Rs. 2,228 in the duty and penalty realised in comparison with the realisations of the preceding year. There was a decrease of 122 in the number of cases decided, but an increase of Rs. 17,574 in the duty and penalty realised by Revenue Officers as compared with the figures of the previous year. The increase occurred mainly in Calcutta, and has been explained in the notes on Statement III.

9. The number of cases instituted for the infringement of the provisions of the Stamp Act was 1,086, in which 1,086 persons were tried, against 667 cases and 650 persons in the preceding year. The fines imposed amounted to Rs. 6,388 against Rs. 5,701, while the amount distributed in rewards was Rs. 5,805 against Rs. 3,173. In Calcutta there was a marked increase in the number of cases instituted and the amount of fines imposed as compared with the preceding year. It was noticed in the preceding year's report that the increased activity in prosecution of offences against the General Stamp Act had resulted in complaints in Calcutta, which were being enquired into by the Commissioner. His report is still under the Board's consideration.

10. Of the cases of the valuation of estates for the issue of probates or letters of administration reported during the year, 78·8 per cent. were enquired into. The corresponding percentage in the preceding year was 84·2. The proportion borne by the deficit court-fees realised to the amount originally paid was 3·02 per cent. as compared with 3·4 per cent. in the previous year.

By order of the Board of Revenue, L. P.,

Offg. Secretary.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 225T.S.R.—The 22nd July 1907.—The following extracts from the Resolution and Returns of the Board of Revenue on the working of the Income-tax Department in Bengal during the year 1906-07 are published for general information.

H. J. McINTOSH,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION.

INCOME-TAX BRANCH.

THE HON'BLE MR. W. C. MACPHERSON, C.S.I.

Dated Calcutta, the 8th July 1907.

THE statistical information regarding the Income-tax Department for the year 1906-07 has been compiled with reference to the Government of India's Resolutions, Nos. 2316S.R., dated the 8th May 1901, and 83S.R., dated the 14th January 1903.

2. The receipts, charges and net revenue of the years 1905-06 and 1906-07 are compared below:—

Year.		Receipts.	Charges.	Percentage of charges.	Net revenue.
		Rs.	Rs.		Rs.
1906-07	...	48,64,256	1,63,011	3·4	47,01,245
1905-06	...	46,[illegible]526	1,51,862	3·3	44,96,664
		+ 2,15,730	+ 11,149	+ ·1	+ 2,04,581

The net revenue showed an increase of 4·5 per cent., as compared with an increase of 6·7 per cent. in 1905-06.

3. The total collections on account of tax during the year showed an increase of Rs. 2,09,570 or 4·7 per cent. over those of 1905-06. The increase was obtained from all the four main classes of assessees, salaries (Part I) contributing Rs. 61,202, companies (Part II), Rs. 55,330, securities (Part III) Rs. 4,131, and other sources (Part IV), Rs. 88,707, or 29·2, 26·4, 2, and 42·4 per cent. of the total increase, respectively.

The total number of assessees in the lowest class of Part IV (i.e., those assessed on the lowest taxable income of Rs. 1,000 to Rs. 1,250) was 10,571, as against 10,602 persons assessed in this class in the preceding year. Of these assessees 526 were formerly in higher classes, 1,464 were new assessees, and 2,631 were assessees who in previous years had been assessed in lower classes, as against 552, 1,455, and 2,809, respectively, in the year 1905-06. The assessments cancelled on objection or appeal in the cases of new assessees in the lowest class were 224, or 5 per cent., against 293, or 6·9 per cent. in the preceding year.

4. The final number of assessees and the final demand for the year 1906-07 show an increase of 1,500 persons and Rs. 1,91,189, or 3·6 or 4·5 per cent., as compared with 2·6 and 8·7 per cent., respectively, during the previous year. Of these increases, Calcutta contributed 810 persons and Rs. 1,45,830, or 54 and 76·3 per cent., respectively—a result which is attributed to the revision of a larger number of streets during the year through the help of the two additional assessors, to the expansion of Railway traffic, and to the prosperous condition of the business of the town. Outside Calcutta the increase in the final demand was largest in the district of Purnea, where it advanced from Rs. 54,019 during 1905-06 to Rs. 65,950 during the year under report.

5. The percentage of collections on the final demand on account of tax for the year was 97·2 as compared with 97·07 during the year 1905-06. In Bankura, Midnapore, Howrah, Murshidabad, Cuttack, Puri, and Palamau, the entire demand was collected within the year. The prescribed standard was attained in all the other districts.

6. The total cost of assessment and collection during the year shows an increase of Rs. 11,149 or 7·3 per cent. in comparison with the previous year, owing chiefly, to a general (provisional) increase of salaries of clerical establishments, to the grant of grain compensation allowances to clerks and menials, and to the entertainment of additional establishment in Calcutta.

PRELIMINARY FORECAST OF THE JUTE CROP OF BENGAL, 1907.

THE following note is published for general information.

E. A. GAIT,
Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 20th July 1907.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

PRELIMINARY FORECAST OF THE JUTE CROP OF BENGAL, 1907.

[On an average of the five years ending 1904-05, the area under jute crop in the territory to which this forecast relates has represented some 15·4 per cent. of the total area under the jute crop in British India.]

LAST year the forecast related to 14 districts. In the present report returns received from Champaran, Muzaffarpur and the Sonthal Parganas have also been incorporated, as considerable areas have been cultivated this year in these districts. In accordance with the existing orders of Government, this preliminary forecast shows the estimated area sown, and gives a general survey of prospects only, without any reference to probable outturn, either in percentage figures or in bales.

2. Acreage.—The following statement shows the acreage for the current and the preceding 4 years :—

1903	...	...	...	268,000
1904	...	...	...	505,900
1905	...	...	...	569,300
1906	...	...	...	780,400
1907	...	...	...	932,500

The figures for 1906 are those shown in the final forecast for that year. It may be noted here, however, that in one or two cases the District Officers have now reported that the acreage shown last year was an under-estimate

3. Weather conditions.—In March the rainfall was comparatively heavy in all the jute districts. In April it was above the normal in all the districts except Burdwan, Midnapore, Hooghly, Howrah and the 24-Parganas. In consequence of this timely rain the sowings were normal in most parts. In May the fall was below the normal in all the districts except Howrah, but this deficiency does not appear to have adversely affected the crops. The monsoon set in about the middle of June, and ample rain has fallen since almost everywhere. In nearly all the districts the weather has been generally favourable; in Hooghly, Howrah and Jessore it has latterly been unfavourable, and information received on the 9th instant shows that the crops have suffered considerably in the Arambagh Sub-division of the first named district. On the whole, the season so far has been better than last year.

The statement below shows the rainfall in inches from March to June, inclusive, at the head-quarters of the seven principal jute districts in the current and the preceding four years:—

Name of district.	1903.	1904.	1905.	1906.	1907.
Purnea	14·94	15·20	16·79	15·54	16·57
Murshidabad	17·64	20·93	19·96	11·71	20·06
24-Parganas	18·11	22·22	18·80	14·01	27·75
Nadia	17·37	21·61	23·57	13·86	24·87
Jessore	22·76	29·05	21·78	17·36	29·19
Howrah	15·45	19·91	17·18	15·06	27·18
Hooghly	17·67	19·15	16·92	12·52	24·70

4. District Returns.—The total area sown this year is at present estimated to be 932,500 acres, as compared with 780,400 acres in 1906, as estimated in the final forecast of that year. Certain District Officers have now revised the figures for last year, and according to this revision the area sown last year would amount to 858,300 acres, but I have retained the figures shown last year to avoid confusion. Sowings are reported to be still going on in Bhagalpur and in parts of Midnapore, but they have been completed in the rest of the Province.

The area under jute has increased in all districts, except in the 24-Parganas and Murshidabad. The extension of cultivation is reported to be due chiefly to the high prices obtained last year and partly to the favourable weather at the sowing time. In the 24-Parganas there has been a decrease of about 7 per cent. due, the Collector states, to the dearth of rice and to the sowing of paddy on lands where jute failed to germinate, owing to want of moisture. In Murshidabad a decrease of 8 per cent. is attributed to the high price of rice and the consequent increased cultivation thereof.

5. Condition and prospects.—The present condition of the crop is reported to be good in ten districts, including the important districts of Purnea, Jessore, Murshidabad and Nadia, and fair in the remaining districts except in parts of Hooghly, Howrah and Jessore, where damage has been done by excessive rain. Prospects at the present time are better this year on the whole than last year.

6. General.—The reports show that little or no jute is left in the districts from last year's crop. Figures are not yet available to show the actual quantity, in bales exported and consumed in the mills during the past eleven months.

7. Combined forecast of Bengal and Eastern Bengal and Assam.—In the forecast now published by the Director of Agriculture, Eastern Bengal and Assam, the total area in jute this year in that Province has been estimated at 2,927,000 acres; so that the total acreage for both Provinces comes to 3,859,500 acres In last year's final forecast, the consolidated area under jute in both Provinces was shown as 3,336,400 acres. In several cases, last year's figures have now been revised by the District officers, and according to the new figures the jute area of 1906 works out to 3,523,200 acres. The season in both Provinces as reported up to the present appears on the whole to have been more favourable than that of last year.

The weather and rainfall were favourable except in the Kalna Sub-division where the weather was unfavourable during the sowing season. The condition of the crop is fair. The sowing was normal except in the Kalna Sub-division where the sowings were late for want of timely rain. The sowings have been completed. The crop is expected to be better than last year except in the Kalna Sub-division where a worse one is expected. The increase in acreage is due to favourable weather and the high prices obtained by cultivators last year which have induced them to sow a much larger area this year.
	Midnapore ...	3,319,040	2,190,600	9,400	10,800	Very little in Sadar, Contai and Tamluk; no jute in Ghatal.	35,342	1896 to 1896.	29	3rd week of April.	The weather and rainfall were favourable except in the Tamluk Sub-division. The condition of the crop is fair. The sowings were normal. They have been completed except in the Sadar and Contai Subdivisions where they are still going on. In the Ghatal Subdivision the crop is expected to be better than last year's crop. In other places, crops equal to those of last year are expected. The increase in the area sown with jute this year is due to the high price of jute. Contai shows an increase of 1,200 acres said to be due to— (1) Under-estimate of last year's acreage. (2) Rise in prices.

Division.	District.	Total area of the district.	Estimated total area under cultivation.	Approximate area sown last year (1906).	Estimated area sown this year (1907). Burdwan—concld.	Hooghly ...	769,960	445,960	42,200	71,300	Very little	Not cadastrally surveyed.			Middle of May 1907.	The weather and rainfall were not favourable in the beginning. Since the middle of June they have been favourable. The condition of the crop is fair. The date of sowing was late. Sowings have been completed. At present there is every prospect of a favourable crop. The high price of jute is the cause of the increase in the area sown this year.	Revised areas, are shown in columns 3 and 4.
	Howrah ...	336,480	250,600	56,700	61,700	A little in the Ulubaria subdivision.	...	...	...	15th April 1907.	The weather and rainfall were not favourable. The condition of the crop is fair. The date of sowing was normal and sowings have been completed. The crop of this year is expected to be worse, as damage has been done by the recent heavy rainfall. The increase in the area sown this year is due to the rise in the price of jute last year.	The area in column 4 has been revised by the Collector.
	24-Parganas ...	3,160,160	1,079,700	93,000	86,400	Nil	...	...	...	In April...	The weather and rainfall were favourable at the Sadar, Basirhat and Diamond Harbour Sub-divisions and unfavourable in the Barasat Sub-division. The recent rain damaged the growth of the crops in the Barrackpore Sub-division. The condition of the crop is fair. The date of sowing was normal at the Sadar, Diamond Harbour and Barrackpore Sub-divisions, and late at the Barasat and Basirhat Sub-divisions. The sowings have been completed. The crop is expected to be better than that of last year at the Sadar, Diamond Harbour and Basirhat Sub-divisions, and worse at the Barasat and Barrackpore Sub-divisions. The decrease in the area sown this year is due principally to the decrease in the Barasat Sub-division where a large area was sown at first, but where owing to short rainfall in May, and subsequent defective germination, aus paddy was sown instead. The decrease in area is also due to the insufficient supply of rice last season.

PRESIDENCY	Nadia ...		1,043,900	90,000	93,000	Little ...	Not cadastrally surveyed.			15th April	The weather and rainfall were favourable. The condition of the crop is good. The sowings commenced a little late. They have been completed. The crop of this year is expected to be better in comparison with the crops of last year. The increase in the area sown this year is due to the high prices obtained last year and to seasonable rainfall.
	Murshidabad		985,500	104,500	96,680	Do. ...	...	...	...	April and May.	The weather and rainfall were favourable. The condition of the crop is good. The date of sowing was normal. Sowings have been completed. The crop of this year is expected to be the same as that of last year. Decrease in the area sown this year is reported from the Jangipur Sub-division which is due to the high price of rice, which is again leading to an extension of the cultivation of this crop.
	Jessore ...	1,673,000	1,191,009	70,500	142,800	Do. ...	...	...	...	March to June.	The rainfall was favourable for the growth of the crop The condition of the crop is good. The sowing was early in Jhenidah and Magura; normal in Narail and Sadar, and late in Bongaon. The sowings have been completed. The crop of this year is expected to be better in Magura and Narail, but worse in Jhenidah and Bongaon in comparison with the normal crop and the crop of last year. This is owing to excessive rainfall. The increase in the area sown this year is due to the unusual high prices of jute which have induced people to cultivate a very much larger area.	The area in column 5 has now been raised by the Collector to 1,35,000 acres.
	Khulna ...	3,049,542	870,000	37,000	37,500	Very little	35,613	1893 to 1900 and 1903 to 1905.	603	April 1907	The weather and rainfall were favourable in the Sadar and Bagerhat Sub-divisions, but unfavourable in the Satkhira Sub-division. The present condition of the crop appears to be fair, although a little damage was done by the recent cyclone. The sowings commenced a little late. They have been completed. The crop is expected to be better in the Sadar Sub-division, the same as last year in the Bagerhat Sub-division, and worse in the Satkhira Sub-division. The increase in the area sown this year is due to the profitableness of the jute crop owing to its high price which induced the cultivators to sow more lands with jute. There was an increase in all the Sub-divisions of the district, viz.:— Sadar ... ... 95 acres. Bagerhat ... ... 180 ,, Satkhira ... ... 200 ,, Total ... 475
PATNA ...	Champaran ...	2,259,840	1,447,600	...	5,000	...	2,259,840	1893 to 1897.	...	...	The season was unfavourable at first. Sowings were about normal and have been completed. The crop this year is some what better than that of last year.	This district appears for the first time in this forecast. The area for last year is reported at 1,500 acres.

The condition of the crop is good. The date of sowing was normal. Sowings have been completed. The crop is expected to be better than last year. The increase in the area sown this year is due to the increasing popularity of the crop owing to the profits derivable from its cultivation.	This district is included for the first time in this report. The area sown in 1906 is estimated at 2,100 acres.
BHAGALPUR	Bhagalpur ...	2,704,640	2,073,300	4,700	5,300	Little ...	1,229,449	1902 to 1904.	151	Middle of June.	The weather was favourable. The condition of the crop is good. The date of sowing was normal, and a little early in some places. Sowings are still going on. The crop of this year is expected to be better. The increase in area is due to extension of cultivation of jute by raiyats owing to the large profits made last year.
	Purnea ...	3,196,153	1,898,000	237,200	263,200	Little ...	761,238	1905-06	2,284	April ...	The weather was favourable, and the rainfall was sufficient for the growth of the crop. The condition of the crop is good. The sowings were early. They have been completed. The crop is expected to be much better than that of last year. The condition of the crop is good. The sowings commenced in time. They have been completed. The crop of this year is expected to be better than that of last year. The weather was favourable in Pakour but excessive rainfall has done injury to crops in Rajmahal. The present condition of the crops in Pakour is good, and in Rajmahal, fair. The sowings were normal in Pakour, and early in Rajmahal. The sowings have been completed. The crops of this year is expected to be worse than that of last year. The high prices realised last year have induced cultivators to grow jute on lands which formerly were sown with paddy only; hence the increase in area.	This district has been included for the first time in this forecast. The area sown last year has been estimated by the Deputy Commissioner at 7,100 acres.
ORISSA ...	Cuttack ...	2,338,560	1,223,500	10,100	17,200	A small quantity for private consumption.	2,088,487	1888 to 1896 and 1901.	652	15th May to 1st June. ANNUAL REPORT ON THE GOVERNMENT CINCHONA PLANTATION AND FACTORY IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1906-07.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 725T.—Medl.—The 20th July 1907.—The following extracts (paragraphs 1 to 12) from the Annual Report on the Government Cinchona Plantation and Factory in Bengal for the year 1906-1907 are published for general information.

H. J. McINTOSH,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

Forty-fifth Annual Report of the Government Cinchona Plantation, British Sikkim, being that for the financial year 1906-07, and also the Report of the Factory of the same year, by Captain A. T. Gage, I.M.S., Superintendent of Cinchona Cultivation in Bengal and Government Quinologist.

1. Weather and General.—Weather conditions on the whole were normal. On Mungpoo Plantation 125·22 inches of rain fell, spread over 140 days, the heaviest fall on one day being over 9 inches. The average rainfall on Mungpoo for the last fifteen years is 125·67 inches. On Munsong Plantation 78·34 inches of rain fell, scattered over 148 days, the heaviest fall on one day being 3·15 inches. The average rainfall on Munsong for the last five years is 93·174 inches. The contrast between the two plantations in this respect is noteworthy as an indication of the more favourable climatic conditions prevailing on the latter.

2. Plantations and Crop.—During the year 141·84 acres of extension were planted up with 374,159 young trees; on Mungpoo Plantation 84·5 acres with 230,033 plants of Cinchona Ledgeriana and 12·22 acres (on Sittong Division) with 21,288 plants of Hybrid No. 2; on Munsong Plantation 45·12 acres with 122,838 plants of Cinchona Ledgeriana. The plants were all from seed or cuttings obtained from trees which had been determined by analysis to possess a satisfactory percentage of Quinine in their bark. The Assistant Superintendent continues to give careful attention to the propagation of No. 2 Hybrid by cuttings, and the nursery stock has been raised from 92 to 1,200 plants during the year. The number of Cinchona trees of all sorts on the permanent plantations on 31st March 1907 was 3,698,777. Of this number, 3,006,847 were Cinchona Ledgeriana, there being 1,770,521 on Mungpoo Plantation and 1,236,326 on Munsong Plantation. The remainder consisted of 362,735 plants of Hybrid No. 1 (all on Mungpoo Plantation), 251,914 of Cinchona succirubra and 77,283 of Hybrid No. 2—both mostly on Mungpoo Plantation. The details of the distribution are given in Appendices A (1) and A (2). The increase in the number of trees on the plantations as a whole since last year is 89,564 plants. The amount of bark yielded by both plantations was 429,557 lbs, of which 376,025 lbs. were Cinchona Ledgeriana bark, and the greater part of the remainder Hybrid No. 1 bark. Of the Ledgeriana bark, Mungpoo supplied 286,994 lbs. and Munsong 89,031 lbs. The general conditions of both plantations and proposals for their future working have been discussed in a separate report now under consideration by Government, so that they need not be rediscussed here.

3. Factory and Outturn.—The total quantity of bark worked up in the Factory was 598,500 lbs., made up of 513,180 lbs., of Ledgeriana and 85,320 lbs. of Hybrid No. 1. The output of Quinine Sulphate amounted to 16,065 lbs. 4 oz., being an increase of 287 lbs., 8 oz. on last year's output. It falls considerably short of the estimated output of 20,000 lbs., as there was unavoidable delay in getting the additional machinery into full working order. The manufacture of Cinchona Febrifuge was suspended for part of the year while the new machinery was being erected, so that only 2,652 lbs. were produced, which, however, was quite sufficient in conjunction with what was in stock to satisfy the demand for it. No Cinchonidine Sulphate was manufactured during the year, there being an ample quantity in stock to meet the very limited demand for it. The total output of the Factory was 18,717 lbs. 4 oz., showing a decrease—entirely made up of Cinchona Febrifuge and Cinchonidine Sulphate—of 2,897 lbs. 8 oz. compared with last year's output. The average yield of Quinine Sulphate in the bark supplied to the Factory was 2·68 per cent.—an unsatisfactorily low figure, which reacts badly upon the working of the Factory. The causes of this low percentage and proposals for its remedying have been discussed in the special report to which reference has already been made. Since last report all the extra vats and other machinery necessary for the increase of output of Quinine have been put into place and are now in full working order. Advantage has been taken while erecting the additions to the Factory to rebuild and level the platforms of the old vats and to reline the old separators with lead An improved method of transporting the bark from the Grinding House direct to the vats has also been devised The Factory officers have carried out systematic bark analysis throughout the year, and are conducting experiments with a view to improve the methods of Quinine extraction.

4. General Charges.—The charges against the Department as a whole amounted to Rs. 48,104-1-6 as against Rs. 72,819-6-2 charged last year. Of this sum, Rs. 6,767-1-6 represent the cost of new boiler and chimney to Factory not accounted in last year's account, as the invoices were not received in time; Rs. 9,145-6 the cost of relining the old separators with lead, and Rs 17,390-8-9 the cost of erection and carriage of the additional machinery which fell within the year, and purchase of miscellaneous stores in connection with the Factory extension. The total sum thus spent during the year on Factory extension, including the relining of the old separators, was Rs. 33,303-0-3. The cost of the plantation extensions was Rs. 6,466-5. Pay of clerks and menials accounted for Rs 4,212-8, erection of bark stores at Munsong Rs. 1,121-8-6, road and public works cess Rs. 1,475, and advertisements, telegrams and postage Rs. 1,525-11-9. Details are given in Appendix D.

5. Plantation Charges.—The total plantation charges amount to Rs. 88,185-13-1 of which Mungpoo Plantation takes roughly three-fourths and Munsong the remainder. Against the total plantation charges has to be placed the yield of 429,657 lbs. of bark, valued at Rs. 90,474 13-6.

6. Factory Charges.—The working expenses of the Factory amounted to Rs. 84,005-2-1, being Rs. 77,375-2-1, incurred in the manufacture of Sulphate of Quinine, and Rs. 6,630 in making Cinchona Febrifuge. These figures cannot be considered satisfactory, but it is impossible that they can be very much improved upon so long as the Factory has to deal with bark of such low Quinine contents as 2·68 per cent, which means that a very large quantity of bark has to be put through the Factory with a correspondingly large consumption of oil and chemicals to produce the required output of Quinine. Despite the efforts made to reduce it, there is still an enormous accumulation of this inferior bark in stock, and it is quite a problem how to get rid of it economically. Careful watch will be kept on next year's working to determine whether it may not be advisable to purchase a certain proportion of richer bark to mix with it and so help to reduce the loss in working. The value of the bark put through the Factory was Rs. 1,25,589-6. Details are given in Appendix C (2)

7. Issue of Manufactured articles.—The amount of Quinine Sulphate sold during the year was 15,780 lbs. 8½ oz., being 972 lbs. 14½ oz. in defect of last year's sales. The Medical Depôt, Calcutta, took 1,000 lbs. and Government officers and dispensaries, etc., 368 lbs. 2 oz. more than in the previous year. On the other hand, the Medical Depôt, Lahore, Cantonment, the Inspector General of Prisons, Bengal, and the Superintendent of the Central Prison, Lahore, took respectively 1,700 lbs., 800 lbs., and 270 lbs. less than they did in 1905-06. Of Cinchona Febrifuge, 3,869 lbs. 12 oz. were sold, showing an increase of 770 lbs. over last year's sale. The Medical Depôt, Calcutta, took twice as much as it did in 1905-06, while the public sales also were slightly increased. Of Cinchonidine Sulphate, only 94 lbs. 12 oz. were sold. Detailed sale statements are given in Appendices F and G.

8. Receipts.—The total receipts for the year amount to Rs. 2,12,270-14-8, being Rs. 25,267-5-4 less than last year's receipts and Rs. 8,024-2 less than the year's expenditure, which latter, it has to be recollected, includes the sum of Rs. 33,303-0-3 spent on Factory extensions. The Budget allotment was spent practically in full, there being a saving of only Rs. 1,153-15-4. Of the receipts, Rs. 83,660-10 were in cash and Rs. 128,610-4-8 by book credit. Of the cash sales, Rs. 56,678-13-6 were for Quinine Sulphate, Rs. 24,273-6 for Cinchona Febrifuge, and the remainder for Cinchonidine Sulphate, Amorphous Alkaloid, bark and miscellaneous items. The book credits include Rs. 80,666-10-8 for Sulphate of Quinine to Medical Depôts; Rs. 35,721-2 for the same to prisons for making into pice-packets and Rs. 7,500 for a special supply of 500 lbs. Quinine Sulphate to the Principal Medical Officer, Colombo; Rs. 4,530 for supply of Cinchona Febrifuge to Medical Depôts and Inspector-General of Prisons, Bengal, and Rs. 12-8 for Cinchona bark. Details are given in Appendix B. The outstandings on 31st March 1906 were all recovered.

9. Stock Account.—On the 31st March 1907 there were in stock Quinine Sulphate 3,740 lbs. 2 oz., valued at Rs. 38,102-8-6; Cinchonidine Sulphate 926 lbs.12 oz., valued at Rs. 14,828; Cinchona Febrifuge 1,812 lbs. 12 oz., valued at Rs. 13,595-10; Amorphous Alkaloids 11,095 lbs., valued at Rs. 9708-2; Cinchona bark 910,151 lbs. valued at Rs. 1,82,682-7-3; oil 14,411 gallons, valued at Rs. 8,876-5-6; chemicals 164,800 lbs., valued at Rs. 13,386-7-6: sundries valued at Rs. 6,989-3. The total value is Rs. 2,88,168-11-9 taken at the average rate at which such stock was sold during the year.

10. Profit and Loss Account—The profit on the year's working is practically nil, amounting to only Rs. 1,880-15-10½.

11. Sale of Quinine at Post Offices.—The quantity of Quinine issued to the Prisons Department for converting into pice-packets for sale at post-offices was 3,400 lbs., being 800 lbs. less than that supplied in 1905-06, and 1,200 lbs. less than that supplied during 1904-05.

12. Miscellaneous.—

(b) Fuel Plantation.—During the year 16 acres of plantation were cut down, yielding 15,600 maunds of firewood, and 27·25 acres were planted out. The Assistant Superintendent is giving attention to the raising of stock for further extensions next year.

(c) Bungalows.—Towards the end of the year a comfortable bungalow for the Factory Assistant was in course of erection in proximity to the Factory. The bungalow was being erected from plans drawn up by the Department of Public Works from whose budget the expenditure on the bungalow is to be met.

GENERAL SUMMARY.—Rain was general over the Province. It was heavy in Saran, Champaran, Purnea, Darjeeling, Ranchi and Cooch Bihar, fairly moderate in Burdwan, Nadia, Jessore, Darbhanga and Hazaribagh, and light in the rest of the Province. More rain is wanted in many districts for transplantation of paddy. Some damage has been done by floods to jute in Midnapore and to bhadvi crops in Darbhanga. Heavy rain has adversely affected jute in Hooghly, aman seedlings and jute in the 24-Parganas, and aus paddy in Jessore. Jute has also suffered slightly from the attacks of insects in the 24-Parganas. Locusts made their appearance in Saran, Champaran, and Muzaffarpur, but did little injury to the crops. Prospects of sugarcane are favourable. In Darbhanga the number of persons gratuitously relieved in the undeclared area is 701 and in the famine area 8,993. The number on relief-works is 5,782. Cattle-disease prevails in eight districts. Fodder and water are sufficient everywhere. The price of common rice has risen in five and fallen in four districts.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Kundsen's Barograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. The rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

No. 1786.—The 26th July 1907.—The following notification of the Government of India is published for general information.

H. C. STREATFEILD,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 250, dated Simla, the 7th June 1907.

NOTIFICATION—By the Government of India, Home Department.

THE following are substituted for Rules I and XXI (b) (2), (3) and (4) in Part IV of the Ecclesiastical rules published with the notification in the Home Department, No. 178, dated the 21st May 1897:—

Rule I.—All State charges for churches (except those referred to in rule XXI (b) (2) which are debitable to "23—Ecclesiastical") in Civil, Military or State Railway Stations are provided from Public Works funds from the ordinary grant for Imperial Works under "45—Civil Works."

Rule XXI (b) (2).—In such cases the plans and specifications shall be submitted to the Executive Engineer for the approval of the proper officers in the Public Works Department, who shall sanction them on satisfying themselves that they are safe and suitable and can be executed for the estimated amount. The construction of the building may then be left to the managers or trustees of the private contributions raised, with whom must rest the responsibility for excess, if any, over the amount of this sanctioned estimate. The grant-in-aid will be paid by the Civil Department on the certificate of the Executive Engineer,—vide rule XXI (b) (3) below, and adjusted as a civil charge under the head "23—Ecclesiastical" as stated in rule I above.

Rule XXI (b) (3).—In such cases the grant will ordinarily not be paid in full by the Civil Account Officer until the Executive Engineer has certified that the building has been completed in accordance with the sanctioned plans and specifications, and the trust deed referred to in clause (4) below, where required, has been duly executed; but the Executive Engineer may authorize advances out of the sanctioned grant on receiving sufficient proof that the building is proceeding satisfactorily, and on the managers or trustees certifying that all subscriptions relied on in support of the application for the grant have been paid up in full or guaranteed by sufficient security.

Rule XXI (b) (4).—When a grant is made under clause (b) of this rule for a church intended partly for the use of non-official residents and others for whom grants are not admissible under these rules, there shall be a trust deed, duly executed by the Chief Magistrate of the district in which the church is situated and the chaplain, and registered.—(1) declaring that the building is granted in trust for Church purposes only; (2) giving to Government a prior lien on the building for the recovery of the grant in the event of the former being diverted to other purposes; (3) providing for the legal ownership of the building, and (4) indicating sufficient sources for its proper maintenance.

(Through the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal.)

I HAVE the honour to submit the following report on the working of the Eden Sanitarium and Hospital for the year 1906. Major F. O'Kinealy, I.M.S., was in charge from the 1st of January to the 14th of August, and Captain Clayton Lane, I.M.S., from the 15th of August to the 31st of December 1906.

2. The Sanitarium opened on the 19th of March 1906, and closed on the 3rd of November 1906.

3. The following table shows the number of each class of patients and friends admitted into the Sanitarium during the last six years:—

In table C, attached to the report, will be found a list of the places from which patients came.

The total admissions were 34 in excess of last year. There was an increase in the first, intermediate and second classes, and a decrease in the third class.

4. Free beds.—As usual four free beds were maintained for the benefit of convalescent patients from the Medical College and General Hospitals, Calcutta. They were occupied throughout the season. The cost, reckoning them as 3rd class, was Rs. 1,104.

Two free cots were maintained throughout the season—one by the Theo Beryl Fund and one by the Children's Ministering League.

In addition to these free beds Rs. 500 is allotted by the Committee for free beds, to be expended at the discretion of the Superintendent. One free bed was utilized by the Superintendent during the year at a cost of Rs. 166.

The rule whereby Commercial Firms, Banks, etc, can obtain a reduction in the rates charged for their European Assistants if admitted to the Sanitarium was not taken advantage of.

The donations and subscriptions amounted to Rs. 350 only, whereas Rs. 1,270 was expended on free beds.

5. The diseases for which patients were admitted are shown in table A.

There were three cases of Enteric Fever as compared with four in 1905; two were imported cases.

Malarial Fever accounted for 28 cases as compared with 11 in 1905.

The operations performed are given in table B, and numbered 54 as against 63 in 1905.

Nine confinements took place, compared with 10 in 1905. There were 12 deaths compared with 20 in 1905.

6. Income and expenditure.—For details see table F. The total income in 1906 was Rs. 33,906-1-6 compared with Rs. 40,367-11 in 1905.

The daily average cost of diets for inmates only, not including staff, was Re. 1-9 compared with Re. 1-9-6 in 1905.

The accounts were, as in former years, audited by Messrs. Lovelock and Lewis of Calcutta, whose letters giving the result of audit and statements showing the financial position are attached.

General remarks.—Military Assistant Surgeon M. Galvin was Resident Medical Officer throughout the year. He performed his duties to my entire satisfaction, with great skill, kindness and tact, and was very popular with the inmates.

Mr. Whiddett was Steward from 1st January to 8th November 1906, when his services were dispensed with.

Munshi Abdul Karim has been Accountant since the opening of the institution in 1883, and has, as usual, worked very well throughout the year. The auditor was satisfied with the care and accuracy with which the accounts were kept.

The nursing arrangements and house linen were as usual under the superintendence of two of the Clewer Sisters from Calcutta.

Quarters to accommodate six nurses are built on to the third class portion of the Sanitarium during the year.

The customary annual repairs were carried out, and the furniture, crockery, linen and drugs were renewed as usual.

Articles produced or manufactured in British India are also exempt, provided that not more than three years have elapsed since they were taken out of India, and that the property continues in the person by whom or on whose account they were exported. All articles upon which a claim for exemption is made under this rule must be shown in the declaration, and the grounds for exemption stated in the last column.

8. Passengers are strongly advised to keep carefully the receipts for duty paid upon any articles likely to be taken out of India again and re-imported, in order that they may be able to pass them free at the time of such re-importation. If they lose the receipts, they are advised to apply for a certificate of export at the time when the articles are next taken out of the country.

9. A charge of eight annas per package is made upon all baggage sent to the Custom House to cover the expenses of landing and removal.

10. A further charge is made on account of wharf rent if baggage is not cleared from the Custom House within four days from date of its receipt.

(2) When any explosive falls within more than one of the said classes, it shall be deemed to belong exclusively to the latest of such classes.

Definition of "gunpowder" (class 1.)

2. The expression "gunpowder", as used in these rules, means exclusively gunpowder ordinarily so called.

Definition of "nitrate-mixture" (class 2.)

3. The expression "nitrate-mixture", as used in these rules, means any preparation other than gunpowder, which is formed by the mechanical mixture of nitrate with any form of carbon or with any carbonaceous substance not possessed of explosive properties, whether sulphur be or be not added to such preparation, and whether such preparation be or be not mechanically mixed with any other non-explosive substance.

Nitrate-mixture includes, among other explosives,—

Chilworth special powder,	Ripp-Lone,
Fortis explosive,	Safety blasting powder, and Westfallite.

Definition and sub-division of "nitro-compound" (class 3).

4. (1) The expression "nitro-compound," as used in these rules, means any chemical compound which is possessed of explosive properties or is capable of combining with metals to form an explosive compound, and is produced by the chemical action of nitric acid (whether mixed or not with sulphuric acid), or of a nitrate mixed with sulphuric acid upon any carbonaceous substance, whether such compound is mechanically mixed with other substances or not.

(2) Nitro-compound shall, for the purposes of these rules, be sub-divided as follows' namely:

(a) Division 1, comprising—

(i) such explosives as—

Amberite No. 1,	Dynamite,
Ballistite,	Gelatine dynamite,
Blasting gelatine,	Geligniite,
Carbonite,	Lithofracteur,

Coopal's powder,	Picric powder,
Cotton gunpowder,	Roburite,
E. C. powder,	Sawdust and gun-cotton powder,
Gun-cotton ordinarily so-called,	Schultz's powder, and Tonite (or cotton powder), and

(ii) any nitro-compound, as hereinbefore defined, which is not comprised in Division 1.

Definition and sub-division of "chlorate-mixture" (class 4).

5. (1) The expression "chlorate-mixture," as used in these rules, means any explosive containing a chlorate.

(2) Chlorate-mixture shall, for the purposes of these rules, be sub-divided as follows, namely:

(a) Division 1, comprising—

(i) such explosives as—

Horsley's blasting powder, and Brain's blasting powder, and

(ii) any chlorate preparation which consists partly of nitro-glycerine or of some other liquid nitro-compound, and

(b) Division 2, comprising—

(i) such explosive as—

Horsley's original blasting powder,	Hochstadter's blasting charges,
Erhardt's powder,	Reichen's blasting charges,
Reveley's powder,	Teutonite, and

Chlorated gun-cotton, and

*NOTE.—(a) Picric acid mixed with not less than half its own weight of water shall be exempt from being deemed to be an explosive.

(b) Picric acid which does not fall within the exemption (a) when the quantity does not exceed two thousand pounds in any one ship, boat, carriage, building or place, shall be exempt from being deemed to be an explosive; provided that such picric acid is so kept and conveyed as not to be liable, whether under the action of fire or otherwise, to come in contact with any substance specified in the schedule hereto, or with any fire or light capable of igniting such picric acid.

Provided also that such picric acid when dry is so packed in a substantial barrel or case that the contents cannot escape; and that no metal other than aluminium, or an alloy containing not less than ninety per centum of aluminium, is used in the construction of any package containing such picric acid, and that each barrel or case is legibly marked "Picric Acid."

Picric acid when not subject to the above exemptions must be packed and marked as laid down in rule 9 of these rules.

Picrates and mixture of picric acid with any other substance (for whatever purpose used or manufactured) shall be deemed to be explosives subject to the following exceptions:—

(a) A picrate mixed with not less than half its own weight of water shall be exempt from being deemed to be an explosive.

(b) Picric acid thoroughly mixed with not less than three times its own weight of—

(i) anhydrous sulphate of soda,

(ii) crystallised sulphate of soda, when packed in hermetically closed packages, or shall be exempt from being deemed to be an explosive.

(iii) potash alum,

Schedule.

Any of the following metals or metallic oxides, namely, lead, oxide of lead, oxide of iron, potash, baryta, lime, soda, oxide of zinc, oxide of copper; and any compound of such metal or oxide (other than a metallic sulphate); or any chlorate, nitrate, or other oxidizing agent; or any other substance declared by a Notification of the Government of India to be capable of forming with picric acid a dangerous compound;

Provided that this schedule shall not be deemed to include any metal, or oxide unavoidably formed on any metal used in the construction of any ship, boat, or carriage, or contained in any paint, where the packages containing picric acid are protected from direct contact with such metal or paint.

(ii) any chlorate-mixture, as hereinbefore defined, which is not comprised in Division 1.

Definition and sub-division of "fulminate" (class 5).

6. (1) The expression "fulminate," as used in these rules, means any chemical compound or mechanical mixture, whether included in any of the foregoing definitions or not, which, from its great susceptibility to detonation, is suitable for employment in percussion-caps or any other appliance for developing detonation, or which, from its extreme sensibility to explosion and from its great instability (that is to say, readiness to undergo decomposition from very slight exciting causes), is especially dangerous.

(2) Fulminate shall, for the purposes of these rules, be sub-divided as follows, namely:

(a) Division 1, comprising such compounds as the fulminates of silver and of mercury, and preparations of those substances, such as are used in percussion-caps, and any preparation consisting of a mixture of a chlorate with phosphorus, or certain descriptions of compounds of phosphorus, with or without the addition of carbonaceous matter, and any preparation consisting of a mixture of a chlorate with sulphur, or with sulphuret, with or without carbonaceous matter; and

(b) Division 2, comprising such substances as the chloride and the iodide of nitrogen, fulminating gold and silver, diazobenzol, and the nitrate of diazobenzol.

Definition of "ammunition," "percussion-cap," "detonator," "safety fuze" and "safety cartridge," and sub-division of "ammunition" (class 6).

7. (1) The expression "ammunition," as used in these rules, means any explosive included in any of the foregoing definitions, when the same is enclosed in any case or contrivance, or is otherwise adapted or prepared, so as to form—

(a) a cartridge or charge for small-arms, cannon or any other weapon, or for blasting, or

(b) a safety or other fuze for blasting or for shells, or

(c) a tube for firing explosives, or

(d) a percussion-cap, a detonator, a fog-signal, a shell, a torpedo, a war-rocket, or any other contrivance other than a firework.

(2) The expression "percussion-cap," as used in these rules, does not include a detonator.

(3) The expression "detonator," as used in these rules, means a capsule or case which is of such strength and construction, and contains fulminate in such quantity, that the explosion of one capsule or case would communicate the explosion to other like capsules or cases.

(4) The expression "safety fuze" as used in these rules, means a fuze for blasting which burns and does not explode, and which does not contain its own means of ignition, and which is of such strength and construction, and contains an explosive in such quantity, that the burning of such fuze would not communicate laterally with other like fuzes.

(5) The expression "safety cartridge," as used in these rules,—

(i) means a cartridge for small-arms, the case of which can be extracted from the small-arm after firing, and which is so closed as to prevent any explosion in one cartridge being communicated to other cartridges; and

(ii) includes a rifle calibre machine-gun cartridge, if it is as described in clause (i) whether it is for use with a machine-gun having chambers identical with those of rifles or with a machine-gun having special chambers.

Provided that the diameter of the cartridge in either case (i) or case (ii) does not exceed one inch.

(6) Ammunition shall, for the purpose 3 of these rules, be sub-divided as follows, namely:

(a) Division 1, comprising exclusively—

Safety cartridges,
Safety fuzes for blasting,
Railway fog-signals, and Percussion-caps; and

(b) Division 2, comprising any ammunition, as hereinbefore defined, which does not contain its own means of ignition and is not included in Division 1, such as—

Cartridges for small-arms, other than safety cartridges,
Cartridges and charges for cannon, shells, mines, blasting or other like purposes,
Shells and torpedoes containing any explosive,
Fuzes for blasting, other than safety fuzes,
Fuzes for shells,
Tubes for firing explosives, and War-rockets,

which do not contain their own means of ignition; and

(c) Division 3, comprising any ammunition, as hereinbefore defined, which contains its own means of ignition and is not included in Division 1, such as—

Detonators,
Cartridges for small-arms, which are not safety cartridges,
Fuzes for blasting, which are not safety fuzes,
Fuzes for shells, and Tubes for firing explosives, containing their own means of ignition,

Explanation.—The expression "ammunition containing its own means of ignition" means ammunition, having an arrangement, whether attached to or forming part of the ammunition, which is adapted to explode or fire the ammunition by friction or percussion.

Subdivision "firework" 7).

8. Firework shall, for the purposes of these rules, be subdivided as follows, namely:

(1) Division 1, comprising firework compositions, that is to say,—

(a) any chemical compound or mechanically mixed preparation of an explosive or inflammable nature, which is used for the purpose of making manufactured fireworks, and is not included in any of the foregoing definitions.
(b) any star, and
(c) (except as declared in the proviso to this rule) any coloured fire composition; and

(2) Division 2, comprising manufactured fireworks, that is to say, any explosive of class 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, or 6 and any firework composition, when such explosive or composition is enclosed in any case or contrivance, or is otherwise manufactured so as to form a squib, cracker, toy cap or amorce, serpent, rocket (other than a war-rocket), maroon, lance, wheel, Chinese fire, Roman candle, or other article specially adapted for the production of pyrotechnic effects or pyrotechnic signals or sound signals:

Provided that a substantially constructed and hermetically closed metal case containing not more than one pound of coloured fire composition of such a nature as not to be liable to spontaneous ignition shall be deemed to be a "manufactured firework" and not a "firework composition."

TRANSPORT.

Packing of explosives for conveyance.

9. The following general rules shall be observed with respect to the packing of explosives for conveyance.

(1) Unless the context otherwise requires—the expression "outer package" means a box, barrel, case or cylinder, of wood, metal or other solid material, of such strength, construction and character that it will not be broken or accidentally opened, nor become defective or insecure whilst being conveyed, and will not allow any explosive to escape; the expression "inner package" means a substantial case, bag, canister or other receptacle, made and closed so as to prevent any explosive from escaping;
the expression "authorized explosive" means exclusively an explosive included in a List of Authorized Explosives prepared by the Chief Inspector of Explosives with the Government of India and published annually in the Gazette of India, and in force for the time being;
the expression "propellant" means an authorized explosive of class 3 adapted and intended exclusively for use as a propelling charge in cannon or small arms; and the expression "special authority" means a written authority granted by the Chief Inspector of Explosives, to which may be attached such conditions as may, in the opinion of the Chief Inspector of Explosives, be necessary to meet the special requirements of the case.

(2) The interior of every package shall be free from grit and otherwise clean.
(3) Save as hereinafter provided, there shall not be any iron or steel in the construction of any package unless the same is covered with suitable material so as effectually to prevent the exposure of such iron or steel.
(4) Every package when actually used for the packing of one explosive shall not be used for the packing of any other explosive or any other article or substance.
Provided that this rule shall not prevent the packing of inner packages containing a propellant in an outer package with inner packages containing gunpowder or another propellant.

Provided also that this rule shall not prevent the packing any article which is not of an inflammable or explosive nature, or liable to cause fire or explosion, in the same package as an explosive of the 1st Division of the 6th (ammunition) class.

I.—No explosive shall be conveyed from place to place unless packed in the manner provided for in the foregoing rules.

II.—There shall not be conveyed in any carriage or vessel which is being used for the conveyance of an explosive, any explosive of a different class and division, of whatsoever nature, which contains its own means of ignition, unless it is sufficiently separated therefrom to prevent any fire or explosion which may take place in one such explosive being communicated to another.

III.—Except in the case of small consignments carried by railway which may be unloaded at any time, explosives shall be loaded or unloaded only between sunrise and sunset. For the purposes of this rule no consignment of more than half a wagon-load booked to one station shall be deemed to be a small consignment.

IV.—Whilst the explosive is being loaded on or unloaded out of any carriage or vessel, no fire or artificial light, or any article which is liable to cause or communicate fire or explosion [such as charcoal, lucifer matches, articles for striking a light, petroleum to which the Indian Petroleum Act, 1899 (VIII of 1899), or any other Act for the time being in force regarding the importation, possession, and transport of petroleum, applies, or any spirit or oil or substance that gives forth an inflammable vapour at a temperature below 100° Fahrenheit] shall be, or shall be allowed to be, brought, had or used dangerously near to such carriage, ship, or boat, and no smoking shall be allowed in, on, or dangerously near to, the same:

V.—In the loading or unloading of any explosive, the casks and packages containing the same shall be passed from hand to hand and not rolled upon the ground; they shall not be thrown or dropped down, but shall be carefully deposited and stowed.

VI.—The explosive shall not be conveyed except in the interior of a carriage so enclosed on all sides with wood or metal, or in the hold of a ship or boat having a close deck so closed, as effectually to protect the explosive against accident by fire from without. If the explosive cannot be so secured, it shall be completely covered with painted cloth, tarpaulin, or other suitable material so as to effectually protect it against communication of fire.

VII.—There shall not be any iron or steel in the interior of the portion of the carriage or vessel with which the case containing the explosive is or may come in contact, unless the same is effectually covered with leather, wood, cloth, or other suitable material.

VIII.—In the stowing of the explosive, due precautions shall be taken by means of a partition or otherwise and by careful stowing to secure such explosive from being brought into contact with, or endangered by, any other article or substance conveyed in such carriage or vessel which is liable to cause fire or explosion; and if the explosive is dangerously affected by water, due precautions shall be taken to exclude water from coming into contact with such explosive.

IX.—The amount of the explosives conveyed in any one carriage or vessel at any one time shall not exceed 2,000 lbs. unless the carriage be so enclosed on all sides with wood or metal, or the vessel have a close deck so closed, as effectually to protect the explosive against accident by fire from without, in which case the amount of the explosives conveyed shall not exceed the following:*

Provided that this prohibition shall not apply in respect of quantities of explosives of class 1 (gunpowder class) or class 3 (nitro-compound class) not exceeding 5 lbs. in weight.

13. The following rules shall be observed with respect to the convayence of explosives by public railways: Conveyance by public railways.

In each van used by the railway for the transport of gunpowder the packages of gunpowder shall be secured in such a way as to prevent concussion when the train is in motion.

IV.—An explosive shall be removed by the consignee from the receiving station during the twelve hours of daylight after arrival: if this condition is not strictly complied with, the Railway Administration may return the consignment to the consignor at his risk and expense. And such packages shall in the meanwhile be kept as far away from the station buildings as possible, in the wagon they were conveyed in, or, if unloaded, shall be completely covered with tarpaulins or other suitable material, and if necessary, shall be protected by a police guard.

V.—The Railway Administration may refuse to receive any packages which they suspect to contain any explosive packed or sent in contravention of these regulations. And in case any package, which the Railway Administration suspect, shall be upon any railway, the Railway Administration may open, or require to be opened, such package to ascertain the fact, that the risk and expense of the consignor and may return the explosive contained in the package to the consignor at his risk and expense, keeping the packages, pending such return in the manner prescribed in the preceding rule.

(d) Sporting gunpowder or non-safety cartridges packed in double cases as before provided, so long as the gunpowder is contained in one-pound tin canisters packed in a stout wooden case with an outer covering of tin or zinc completely spark-proof, or in metal-lined cases of a pattern approved by the Railway Administration. But no outer case shall contain more than 25 lbs. of gunpowder, and the total consignment of gunpowder or non-safety cartridges by one train shall not exceed 80 lbs.

(e) Explosives may be carried by mixed trains on any line on which goods trains are not running, subject to the conditions that they are loaded in properly constructed powder vans; that not more than one powder-van containing explosives is forwarded at any one time by a mixed train; that there are not less than three vehicles between the powder-van and either the engine or the passenger coaches; that the powder-van is close coupled to the adjoining vehicles; and that directly a powder-van containing explosives arrives at a section on which goods trains are running, it is detached from the mixed train.

VII.—Not more than five carriages containing explosives shall be loaded or unloaded at any railway station, or be conveyed by any one train at any one time; and the quantity of explosive to be contained in any one carriage shall not exceed two-thirds of the normal load, unless the carriages shall be specially built and approved by the Railway Board for the conveyance of explosives. But nothing in this clause shall be held to apply to separate consignments of safety cartridges for small arms.

IX.—The consignor shall attach to the consignment note a certificate or (provided the original is produced for verification) copy of a certificate signed by an officer authorized by the Local Government in this behalf that the explosive, if it is an explosive of class 3 or 4, is of the standard purity; and further in the case of dynamite, and all nitro-glycerine compounds, that there are no signs of exuded nitro-glycerine or of liquefaction. The consignor shall also certify that the explosive has been packed in accordance with the packing rules in force in England or in British India.

X.—In the case of explosives under classes 3 and 4, the outer packages shall be marked with the date of the manufacture of the explosives. The abovementioned certificate shall contain sufficient information to admit of all packages being easily recognised.

XI.—The certificate referred to in Rule 13 (IX) shall be valid for six months after date, if the examination has been made between the 15th October and 31st March, but any Railway Administration which accepts dynamite and other nitro-glycerine compounds for transport may demand a fresh certificate for these explosives, if presented for conveyance between 1st April and 15th October (both exclusive).

But in the case of safety cartridges, for small arms packed in tin-lined service pattern boxes, there is no restriction. Subject to the provisions of Rule 11 (III), the loading and unloading of explosives when once begun shall be diligently proceeded with until the same is completed.

XVII.—When the train is being marshalled, wagons loaded with the explosives may be shunted by a locomotive, if they are separated from the engine by not less than three wagons containing no explosive nor easily inflammable substance. This precaution is not necessary with wagons specially constructed for the carriage of explosives. The speed of these movements shall be restricted to five miles an hour; they shall be superintended by a duly authorised officer, who shall be held responsible for the observance of these orders. Flying shunts are strictly prohibited

XVIII.—Wagons containing explosives shall be placed at the end of the train away from the locomotive, and shall be close coupled to one another as well as to the adjoining wagons, and shall be preceded and followed by three wagons not loaded with explosives or other traffic of an inflammable nature.

XXI.—All operations connected with the transhipment of explosives at junction stations shall take place during daylight.
